CHATTELLE AGAIN.
He Chased a Girl on the St. Mary's
Mound—To be Given a Defence.
Stratford, November 1.—It appears this city narrowly escaped furnishing the victim for Almada Chatteille's viciousness instead of the Township of Elma. A young woman who works in the city, but who lives on the St. Mary's road, was chased by the fiend, but was frightened off by her screams. Efforts have been made to suppress the facts, the young woman not caring to figure in the case, but the facts have leaked out. Chatteille was evidently on his way from St. Mary's when he met the young woman in question returning home. It was just dusk and she had only passed Chowen's corner a short distance when she encountered Chatteille. The brute grabbed the young woman, and in a great fright screamed and began to run. Chatteille chased after her and snatched for her again, the woman feeling his hand almost clutch her dress. The young woman still screaming ran into a neighboring house, but when they came to look for the pursuer he had disappeared. Those who have had an opportunity of observing Chatteille do not doubt that he had caught his victim the St. Mary's road would have been the scene of one of his awful butcheries.

WILL PLEAD INSANITY.
Chatteille is to be defended, and as was expected the defence will be the plea of insanity. This action has been prompted by friends of the self-confessed murderer in St. Hyacinthe, who have written to a former resident of that vicinity now in Toronto. They have suggested that good counsel be engaged to defend the prisoner. The authorities at Stratford were apprised of this fact yesterday and H. M. East, a Toronto barrister, has been selected to undertake the task of defending the prisoner. He (East) will visit Chatteille himself some time this week, and will judge for himself as to the condition of the man's intellect. He has consented to undertake the defence provided he judges the fellow to have been irresponsible at the time of committing the murder. Chatteille's St. Hyacinthe friends claim he is insane, and should be put in prison as a dangerous lunatic, and not tried for a crime for which he is by nature not responsible.

PASSES HIS TIME IDLY.
The slogs set up against newspaper men by the authorities is still on, and the notice forbidding visitors to the jail under any pretence what-ever still greets the would-be entrant. There is really nothing to say about the man, however. He spends the time as the other prisoners do—in idleness. He eats heartily and sleeps as though the blackest crime ever committed in Canada was not laid at his door. Special watch is kept on him lest he should make an attempt on his life, for it is confidently believed that if given the least opportunity he would commit self-murder. Chatteille seems not to be possessed of any of the finer feelings, and apparently places no value whatever on his own life.

London, Nov. 1.—A despatch to the Daily News from Yalta says the Czar died at 1.30 p. m. His Majesty passed a sleepless night, the action of his heart weakening rapidly. The Czarina, though mentally exhausted, remained in attendance upon the Czar till the end came. The Duchess of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha, sister of the Czar, who made the journey by special train, travelling night and day, arrived at Livadia this morning—a few hours before his death.

ALEXANDER III, CZAR OF RUSSIA.

CONFIRMED.
The Standard also publishes the announcement that the Czar is dead. The death of the Czar is further confirmed by dispatches from Livadia to the Westminster Gazette, which paper appears on the streets with turned column rules.

HIS LAST MOMENTS.
Vienna, Nov. 1.—A despatch from Yalta says that at noon the action of the Czar's heart began to enfeeble rapidly. About half-past one unconsciousness supervened, and the action of the heart became intermittent and scarcely perceptible, until its pulsations ceased altogether.

FURTHER CONFIRMATION.
Paris, November 1.—Despatches from Livadia say the Czar died shortly before 2 o'clock. The news created a sensation here and aroused a general feeling of sorrow.

THE NEWS IN LONDON.
London, November 1.—The Foreign Office has received a despatch from the British Embassy at St. Petersburg, stating that the Czar's death occurred at 2.20. The announcement of the death was officially communicated by wire from Livadia to Marlborough House, the residence of the Prince of Wales, but no particulars were given.

THE KAISER HEARS THE NEWS.
Stettin, Nov. 1.—The Kaiser received news of the death of the Czar while dining with officers of the Grenadiers at Stettin. His Majesty immediately wired a message of condolence to the Czar with at Livadia.

FROM M. DE GIERS.
Washington, D. C., November 1.—Prince Catecaze, the Russian Minister, received the following telegram from the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs this afternoon: "St. Petersburg, November 1.—It has pleased our Lord to recall to Him our much beloved sovereign, Alexander III. died at Livadia this afternoon, the 20th October [first November], at 2.15. [Signed] De Giers." Prince Catecaze forwarded a copy of the telegram to the Department of State.

