THE QUEBEC ELECTION

The St. John Globe says:

Liberals throughout Canada will be encouraged by the decisive victory won by their party in the province of Quebec on Wednesday. It is true the election was not contested on federal issues. Hon. Mr. Gouin and the members of his government asked for their return to power again on the ground that they had carefully, effectively and honestly administered the affairs of the province. The Liberal press took this attitude, and stoutly maintained that federal questions did not enter into the contest.

There was an effort to make reciprocity an issue, but it did not succeed. The Conservative opposition had the hearty support of the Ottawa administration, and several of the cabinet ministers took the platform against Mr. Gouin. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on the other hand, spoke in favor of the government. The people of Quebec apparently viewed the contest as one of provincial concern only. Sir Lomer Gouin had given Quebec good government. He had carried out a progressive policy in every department of government and no good reason had been advanced by his opponents why he should be removed from power. He had strong support from English-speaking electors. Among other evidences of this fact was the course of the Political Action Committee of the Dominion Alliance in calling on "all good citizens to support the government candidates whose records and affiliations show that they are in harmony with the temperance policy of the Provincial government. The Nationalist movement does not seem to have made much impression on the electors. Possibly, the absence of Mr. Bourassa had something to do with that result. The fact remains, however, that the Conservative opposition gained little or no benefit from the Nationalist alliance. The government will have as large a majority in the next legislature as it had in the last House. The Liberals can congratulate themselves on the magnitude of the victory they have won, a victory which will give satisfaction to members of the party throughout the country.

INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY

Passenger traffic has increased to such an extent on the Intercolonial Railway that the Minister of Railways has fore-shadowed the inauguration of a Sunday train service on its main line. There may be, as he seems to expect, strenuous opposition to the introduction of such an innovation, but this will not detract from the value of Mr. Cochrane's admission that the business of the road has been steadily improving in spite of the keen competition of other railways. The people of the other Provinces will accept the increase of traffic as proof of the increasing prosperity of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Quebec, in which the Intercolonial Railway operates.

The announcement has been made there has been considerable surplus of revenue over expenditure on the operation of the Intercolonial Railway during the past traffic year. This may fairly be regarded as the outcome of Mr. Graham's successful administration of the system, which was extensively reorganized during his regime in the Department. The good work done by his predecessors, Mr. Blair and Mr. Emmerson, laid the foundation of the present satisfactory condition of the road, and that condition has been made still more efficient by taking the Intercolonial out of politics, according to the plan inaugurated and carried through by the late Minister, Mr. Graham.

The Bitter Chaff Removed

The men who blend, prepare and pack Red Rose Coffee know well what will please good judges of coffee. They crush—not grind—the fresh-roasted bean into small, even grains which brew readily and settle quickly to pour bright and clear. The chaff is removed, and with it the bitter essence you have disliked in other coffees. You will surely like

CURED OF DRINK BY SIMPLE REMEDY

A Devoted Wife Helps Her Husband to Cure Through Samaria Prescription

Mrs. S., of Trenton, was in despair. A loving father and careful provider when sober—her husband had gradually fallen into drinking habits, which were ruining his home, health and happiness. Drink had inflamed his stomach and nerves and created that unnatural craving that kills conscience, love and honor and breaks all family ties.

But read her letter:—
"I feel it my duty to say a few words about your tablets. As you are aware I sent and got a bottle, thinking I would try them in secret. My husband had only taken them a week when he told me he was going to Port Arthur for the summer, so I had to tell him all about the tablets.

He said he would take them just the same, so I sent and got another bottle for fear one would not be enough. He writes me saying that he has taken the contents of both bottles and he feels splendid, does not care for drink? In fact, he has not taken liquor from the first of my giving it to him.

I cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful remedy. Mrs. S.—Trenton, Ont.

Samaria Prescription stops the craving for drink. It restores the shaking nerves, improves the appetite and general health, and makes drink distasteful and even nauseous. It is used regularly by Physicians and Hospitals, and is a useless and needless dissolving instantly in coffee, or food.

Now, if you know any home on which the curse of drink has fallen, tell them of Samaria Prescription? If you have a husband, father, brother or friend on whom the habit is getting its hold, help him yourself. Write to day. A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE OF Samaria Prescription, with booklet, giving full particulars, testimonials, price etc. will be sent absolutely free postpaid in plain sealed package to any one asking for it and mentioning this paper. Correspondence Sincerely Confidential. Write today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of the Campbellton Graphic,

Dear Sir:—

In a late issue of your valuable paper I noticed a letter from Glencoe, signed "Farmer", protesting against the running of Automobiles every day in the week. Now Sir that's no use. The horseless carriage has come to stay. I have a horse that is so skittish that I can't take him to town on account of so many gasoline engines running wood-cutters or threshing-machines at farm homes close along the road, and they make such a hideous noise, worse than to automobiles, that I find it difficult to pass them. That's their business, however and I have no fault to find with them, but I will keep my foolish old horse at home and make him work on the farm, as I intend buying a large motor truck to haul my farm produce to town. I can easily make 4 or 5 trips every day and still have part of the day left to work at home. We farmers here have as much right to use motor carriages to do our work as the farmers all through Ontario and the United States. I think any man will require a good deal of nerve at the present time to try to get a law passed to keep the man with the motor car off the kings highway, even one day in the week, and at the same time allow the man with the skittish horse to use the same road every day. Use everybody alike. It would be equally foolish to allow one class of people to use their cars every day in the week and limit all others to five days. How is the silly horse to know whether the car he meets belongs to a doctor or a clergyman, or to somebody else. Besides this it is evident that our only hope for better roads in the country rests with the automobile owners. We have highway acts and we have had highway acts, but still our highways are sadly neglected. Ruts, holes, rocks and every kind of obstruction still exist and unless present conditions will continue to exist, one government is no more to blame for this state of things than another. It is the people themselves who apparently have been satisfied with the state of affairs. A general lack of interest in our roads on the part of the public in the cause. The automobile people however are now taking the matter up and it will be a very short time until something will be doing. It is in their own interest to do so, to save their cars from injury, and what will benefit them will benefit the whole travelling public.

Yours Respectfully,
Another Farmer.
