FRUIT GROWERS DESIRE LOWER FREIGHT RATES

Necessary if Trade With West is to Develop—Discussion on Orchard Spraying.

Commercial spraying is absolutely essential to commercial orcharding.

The truism that was reiterated by Mr. Brown of Delaware, and which echoed the practical sentiments of every fruit grower at the annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association yesterday, was that the whole theme of the convention may be summed up in spraying and transport. A more enthusiastic gathering of fruit men never convened in the city. The sessions were held in the rooms of the Hotel Windsor, and were presided over by President A. W. Peart of Burlington in the chair. Secretary P. Hodgetts had everything in order.

Dr. Fletcher Remembered.

The first movement of the delegates, after the president's address, was to record a motion of condolence to the family of the late Dr. Fletcher of Ottawa. "His sudden demise," said G. L. Stephens, "was a severe shock to us all, for every fruit grower liked Dr. Fletcher, and he loved his genial and kindly disposition."
He was a world-wide authority on entomology and botany," said E. P. Smith, ex-M.P., the second, "and a charming friend and conversationalist."
The president in his address, referred to the excessive damages done by the codling moth during the past season, and the efforts that had been made to prevent its spread. Judging by the results obtained from systematic spraying, there is a growing hope that it may be controlled. The speaker stated that he had seen orchards of Baldwin that had not been sprayed, where the ground was literally covered with these moths, and where all the apples were wormy.

In glancing over the progress of the session, it was noted that the discussion was led by A. E. Herrington of Walkerton.

In the evening Prof. Harcourt spoke on German orchard fertilizers and Prof. M. B. Waite, pathologist of the U. S. department of agriculture, on "Prevalent Fungus Diseases of Ontario Orchards," "Virus and Twig Blight" and "Teach Yellow."

Hundreds See Murder.

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 10.—Several hundred onlookers, many of them young women, to-day witnessed the killing of Francis Embriani by Pietro Diacinti, near a large factory in Harrison, and instantly pursued and captured the slayer.
