Health Haunts of the Riviera and South-West of France.

By ROBERT HERBERT STORY, D.D.

"Another book upon Southern France and the north shore of the Mediterranean which deserves more than a passing notice, is Dr. Story's admirable little handbook entitled Health Haunts of the Riviera. This volume, like all good books, is strictly unpretentious, but it is written with a clear incisive style, a directness and pungency and originality which is as refreshing as it is rare in these days of book-making. The writer possesses, with a very keen sense of observation and description, a happy flow of humour which gives spirit to every page, and fresh life to the interesting things he has to say about Cannes and Nice and Pau and Biarritz and Archachón and their environs. . . ."—Harper's Monthly Magazine.

The Verse and Miscellaneous Prose

OF

ALEXANDER WILSON,

The Ornithologist of America,

EDITED, WITH MEMORIAL-INTRODUCTION AND NOTES,

By THE REV. ALEXANDER B. GROSART, LL.D.

"We can conceive nothing more welcome than these two volumes."—Literary World.

"Nothing can exceed the care and industry Mr. Grosart has expended in gathering together his materials."—Scotsman.

"WILSON may not be a Scotch poet of the calibre of Burns, but it is something to have roused the rivalry of Audubon, to have earned the encomiums of Michelet, and to be placed in the same scientific list with White and Miller."—Spectator.

"Scotland has reason to be proud of him, alike as a writer and a man. No Scotchman who values the literature of his country will be without Dr. Grosart's edition."—Daily Review.

... The two volumes with which we have been dealing present by far the most complete picture yet sent forth of Wilson the poet and Wilson the Ornithologist. Here he appears as he lived—a man possessed of genuine gifts and tender feeling, allied to indomitable perseverance, unflagging power of endurance, and the still rarer virtue of thorough simplicity in character."—Glasgow Herald.
