THE HOUSEHOLD.

(Specially prepared for THE POST and TRUE WITNESS.)

[The Editress is prepared to answer all questions on matters connected with this Department.

EGGS AND THEIR USES.

For burns and scalds nothing is more soothing than the white of an egg, which may be poured over the wound. It is softer as a varnish than collodion, and being always at hand, can be easily applied. It is more cooling than the sweet oil and cotton which was formerly supposed to be the surest application to allay the smarting pain. The egg is considered to be one of the best of remedies for dysentery. Beaten up slightly, with or without sugar, and swallowed at gulp, it tends, by its emollient qualities, to lessen the inflammation of stomach and intestines, and by forming a transient coating on these organs, so enable nature to resume her healthful sway over a deceased body. Two, or at most three, eggs per day would be all that is required in ordinary cases; and since egg is not merely medicine, but food as well, the lighter the diet otherwise and the quieter the patient is kept the more certain and rapid is the recovery.

PICKLED OYSTERS.

A writer in a Chicago paper says:—In the days when New Years calling was much more a custom than now, a certain house had perhaps more than a fair share of popularity; this was not alone due to the charms of the hostess, but because, too, of the well-deserved celebrity of the "table," as in the old-fashioned days we called the refreshments served to the callers. The center dish was always a great bowl of pickled oysters, and these had a far-spread fame. Never a fair nor a supper for sweet charity's sake but this lady was begged to add her pickled oysters. Here is the recipe: Put 150 fine, large oysters in a porcelain kettle; strain the liquor over them; let them heat through slowly, but not come to a boil; add salt (a tablespoonful is not too much when oysters are fresh); when scalded skim the oysters out and add to the liquor three dozen pepper corns, three dozen cloves, a little mace, one-half pint vinegar, if very sharp, if not a little more; let it come to a hard boil; when cool pour over the oysters.

TRUFFLED SAUSAGES.

The formula for the preparation of truffled sausages is as follows:—Take three pounds of the lean meat of young, tender pork, chop and mince it as fine as fine can be, boil two pounds of calf's liver, and when cold mash it in a mortar to a smooth paste, moistening it with a little sherry. Mince also very small a quarter of a pound or more of truffles. Mix these well together with one pound of the best butter, season to your taste with salt, pepper, grated nutmeg, powdered mace, and a dessert spoonful of sweet herbs, dried and reduced to the finest powder, moisten all with a glass or two of Madeira wine, mix well together, and put the mixture into delicately clean skins; they are then ready for use. When about to serve, cut the sausage into slices about a third of an inch thick, lay them upon a dish in circular or oval form, the edge of one piece resting upon another, fill the centre of the dish with chopped meat jelly, in the centre of which lay a spig of fresh green parsley or a spray of delicate flowers, and round the outer edge of the dish make a ring of the same chopped jelly.

CRANBERRY JELLY.

Put into a large earthen pipkin two quarts of cranberries, and add sufficient water to just cover them, place them on a moderate fire and boil them until they are reduced to a soft pulp, then strain and press them through a fine hair sieve into an earthen or stoneware pan, and for each pint of liquid pulp allow one pound of pulverized sugar; mix the pulp and sugar together in a bright copper basin and boil, stirring constantly for ten or fifteen minutes, or until the mixture begins to coagulate upon the spatula, then remove it from the fire and fill your moulds; let them stand in a cool place to congeal. When wanted for use turn it out of the mould in the same manner as other jellies.

COMPOTE OF PEARS.

Half a dozen of those fine pears called the bartlett, will make a small dish worthy the attention of any good christian who has a sweet tooth in his head. Pare the fruit, cut out the cores, and squeeze lemon juice over them, which will prevent their discoloration. Boil them gently in enough simple syrup to cover them, till tender. Serve cold with syrup poured over them, and accompanied with Naples biscuit, which place round the dish.

SWALLOW'S NEST SOUP.