CALMLY AWAITED THE END.
Yalta, Nov. 1.—The Czar was told on Tuesday that he could live only a few days more. He listened composedly. During the rest of the day he passed off his time in disposing of his personal and family affairs. Then he calmly awaited the end with his consciousness broken only occasionally with short periods of coma. Yesterday morning he looked for the last time from the windows of his palace.

He was long silent. Then he said it was pleasant to feel that he could pass his last hours on Russian soil. Last night he had no sleep. He was racked constantly by violent coughing and hemorrhage. His heart grew so weak that it often seemed to have stopped beating. These distressing symptoms became more accentuated at ten o'clock this morning, but shortly afterward the Czar rallied slightly. He was fully conscious. He wished the sacrament to be given him in the presence of the family, and he received the viaticum with grateful fervor. An hour and a half later he was seized with violent spasms. It seemed as if death had come, but he rallied again, and at 12.30 he appeared to be free from pain. But the weakening heart beats and breathing told his physicians that the end was coming fast. He was conscious almost to the last moment. At 2.15 his eyes closed slowly, and he ceased breathing.

THE BODY
will be embalmed in Livadia to-night and will be exposed in the palace chapel for a day or two. Several state officials left St. Petersburg for Livadia this evening. According to the tentative arrangements made to-night the body will be conveyed aboard the imperial yacht Star to Odessa. It will be escorted by the whole Black Sea fleet, which has orders to assemble at once off Yalta. From Odessa the body will be taken on a special train to St. Petersburg and will be placed in the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul. The final ceremonies will be held probably in about two weeks.

PRAYING FOR HIS SOUL.
St. Petersburg, November 1.—The churches in Moscow and St. Petersburg have been thronged this afternoon and evening with men and women praying for the Czar's soul. The streets are unusually full, and everybody seems to be depressed. Near the churches many groups of weeping women have been gathering since nightfall. The crowds are quiet and mournful.

MOURNING IN PARIS.
Paris, November 1.—President Casimir-Perier sent messages of condolence this afternoon to St. Petersburg and Livadia. All the Ministers inscribed their names in the callers' book at the Foreign Embassy. Flags on all the Government buildings are at half-mast, and many of the buildings are draped with mourning.

ITALIAN SORROW.
Rome, November 1.—Premier Crispi and Baron Blanc, Minister of Foreign Affairs, called at the Russian Embassy this afternoon to express their sorrow over the death of the Czar. The Pope has sent a message of condolence to Livadia.

THE QUEEN DEEPLY MOVED.
London, November 1.—The Prince and Princess of Wales, who are on their way to Livadia, were at the last station this side of Vienna when they received the despatch announcing the Czar's death. The news did not reach Balmoral until seven o'clock this evening. The Queen was not surprised, as she had been informed of every phase of the Czar's illness. Nevertheless, she was deeply moved when she learned that the end had come. She sent a long telegram to the Czarina, and issued to the court officials the usual instructions as to mourning, which are to be published in an extra gazette. The Russian Embassy received its first official news of the Czar's death from Lord Kimberley, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who handed to Ambassador Sial a copy of the despatch sent from the British Embassy in St. Petersburg.

Several Ministers called at the Russian Embassy this afternoon.

EXPRESSIONS OF SORROW.
Berlin, November 1.—Friedrich Marschall von Bieberstein, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, called upon Count Schouvaloff this afternoon to offer his condolence. Contrary to expectations, the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland did not proceed to Livadia with the Prince and Princess of Wales, but left them at Vienna to return to Garmisch.

Copenhagen, Nov. 1.—Expressions of deep sorrow have come from all classes since the announcement of the Czar's death. A memorial service will be held to-morrow morning in the Russian Church. All the members of the royal family will be present.

Nice, Nov. 1.—All concerts, music hall performances and the municipal casino entertainments were suspended to-night out of respect for the Czar.

THE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.
London, Nov. 1.—The Daily News hears from St. Petersburg that the oath of allegiance was administered to-day to all troops in Cronstadt and St. Petersburg. Its Berlin correspondent says that the Grand Duke of Hesse and Prince Henry of Prussia will go to the funeral, the latter as Emperor William's representative.

