

INDEX OF FIRST LINES.

455

| PAGE | PAGE |
|------|--|
| 301 | I seldom ponder the "future life" . . . 317 |
| 401 | I send thee pansies while the year . . . 96 |
| 152 | is young 359 |
| 266 | I stood and watched my ships go . . . 303 |
| 153 | out 126 |
| 154 | I think till I weary with thinking . . . 51 |
| 250 | I told my secret to the sweet wild . . . 52 |
| 319 | roses 227 |
| 334 | I wants a piece of talito 425 |
| 360 | I wants to mend my wagon 67 |
| 294 | "I was born in Indiany," says a . . . 427 |
| 430 | stranger lank and slim 433 |
| 37 | I was not patient in that olden . . . 265 |
| 116 | time 435 |
| 192 | I was takin' off my bonnet 67 |
| 118 | I wonder now if any one 427 |
| 104 | I wud knot dye in wintur 433 |
| 438 | I wus mighty good-lookin' when I . . . 433 |
| 173 | wus young 109 |
| 160 | I'm hastening from the distant . . . 437 |
| 143 | hills 45 |
| 128 | I'm thankful that the sun and . . . 438 |
| 175 | moon 238 |
| 332 | I'se a poor little sorrowful baby . . . 211 |
| 81 | I've got him, at last, in the focus . . . 290 |
| 153 | If all our life were one broad glare . . . 223 |
| 131 | If I could frame for you in cunning . . . 309 |
| 62 | words 442 |
| 229 | If I could see with a midge's eyes . . . 290 |
| 446 | If I had known in the morning . . . 223 |
| 248 | If I should die to-night 309 |
| 157 | If I the reasons well divine 442 |
| 424 | If light should strike through . . . 129 |
| 210 | every darkened place 261 |
| 283 | If some great angel spoke to me . . . 261 |
| 277 | to-night 253 |
| 270 | If the world seems cool to you . . . 253 |
| 434 | If this were all — oh! if this were . . . 256 |
| 190 | all 355 |
| | If thou dost bid thy friend farewell . . . 207 |
| | If we knew the woe and heart-ache . . . 72 |
| | In search from A to Z they passed . . . 72 |
| | In silence mighty things are . . . 238 |
| | wrought 101 |
| | In spring, when branches of wood- . . . 194 |
| | bine 400 |
| | In the best chamber of the house . . . 194 |
| | In the Diamond Shaft worked . . . 400 |
| | Gentleman Jim 356 |
| | In the light of the moon, by the . . . 171 |
| | side of the water 77 |
| | In the old and ruined mansion . . . 421 |
| | In the rush of the merry morning . . . 421 |
| | In the smoke of my dear cigarito . . . 421 |

| PAGE | PAGE |
|------|--|
| 57 | In the soft falling twilight 304 |
| 304 | Into all lives some rain must fall . . . 208 |
| 208 | Is it parting with the roundness . . . 142 |
| 142 | "Is it true?" — that's the doubt- . . . 141 |
| 141 | ful suggestion 141 |
| 141 | Is it true, then, my girl? did you . . . 153 |
| 153 | mean it 54 |
| 153 | Is love contagious? — I don't know . . . 445 |
| 54 | Is the house turned topsy-turvy? . . . 261 |
| 445 | Is there a lady in the land 399 |
| 261 | Is the road very dreary? 378 |
| 399 | It was an English summer day 351 |
| 378 | Just read this letter, old friend of . . . 79 |
| 351 | mine 313 |
| 79 | King Frederick, of Prussia, grew . . . 357 |
| 313 | nervous and ill 240 |
| 357 | Lamar and his Rangers camped at . . . 256 |
| 240 | dawn 235 |
| 256 | Lay me low, my work is done 249 |
| 235 | Lean closer, darling, let thy tender . . . 246 |
| 249 | heart 395 |
| 246 | Learn to wait — life's hardest les- . . . 422 |
| 395 | son 147 |
| 422 | "Let earth give thanks," the dea- . . . 26 |
| 147 | con said 180 |
| 26 | Life hath its barren years 125 |
| 180 | Life is a burden to every one's . . . 182 |
| 125 | shoulder 244 |
| 182 | Listening, yearning 329 |
| 244 | Listen to the water-mill 361 |
| 329 | List to a tale well worth the ear . . . 69 |
| 361 | Lo, by Nilus' languid waters 108 |
| 69 | Long ago a poet dreaming 447 |
| 108 | Long years ago I wandered here . . . 39 |
| 447 | Love came a beggar to her gate . . . 214 |
| 39 | Love, give me one of thy dear . . . 130 |
| 214 | hauds to hold 161 |
| 130 | Magdalena's robes are trailing . . . 267 |
| 161 | Make me a headboard, mister 65 |
| 267 | Marjorie, with the waiting face . . . 65 |
| 65 | Midget, gypsy, big-eyed elf, little . . . 65 |
| | Kitty Clover 65 |
| | Millions of massive rain-drops . . . 65 |
| | Mine eyes to mine eyelids cling . . . 65 |
| | thickly 65 |
| | Mozzer bought a baby 65 |
| | My cigarette! The amulet 65 |
| | My dear, be sensible! Upou my . . . 65 |
| | word 65 |
| | My friend, my chum, my trusty . . . 65 |
| | crony! 65 |
| | My heart and I hut lately were at . . . 65 |
| | strife 65 |
| | My little niece and I — I read . . . 65 |