First obtain the swallow's nest, which can be purchased, the imported ones being the best. They are found in the rocks in China, and are of a hemispherical shape, about the size of a goose egg, and in substance resemble gelatine, being highly mucilaginous and delicately tasted, and after being cleaned are made into soup by being dissolved in boiling broth. In the East these nests are esteemed a great luxury and command a high price. They are now exported to other countries; quite a large number are received in San Francisco. Some of the best are as white as snow, and are worth two dollars each, while the light brown ones are worth only one dollar, and the black dirty ones, full of feathers and moss, can be obtained for a quarter. The swallow's nest, which is used for the purpose, weighs a quarter of an ounce or more. In making the soup one nest is allowed for each person. These are first soaked in cold water for twenty-four hours, then dried well with a cloth, opened carefully, and what feathers may be found removed. They are then washed in several changes of water and placed in boiling chicken stock, and allowed to simmer for three-quarter's of an hour. When ready to take from the fire add a little cayenne pepper, and a sufficient quantity of chicken stock to bring it to the consistency of rich cream. The latter must be made for the purpose very strong and clear, and a little salted.

SOMEWHAT SARCASTIC.

Puck, a New York comic journal, says: "If you wish a good, durable spring for the front gate, secure a boarding house steak, cut it in strips and fasten the ends together with wire. This will last several years, when the wire will give out. A single steak used in this way will last many years, and one has frequently been known to wear out as many as eight sets of wire."

BOUILLABAISSE.

The following is a receipt of the great Roubion, who has served the bouillabaisse to the Shah of Peisia, the Prince of Wales, and many other notable persons. "The first necessity for making bouillabaisse is to have perfectly fresh fish. In a wrought-iron stew-pan put one-half pint of the best and purest of olive oil, two tomatoes, an onion and a clove of garlic, all minced up together; three or four bay leaves dried, and a piece of dried orange peel; the various fish cut in pieces, pepper and salt according to taste; a glass of water for each person, that is to say, six. Put the stew-pan on a very brisk fire. The moment it boils add a pinch of saffron. Let it boil half an hour. Have prepared some slices of bread cut thin in a deep dish or tureen, over which pour the broth and serve it. Serve the fish apart in another dish, but eat the fish and broth together. Whiting, turbot, mullet, grunet, lobster (with discretion) make the best fish for bouillabaisse."

THE FARM.

THE FALLACY OF FIGURES.

It is easy to figure out that not one farm product is grown with profit; one may prove by lying statistics that it is a losing business to live at all, and that no economical man can afford to rear a family. When the interest on the cost of the farm, the time of the farmer, the value of the manure, the taxes on the house and on the woodland, and everything else are all charged to the crops, the farmer ought to be bankrupt; nevertheless, he finds a little money always in his pockets. There is a story of a mathematical captain who defeated armies and gained victories by computation, and farmers are ruined nowadays by crazy arithmetic, for every crop grown is shown to be raised at a loss. And yet we live along and no honest farmer gets acquainted with the Sheriff or ends his days in the poor house. Figuring is often fallacious. A neighbor said to me. "I can't raise wheat at a profit; I must buy my flour." The wife said, "It doesn't pay to make our bread, we must get it from the baker." Four pounds of bread costs 10 cents. One-half of it is water. The bread thus costs 5 cents a pound. At this rate a barrel of flour or five bushels of wheat equals $10; $50 a year is spent for bread; $50 worth of bread could be made, and $50 would be in pocket every year. This is a computation the other way, and is just and right, with no fallacy, and only hard facts about it. The same sort of computation proves to me that I can grow corn for 15 cents a bushel, But I doubt if doleful Dr. Loring could grow it for $1.50. He is, therefore, not a sound adviser for New England farmers.—[Triticum in New York Tribune.

DIBBLINGS.

One ton of bran fed with two tons of hay is said to be worth as much as four tons fed alone.

Do not send any turkeys to market until they have been first penned up and fattened. It adds to both the weight and price.

Sulphur and old tobacco leaves burned in the poultry house, the house being closed perfectly tight, will clean out the red lice.

Be careful in feeding new corn. The old, well-dried corn should be fed first, so as to give the new corn as much time as possible for drying.

A German cattle food, which had a large sale, was found to contain vegetable ivory turnings 88 parts and common salt 12 parts in 100 parts; value, nil.

White fowls when dressed for the market do not show pin-feather marks as do the black breeds. This is a point in their favor which is worth considering.

When the hurry of farm work ceases in autumn there are many opportunities to make improvements, for which the season is favorable and the time propitious.

Not only does the linden tree produce honey in great abundance, but its quality is regarded by many as equal, if not superior, to that yielded by white clover.

Clean out wells during dry seasons. No matter how well covered they may be, the chances are that toads will be found in them. It is important to have such work done every year if a supply of pure, clean water is desired.

