

fed, will soon consume the briers and thorns that oppose themselves; and will lead him to a sanctified improvement of every grace and every gift of God, and render him a "workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

We sincerely pray that the impression which seemed to be so generally diffused at the Association, in favor of the interests of education, may not be transitory or ineffectual; but that not only the present, but future generations, may reap abundant advantages both spiritual and temporal, from an institution, which so deeply involves in its permanent success, the moral interests of our increasing colony.
