A BID FOR FREEDOM. By Guy Bocthby, (Exclusive Copyright Secures by the St. John Sun.)

(Continued.)

of frost in the air. There was also a It struck me as being rather strange brisk breeze blowing that gave men to invoke a blessing from Allah upon occasion to hold their hats upon their such a work, but it is needless for me heads and the ladies to gather their to say that I did not mention the fact skirts more tightly around them.

Having bade him a respectful fare well, I left the presence and returned to my own apartment, where I found to date, but the Old City for me has a the Grand Vizier awaiting me. He charm that neither of the others posthe stately old gentleman, with a sesses. I had telegraphed from Plywhite beard, which he stroked tinually. It was said that he was he only official in Madrapore who had rival. As we bowled along through sort of reputation for honesty, and far as my own interests were concerned, I can corroborate the state

"His Majesty the Sultan-whom may red pounds in English gold. It is artments. I had lunched in the train, So saying, he produced from the eve of his robe a leather bag, the tents of which he poured out upon a cushion. Be so good as to count them."

"for I would not have thee find ned them back in the leather bag

My action horrified the methold gentleman, and he took oc-of losing what he evidently con-red was for me a considerable for-

There is one other matter on which m commanded to speak to thee, and is concerning a still larger sum

H.s Majesty told me that you would English in a hand like that of a ain. I placed it carefully in my waist-pocket. I next inquired if he was e why I was receiving the money.

Allah forbid!" he said quickly, look-round as if he were afraid some ster does not tell me. I know nothle then bade me "good-night" and hat night I slept more soundly than done for weeks past. I woke at eak, when a meal was served to after which I went out into the me, my kit strapped to the pack-is Majesty's own body guard courtyard to find a horse await-of another, and an escort of six habied off. I did not see him again.

might have overheard. "If my esson."

will be paid to thee in London."

any missing. The world is full of rogues and thieves, and it is well for who work to one end to know that they may trust each other." paid him a pretty compliment and then knelt down to count the shining The work accomplished. I slipped it carelessly into my cont on to warn me against the perils the road and the chances I might t it is not

m Purod Saw.

anger of kinds of rties.

I. S.

EE

r, just as

a. Here

LOVES,

., P.Q.

North Contractory of the iced some of those em, while for by the abitants. s lying on track. and desolate.

orean vil

n a peaced

new post ced someilway dethe local dealt with Disinfecton to any leanses at vin Austin e Court.

Saturdav

SEMI-WEEKLY SUN, ST. JOHN, N. B., APRIL 27, 1904 though it had never been my luck to watched, I could not help wondering then returned on the other side of the on one side and then bow. A moment doorway and come down stairs.

later I saw a tall graceful figure, that Reaching the corner, she made her

"I was lucky enough to secure a couple of stalls at the St. James's for that Laceby should send him a tele-tonight," said my rost. as we sipped gram in the morning to inquire whethour coffee. "What do you say to going on there?" "I should like it immensely." I replied. "The last theatre I was in was in Rio, and I remember, within a huna bright November day, with a touch dred yards of the doors, seeing a wo-> self. She was a fine-looking creature." "Women who do that sort of thing face haunted me hour in, hour out, isually are. Now, let's come along. It was easy to see, as Laceby had said, flesh to see that they were something usually are. Now, let's come along. We needn't take a cab. It's within

After all, to my thinking, there is no place like London. Paris may be easy walking distance." gayer, New York more alive and up We accordingly strolled quietly down to the theatre and took our places in the seats my friend had had the good fortune to secure. They were in the mouth to the Cecil for a room, and I third row and commanded a good view drove there immediately on my arof the house. The latter was rapidly filling, and it wanted only a few minthe well-remembered streets it seemed difficult to believe that, less than a utes to the rising of the curtain. Suddenly I noticed a little stir in the aufortnight before, I had been a miserdience and all eyes were directed at able prisoner, lying in hourly expectthe box on the prompt side. "What is it?" I whispered to Lace-"His Majesty the Sultan-whom may Allah long preserve!-has instructed Allah long to the the sum of two hun-course and was conducted to my ap-"The royal box is on the other side," ation of death in the Kasbah at Madso I stood in no need of a further came forward to the front of the box meal. By this time it was nearly in question the most beautiful woman four o'clock, and beginning to grow I had ever seen in my life. She was it. By the time I reached it the maids he had found us just what we redark. Not knowing what to do with superb! She was accompanied by an myself, I determined to go for a stroll. There were several articles I desired se was her father. Again I turned to to purchase, and it struck me that this Laceby. would fill in the time very pleasantly