MESSAGES OF CONDOLENCE.
Paris, Nov. 1.—The President sent the Czarina personal messages of condolence. M. Haneaux, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, sent a despatch expressing in the name of the Government the grief which the news of the Czar's death had caused in France. Premier Dupuy telegraphed to the prefects of the departments the order that their flags be draped in mourning and raised at half mast. This evening there is but one absorbing topic in the boulevards, cafes, clubs and theatres. If the President of the Republic were dead the expressions of regret could not be more general. The probable effect of the event upon the Russo-French alliance and the European situation in general is discussed by every one. The views are almost without exception optimistic. The belief is that Nicholas will adopt his father's policy. The Czar's death will be announced officially to the Deputies and Senators on Monday at the opening of the Chamber. Doubtless an address of condolence will be drawn up and passed by the Chambers. The Ministers will meet to-morrow to name delegates to the funeral and consider other matters in connection with the Czar's death. A requiem mass will be said in the Russian church to-morrow.

An official despatch received by the Russian embassy this evening says that the Czar died at 2.15 o'clock. Press despatches from St. Petersburg speak of the deep mourning throughout the city and great throngs in and around the churches. St. Isaac's Cathedral was draped before 8 o'clock this evening.

Le Jour, commenting on the death of the Czar, says:—Russia's grief arouses a painful response in France. The bulletins from Livadia have caused anguish to all patriots. France hopes ardently that the son will be worthy of his father. To a reporter of Le Jour ex-Minister Florentin said:—"I do not think the change will endanger our alliance with Russia. I am convinced that the Czar which will follow the course laid out by his father."

THE NEWS IN PARIS.
London, Nov. 1.—The Daily News correspondent in Paris says:—If the news had arrived earlier there would have been doubtless some spontaneous demonstration, as great crowds of workmen were abroad placing wreaths on the graves in the cemeteries in observance of All Saints' day. Despite the fact that the event was expected everybody seemed surprised, and hundreds gathered this evening in the Boulevard des Capucines to consult to the best way of showing their sympathy. It was agreed forthwith that they should procure flowers and convey them to the embassy. They found the shops in the vicinity sold out, and so the impulse died out. It is a rather odd fact that the news was known at the Auteuil race track long before the President was acquainted with it. The members of the Paris Press Club hastily summoned a meeting this evening, and resolved that their journals should appear with mourning borders to-morrow, and that the theatres should be closed.

LONDON BELLS TOLLING.
Muffled peals have been rung from some of the London churches; in others the bells have been tolled.

FRANCE'S STRONG AND LOYAL FRIEND.
Paris, Nov. 1.—The first news of the Czar's death came to Paris in an official despatch to the Foreign Office. It was simply that the Czar died at 1.55 p. m., and was conscious to the last. The despatch was shown at once to President Casimir-Perier. He read it and laid it down, and after a long silence said:—"He was France's strong and loyal friend." Signs of mourning have multiplied ever since the news was made public. La Presse, Le Jour and Le Soir issued special editions with black borders. All sold as rapidly as they could be brought to the street. The boulevards and newsmen were surrounded by eager crowds, struggling to buy papers before the supply was exhausted. La Presse's comment was:—"All French patriots will be grieved by this sad news. The mourning will extend throughout France. The Czar was a sincere partisan of peace and a devoted friend of our country. Our sorrow is unutterably deep, but there is no reason for despair, as the heir of Alexander III. will recognize the close bond uniting France and Russia. The sorrow of France will be the most convincing evidence to the son and sovereign that the union of nations, which for years has assured the peace, must remain and guarantee the peace in the future."

LONDON PRESS COMMENT.
In recalling the circumstances of Alexander III's accession to the throne, the Standard will say to-morrow:—"His life was one long martyrdom, which he bore with serene fortitude. That he kept his head clear and his judgment stable, argues his uncommon strength of character. The price has to be paid for this stern exercise of will power. It may readily be believed that the malady to which he succumbed had its origin in his dispossessions of heart and vexations of mind. We believe that the Franco-Russian friendship will be little affected by his death. His son Nicholas must move for a considerable time in the grooves of policy worn by others."

The Daily Chronicle will say:—"Death calls forth human and personal emotions before which all political and public considerations subside. For doing his utmost to preserve Europe from war millions who dearest his ideas and the nature of his rule will respect his memory. We devoutly
