

[Fig. 45.—1, represents the mature winged Katy-did, Microcentrum retinervis; 1b, the immature young; 1a and 2b, the eggs, deposited on twigs and leaves, overlapping each other; 2 and 2a, a small chalcid fly parasitic on the eggs, Eupelmus mirabilis Walsh.]

call to the

would hold
as standing
but, enticed
noble short

he note by nsists of a
peated at
the length

to sing at

lation.
ill of the
ongifolia],
zeep, zeep,
asionally
wings as

afternoon.
e 'Katy-
ng, jerky
properly

indistin-

t "when the noise
ing, are
ded that the true
tted two hat "its
ghtly."

katydid
r groves

and by
-almost