"I seem to know her face," I whisuntil it should be a cossary to return pered. "Who is she?" to the hotel for dinner. I according-"The most beautiful woman in Engly donned my hat and coat and set land," was his reply."Lady Olivia Bel- lating. In order that it might not be off. To my eyes, unaccustomed as hampton." they had been of late to such hights. Try to picture for yourself my feel. the Stand semed more crowded than ings. For a moment I felt as if the ever. I passed through Trafalgar world were spinning round my head road. Before resuming my homward Square and by way of the Haymar- a million times a second. The theatre walk I turned to take one last look at ket to Picadilly. The world is very swam before my eyes; then, with an the house. To my astonishr ent I saw small, and few people, particularly effort, I pulled myself together, and the footman, who had been talking to those who have not travelled, realize glanced at my neighbors to discover the maid on the steps. move a little how small it is. I was within fifty whether they had noticed anything. yards of the gates of Burlington House Fortunately, the lady on my right was when whom should I see coming to-wards me was a man with by was watching some people who wards me was a man with by was watching some people who whom, less than two years be- were entering on the left side of the fore, I had been on the most inti- house. Feeling half afraid to look, I mate terms and in somewhat glanced up at the box again. What peculiar circumstances. Like myself, an exquisite face it was! A diamond he had been knocking about the world, necklace encircled her slender throat, advantage of the chance presented to those dark distrustful eyes fixed upon give me the address where I was to ap- since he was a youngster. When I but she did not need it to enhance her for it. Have you got it with you?" first met him he was in China, enbeauty. And to think that this was fter some little fumbling under his gaged in the sometimes profitable but he produced a small slip of parch- always dangerous attempt to squeeze He handed it to me, and on ex- the Governor of a Province. He was held sacred, to deliver into the hands to her again, and in that case my of the Sultan of Madrapore! came extremely near losing his life in What the play was about I have not mission, to all intents and purposes, Board School boy, but of which his attempt to get it. By good luck the remotest notion. It may have be at an end. A man's success been a tragedy or a comedy-I cannot very often depends on taking advantell you. I had no eyes and no tage of an opportunity. Here was my thought but for the lady in the box. During the interval Laceby and I it. Not wishing her to think that I had followed her, I waited till she vent out for a cigarette. d, when we were in the lobby. "Magnificent," I answered, but with- left hand, whereupon I went down ut enthusiasm. "By the way, tell me South Audley Street as fast as I could about Lady Olivia Belhampton. I go, turned up Park Street, and then, times are pleasurable, but more often compliment," I answered. "If ap- were hanged here today, Neidermeier used to know her when she was a trusting to my luck, made my way up give pain." child, and her brother and I were at Park Lane. When I turned the corner child, and her brother and I were at Park Lane. When I turned the control "Wen, I must say you are a chectron should the 'Varsity together. I haven't seen she was only a few paces from me. I sort of party," said Laceby. "What's race." think I have as much confidence as the matter with you? You are not I control of the matter with you?

popularly supposed to be the most in the whole of my experience have I beautiful woman in England, and that been as much afraid as I was at that must come and dine with me at my when the old Duke dies she'll be immoment.

to you in the street?

other.

She did not answer this question, ex-

"But. Mr. Gavesson, where have you "Walking up and down the world," answered. "from Dan to Beersheba.

"She's not the same jolly little girl only arrived in England yesterday.'

cept like the Irishman by asking an-been all these vars? We have neither heard nor seen anything of you.

promptly accepted, and it was agreed hotel, and afterwards drove to Waterer he had anything he thought might tion by Mr. Manfield, the owner of the suit us. We supped together, and establishment we were about to vis-then I went home to bed, having spent it. He drove us out to his stud farm, a very fair day. Whether it was that which was some two or three I was overtired or not I cannot say, miles from the station. On but I could not sleep. I could not get arrival there we overhauled the stables man knife a man and then stab her- my thoughts away from the memory and carefully examined the four aniof that beautiful girl whom I had mals concerning which he had teleseen at the theatre that evening. Her graphed to Laceby that morning. It that she was the possessor of a de- out of the common, and that made me termined will, and from the way in suppose that the price was on a corwhich she had behaved to Lord Car- responding scale. At the dealer's sugborough I felt able to corroborate gestion we agreed to come out as soon Laceby's assertion that she was not as the frost broke to try them, when, likely to be influenced easily by men. should they prove satisfactory, we Next morning I was early astir, would be prepared to purchase them. That evening I wrote to the princihave such a bad night. It was a true pal house agent in the neighborhood winter's morning and quite dark. But of Burndean and gave him a commis-

I did not mind that. I made my way sion to find us a small residence in down to the Embankment, and then the neighborhood, telling him what set out for a brisk walk towards stabling we should require, and per-Charing Cross, and thence by North- haps, what was more important still, umberland Avenue and a circuitous letting him know that the question of he whispered; and as he spoke there Duke of Bamborough's magnificent lucky star was evidently in the ascendhouse. For my own part, I had good ant, for four days later the frost broke. reasons for wishing to have a look at and the house agent wrote to say that were just getting astir, and a servant quired. We paid a second visit to Mr. elderly gentleman who it was easy to was busily engaged washing down the Manfield's stables, tried the horses, steps up to the front door. Upstairs and found them excellent. They stood observed, "all they wanted was riding, which might be the room occuried by and riding they should get."

