

Sonnets.

Clasp my hand closer ; soon the snows will fall

And of ourselves, and of past seasons, all,
There will remain beneath the sun no trace.
Clasp my hand closer ; then we'll go to rest
Beneath the leaves our feet so oft have pressed.

