The European Times says: There is also another cause of encouragement to the country, namely, that the potato crops are giving evidence of y from the blight. Fortunately the blackened stem does not always represent diseased potatoes; and on many fields the stem is putting forth new deaves, recovering health and gaining strength. We may further observed that the stem is exhibiting the same symptoms that in 1846 accompanied the disease in the pourso. Altogether the cause for despondency is not so great as it was a week and, and that is fully evidenced by the check which has been given to the advance in prices.