Milking should be done and milk should be kept only where the surrounding air is pure and free from all objectionable and tainting odors. Milking in a foul-smelling stable or yard affects the fluid and imparts an injurious taint.

It is a mistake to keep poultry on heavy, cold land or in a moist place. The dampness is sure to create disease which is always difficult to avoid or cure. Chickens for fattening should be fed plentifully with corn, coarse ground corn meal with a few boiled vegetables. But to fatten them to advantage it will be necessary to confine them in a small yard with a sunny exposure and located on warm dry land.

It is said that raw bone has been proved by analysis to contain every part of an egg—white, yolk, and, of course, shell. It should be constantly kept in a special place in the pen or apartment of laying hens, as they will consume large quantities of it, and it goes chiefly in egg production. Granulated is the best form in which to place it before adult fowls, and in this shape it keeps fresh longer than when ground into meat. Bone is one of the principal ingredients in the composition of most of the egg foods in the market.

An interesting experiment showing the influence of electricity on the growth of roots has been made in Germany by Professor Holdefleisz. Plates of copper were thrust upright into the earth and connected by wires with similarly placed zinc plates about one hundred feet distant, an electric battery being thus formed, with the earth between the copper and zinc in the circuit. Both potatoes and beets planted between such plates gave an increased yield—beets 15 per cent., potatoes 25 per cent.—as compared with the other parts of the same field.

The Devon, says the Stockman, is not considered the best breed for beef, milk, or butter; yet it combines all those qualities to a certain extent, and, considering its hardiness, activity, and ability to exist on scanty pasture, it is really one of the most desirable of our breeds. As work oxen the Devons are superior to all other cattle, being rapid walkers, strong and enduring. If we were asked to recommend some special breed for crossing on natives that are accustomed to picking up their food in the woods, or on abandoned fields, with steep hillsides to climb, we do not think any breed could compare with the Devons for that purpose.

COMSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N.Y. [11—19eow]

THE FATE OF KHARTOUM.

AN ALLEGED LETTER FROM THE MAHDI DESCRIBING THE END OF GORDON.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The New York Herald's correspondent writes that he has just received through Sir John Kirk, the British Consul-General to Zanzibar, the following copy of a letter from the Mahdi to his General of Equatorial, Africa, giving detail of the capture of Khartoum. The letter, which is dated April 28, runs as follows:—

"I inform you, my dear friend, that according to the fulfilled promise of God the city of Khartoum was entered by the help of God," January 29th, 1885. "At day break, through the helpers of our religion, who were ready and jumped over the ditches, acting upon the command of the Lord, who rules the whole world. It was in a quarter of an hour or less that they came upon the enemies of the Lord, there cutting them off even from the beginning to the end of them. Notwithstanding they were strong with their arms of strength, they fled away before the troops of God. Though, thinking to obtain safety by entering their enclosures and shutting the doors, they were met face to face and hewn with swords and stabbed with spears until their cries were terrible They were cut in pieces at once there upon the ground. Then the troops of God fell upon the rest of the people who had shut their doors fearing a like fate. They were taken and killed properly, and none were left but little children and slaves. But, as to the enemy of God, Gordon, though we had warned him and talked kindly to him that he might return to God, yet he never did so, because his miserable state was pre-ordained by God. Because of his foolishness he was removed by God to the place of his wrath, which is a bad place to remain in. The end of this guilty people is that they were cut off, for which thanks be to God. This befalls those who are to receive fire as their reward, while the light is reserved for those who shall receive heaven as their dwelling place. There are ten persons only who were killed in this holy strife for Khartoum. The rest of our people received neither wound nor hurt. All has happened by the Providence of God, and we bow our heads in thanks to God for the help received from him. May you also do so. Bow your heads to God and thank His Holy name."

This letter is sealed by the Mahdi, and was the first information that Emin Pasha had of Gordon's death and the fall of Khartoum. In fact it is the first official information England has received of Gordon's death.

A MINISTER IN PERIL.

