'The Sign on the Door" One of the Best Pictures in Which the Noted Screen Star Has Been Seen.

In "The Sign on the Door," Norma Talmadge, incomparable emotional ac-tress of the silent drama, is seen at her best in the most interesting and absorbing screen vehicle yet given to this talbeet in the most interesting and absorbing acreen vehicle yet given to this talcent of star.

"The Sign on the Door" opened to a capacity house at the Queen square the alst night. It is a screen version of Channing Pollock's highly successful stage play of the same name, and there is a star thank the stage play of the same name, and the merely say that it is a creditable one would be putting the facts very mildly indeed.

A splendid plot is extremely well presented on the screen. The story concerns Ann Hunniwell, a pretty stemographer, who, through no fault of hero own, is compromised by her employer's scapegrace son. Later, when she marries a man of high character and social standing, the fellow comes into her life again. He is killed in a struggle with her husband. The husband does not know that his wife has witnessed the tragedy. An extraordinary denouement follows her act in summoning the polici and accusing herself of the shooting.

In this production Norma takes full advantage of the opportunities for dramatic and emotional acting in wonderful fashion. And the technique and artistry of Herbert Brenon, who directed "The sign on the Door," is apparent througheut the production.

The star has excellent support. Charles Richman is seen as her leading man and others prominent in the cast are: Lew Cody, David Proctor, Helen Weis and Paul McAllister.

"The Sign on the Door" was adapted for the screen by Mary Murillo and Herbert Brenon. It is a first national attraction.

FORM ADULT BIBLE CLASS.

At the close of the regular prayer service in the Waterloo street Baptist church last night the organization of an adult Bible class took place and the officers were elected by ballot as follows: President, H. E. Hoyt; vice-president, Mrs. John Frodsham; teacher, Rev. J. A. Swetnam; secretary, Miss Florence Kierstead; treasurer, Mrs. Amos Gibbs; pianist, Mrs. Gregg. The name selected by the members of the class as its title was "In-His-Name." There were twenty charter members and every one was full of optimism regarding the work of what was expected to be a very live class. It was expected to be a very live class. It will meet regularly at the close of the Sunday school session each Sunday.