As will be proved, riding they cer- wished her "good-morning." She was Lady Olivia. But it was no use specuthought that I was watching the house never wish to throw a leg over. I walked to the end of the street, and first night's dinner in our new abode, this country." with Jim Laceby at the other end of clothed in the knowledge of the big vis, and the cook, wine, and service irreproachable. I put the Kasbah be- father's." I easily recognized, emerge from the hind me; it was only a nightmare, a From the way in which she said this,

For a moment I stood irresolute, see that room in the parket, and er. Early as the hour was, should I take tan lolling upon his cushions, and er. "He is very well indeed, thank you," It was a dangerous step, but it was glass down, and a deadly chill swept there, talking to the master," the woman whom I had pledged my just possible that it might succeed. over me. Even though I sat here in I could see that she was determined her, she might forbid me to ever speak with life and death. quired my companion. "You are look- opinion as to the prospects of the run. ing very glum."

dragging up old memories. Heaven came into her eyes. For the first time opportunity, and I resolved to profit by alone knows why. Men like you and I, she thawed a little. who have knocked about all over the world, must of necessity know momled to Park Lane. She turned to the some little thing, trivial in itself, sug- capital run. You have a very nice gests something else, and brings in its horse, Mr. Gavesson." train a host of memories that some-

> "Well. I must say you are a cheerful as a sick owl."

And I can assure you with the utmost truth that I meant it! We reached our destination with a EPPS'S CO quarter of an hour to spare. The master and the hounds had just arrived, and the former, most courteous of men, was busily engaged making himself agreeable to his many and varied acquaintances. Being a true sportsman as well as gentleman, his nod and cheery "good-morning" were the same to my Lord Tom Noddy as to Mr. Snooks, the sporting butcher from the neighboring town. Handing over our hacks to the grooms, we mounted our EDDoio UU hunters and then had leisure to look about us. The field was a big one, ELLO 9 PAR though I fear a large porportion of them were intentional Macadamites. All this time I was keeping my eyes open in the hope of seeing Lady Olivia. At first I thought she had not arrived, but at last I espied her on the farther side of the hounds, falking to a lady and gentleman, the latter being Lord Carborough. Leaving Laceby to his own devices, I walked my horse round in that direction. If she had looked lovely at the route to Mayfair. Everyone knows the rent was practically unimportant. Our theatre, she was even more so now. Her habit fitted her to perfection; her hair was neatly coiled beneath her hat; and the toe of a particularly smart boot peeped out from beneath her skirt. She was splendidly mounted on an almost thoroughbred bay with black points, who looked fit enough to win the Grand the blinds were still down, and, as I the journey well, and, as Jim Laceby National. Taking advantage of the conversation I had with her that morning in Park Lane. I rode up to her and tainly did get, and better animals I evidently surprised to see me. "I had no idea," she said, "Mr. I often look back now upon that Gavesson, that you intended hunting in "My friend and I have taken The the table, young and handsome, and Retreat on the Burley Road," I said. "Really?" she answered, as if she had world which is an education that not taken any interest in the matter. comes to few. yours truly as his vis-a- "Poor Colonel Beverley used to live there. He was a great friend of my ghoulish memory that I must school it might have been inferred that she myself to forget. But as I raised my very much regretted the change of way down Upper Grosvenor street. glass of port to my lips I seemed to ownership. For want of something For a moment I stood irresolute. see that room in the palace, the Sul- better to say, I inquired after her fathme and make myself known to her? me. Almost mechanically I put my she replied. "You will find him over word of honor, and sworn by all I On the other hand, if I were to offend luxury, I was playing pitch and toss to keep me at a distance, and the knowledge of this was sufficient to "What's the matter, old fellow?" in- put me on my mettle. I asked her

> "Excellent, I should think," was her "I was thinking," I replied. "I was reply, and I noticed that a new light

"We always find here," she continued, "and if he only goes away to-"Splendid play, isn't if?" he remark- reached the bottom of the street that ents when the past comes back, when wards Grimstowe, we should have a

"I think I may safely return the should be fast enough to win a big death was unusual. He was so weak

I could see that the compliment suicide, that the jail guards were for-"I don't know what there is to tell most men, but I am willing to admit, drunk, I know, because you take pleased her, for she smiled apprecia- ced to carry him to the scaffold. He you," he returned, "save that she is and I ask you to believe it, that never scarcely anything, but you are as glum tively as she stroked his glossy neck was then placed in the chair and the with her crop.