A BAPTIST PASTOR AT NASHVILLE IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE FROM HIS ANGRY CONGREGATION.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21.—For some months past the First Colored Baptist church of this city has been involved in a quarrel, which arose from the calling of R. T. Huffman, of Louisville, to the pastorate. The intelligent part of the congregation opposed calling him on account of his bad character in Louisville, but were overruled, and Huffman came. He was soon accused of improper conduct toward the women of the church. He had an unaccountable influence over the ignorant portion of the congregation, however, and managed to hold on. It was announced that he would preach on "Rattlesnakes" on Sunday night, and as this was considered personal to his enemies, a large congregation gathered. He, however, postponed the sermon until to-night. The church to-night was packed with Hoffman's armed adherents, and an angry mob surged outside the building. Hoffman, on advice, did not preach his rattlesnake sermon. As he left the church the mob surged towards him. He drew two pistols and fired into the crowd, but no one is known to be hurt. Shots were returned and Hoffman fled to the church. He escaped through a back window, but the crowd, thinking he is inside, are still there threatening to burn the house to get at him.

HE PAID THE PENALTY.

AN OHIO MURDERER MEETS JUSTICE AT THE HANDS OF JUDGE LYNCH.

EATON, Ohio, December 21.—Wm. Mussel, murderer of Daniel Christman, was brought here to-day. Arriving at the jail a mob of 500 attempted to take him from the officers but were driven back. To-night a crowd assailed the jail successfully, and at 8.15 had Mussel's dead body dangling from an electric light pole in front of the court house. At the sight the crowd indulged in cheers and hand-clapping. The ceremony was conducted by the best citizens of the town. The body was left hanging an hour, during which time hundreds of women and children gathered to see it. It was then cut down and given to the undertaker. Mussel's crime was the killing of Daniel Christman, an aged and respected farmer living near Eaton, and the attempted killing of Mrs. Christman on the night of December 7. Mussel had been employed that day by Christman to do some work, and after going to bed got up and went out. Christman becoming anxious went out after him. Mrs. Christman then saw Mussel strike her husband dead with an axe. He came to the house, and, beating her to insensibility, robbed the house of a few dollars, set the bed on fire and fled. Mrs. Christman recovered and put out the fire and is still living.

A JINGO SPEECH.

ENGLAND AND HER COLONIES ABLE TO DEFY THE ASSOCIATED POWERS OF EUROPE.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Right Hon. Edward Clarke, Q.C., solicitor-general, made a stirring speech in the city to-night. Referring to the mad rivalry of the continental nations in increasing their armies and armaments, he said that the standing armies of Europe were a scandal and disgrace to civilization and a perpetual menace to the peace of the world. They were an intolerable burden to the toiling people, and at the present time, when diplomatic relations were strained, they were exciting the nations of Europe, and their constant augmentation portended an early disturbance of peace. Her Majesty's Government, he said, were endeavoring to assuage the jealousies of the powers and to avert that frightful calamity, a European war. England would not embark on reckless and adventurous experiments, but would always defend the interests and honor of the country. Not in great standing armies did England find her chief strength, but as a guardian of the liberties of Europe she would have the support of Australia, Canada and her kinsmen in the United States. There was nothing to fear: if England had to embark in a war, she would find in her distant colonies and dependencies a strength that would enable her, even if unsupported by allies, to defy the associated powers of Europe.

DISTRESS IN LONDON.

THE LORD MAYOR'S COMMITTEE SAYS THAT EXISTING RELIEF IS SUFFICIENT TO MEET IT.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The committee appointed by the Lord Mayor to find out what can be done to relieve the great distress here has made its first report. It thinks that no public fund nor any departure from the existing system of relief is called for. The London Socialists are not pleased by this report, and they are in earnest. On New Year's day, if the plan is carried out, several thousand unemployed men, with their wives and families, will march to the poor houses and relief agencies, and make it plain that a change is needed, or that new wings should be added to the poor houses at least. West end tradesmen, who are made anxious and unhappy by the demonstrations of the poor, have met and told what they want as well as they are able. They want the police to prevent anybody from meeting in Trafalgar square, and plead as a reason for this demand the expense and annoyance of boarding up their windows, in addition to the personal risk and the increased insurance rates. The proposal to turn the stony, flag-covered surface of Trafalgar square into a surface covered with grass and flowers is being trotted out, and is anxiously discussed again, the idea being to make it impossible for the Socialists to meet there without treading on the grass.

"UNITED IRELAND" SPEAKS OUT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—United Ireland says: "The only effect of the government's proclaiming the "plan of campaign," is to increase the attraction of the scheme by the spice of contraband." The same paper says four letters, addressed to its editor, and recently received, evidently have been opened at the post office. United Ireland also says every official at Dublin Castle who copies or inspects any document is obliged to make a return of the name of every person who has had access to said document.
