DALHOUSIE.

Dalhousie, April 6.—Following Mr. Michael McDade, of St. John, who addressed a town meeting, in English, in the Court House, here sometime ago Mr. P. P. Morris, at the request of Sir Douglas Hazen, spoke to a large meeting in Dalhousie, last week, fully explaining the War Thrift Stamp movement. Mr. LaBilais presided and in introducing the lecturer to the big audience, referred to the patriotism that had been displayed by the people of Dalhousie and the county of Restigouche in general, in men and money, to help fight the foe. He urged upon the people to invest their small savings in war stamps, to assist the government, to provide pensions for the widows, orphans, and disabled soldiers.

Mr. P. P. Morris, who speaks in public fluently, held the close attention of over 500 persons, who had assembled in the spacious Convent Hall, to hear him, during forty five minutes. He was frequently applauded, as he eloquently appealed to the people, who had not suffered from the effects of the war to economize and to do their bit.

By the conditions under which the ordinary war loans have been floated, a large part of the population was almost necessarily excluded from taking a share in this patriotic duty. The War Savings Thrift Stamp system renders it easy for every wage-earner to make at least some direct contribution to that important end.

But apart altogether from the important value of the system in this regard, it is in our interests as a people for the future, that greater economy be practised and that in a small way it is not too much to hope that the War Savings Stamp movement will help to make Canada a wealthy nation.

In strong terms he spoke of the system of economy in wages in many parishes, in the province of Quebec, and he was loudly cheered, when he gave facts and figures to show how France, had paid such a large indemnity to Germany, after the war of 1870, in comparatively a short time, due to the great saving system, that was practised by the people of France.
