At 3, her Majesty, accompanied by Prince Leopold, Princess Beatrice, and divers ladies-in-waiting, appeared in the corridor, and Mr. Henson was presented. The Queen expressed pleasurable surprise at Uncle Tom's strikingly hale and hearty looks, considering his great age—he is nearly 90. Her Majesty was also pleased to say that for many years she had been well acquainted with his history, and to present him with her portrait. Mr Henson thanked her on his own behalf for the great honor conferred upon himself, as well as on behalf of his colored brethren in Canada and other portons of her Majesty's dominions for her august protection when they were poor fugitive slaves, and for the blessings they had at all times enjoyed under her rule.