(To be continued.)

THE REASON WHY

KIDNEY PILLS.

After Years of Intense Suffering from Lumbago and Other Kidney

NORTH PELHAM, Ont., April 22 .-- (Special.)-Mr. Joseph L. Thomas, a toined the ranks of the great army of tense sufferer. I had almost a perpet-without good results, so upon the rec-

"The first box gave me decided beneual headache and grew thin in flesh.

Troubles.

lews:

hem.

"Never mind, old boy," I said, rising "Yes, I am very proud of him," she ed convulsively as it hung. Although from my chair, "I shall be better in the said. "He was a birthday present it was first beli from my father, and I am quite sure he was stranging, it was found later 'a get to bed. I never had a nicer. By the way, here that his neck was broken. orrow." We hade each other "good-night" is papa." Twenty minutes after the drop fell and went to our rooms, but not to bed. I wheeled my horse to find the Duke he was pronounced dead and the body ment, I threw coming towards us. He was a good was cut down. looked out. sportsman in the real sense of the Across the valley I could see the lights word, and might have stood for a portrait of that proverbial individual. -----'the fine old English gentleman."

THE MOST NUTRITIOUS.

An admirable food, with all its natural qualities intact, fitted to build up and maintain robust health, and to resist winter's extreme cold. Sold in 1-4 lb tins, labelled JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd.,

Homoeopathic Chemists, London,

GIVES STRENGTH & VIGOR.

England.

SHORTHAND: The Isaac Pitman. Catalogues free to any address.

S. KERR & SON.

Oddfellows' Hall.

BOY BANDITS HANGED YESTERDAY.

Full Penalty Paid for Eight Murders,

CHICAGO, April 22. - Peter Neidermeier, Gustav Marx and Harvey Van-Dine, the notorious car barn bandits, and confessed murderers of eight men, pearances go for anything, yours was the first to die and his manner of as the result of his recent attempt at d by physicia

I. H. Me nt of damvs. the str. ll be taken istrar R. O. isel for the ld be made McLeod to ed Satur-state" in a —but it is ne.

·K

mir-

and this ssure

and espe-

men

and ts alight-

being sness ed by

Two days later I was at sea, on the way to England. Who could foresee what the result of mission would be?

CHAPTER V. England's Fairest Daughter.

It was the middle of November when reached England, after one of the are." ughest passages in all my experiroughest passages in all my experi-ence. In the Bay the waves ran I entered the tailor's shop at which I had always been accustomed to deal. mountains high, and although my wanderings about the world have man, who looked more like a dignified made me a good sailor, yet I was judge than a sartorial artist, prided right glad when we sighted the Eddystone and an hour later dropped our face. It was three years since I had anchor in Plymouth Sound. Even ere the swell was decidedly unplea- whether he would remembr me. He nt, and the motion of the apoplec- came forward, bowing and washing his tender which came off to us was hands in the way that I so well refficient to cause more than one pas- membered. nger considerable uneasiness, even ter their voyage from Australia. wind blew in strong gusts, with asional heavy showers; ecumbe and the Heights of Stadwere enveloped in mist, while even historic Hoe could only be seen through a glass darkly. It seemed a nome-coming for a man like my- tered my shop." who had such a secret to keep company and such a villainous you manage that?" e of work ahead of him. I don't but it is only fair to myself to t best rvous 1 will extra erves. undanutrigradugives hase's sh and posi-ms of a, Ont. restless ed from ated me. can frank. rest and ally. Dr.

lown it

nto. ceipt Book

r $2.50

iting my coming. I'm not going to lose sight of you, you A magnificent animal had been sent may be sure of that." my use, and I was about to mount "Hadn't we better put it off till anit when His Majesty's own servant, the other night?" I suggested. "I'm a who had conducted me backwards wanderer, a prodigal son, you might forwards between my room and say, just returned from among the audience-chamber, came to me and swine who won't wear clothes." said in a low voice-"The Sultan my "Not a bit of it! I can rig you out. ster-may be live for ever!-bids me We are much of a build, and it won't we are much of a build, and it won't be the first time we've worn each other's duds. Do you remember that ed him some coins and then gave the order to start. Ten minutes later fat old French priest who lent me a pair of bags that were nearly a foot were outside the city. That night we camped at the fondak too big for me round the waist, and which I had been arrested, and on didn't reach much below my knees? e evening following arrived at the By Jove! those were jolly old days!" "Nice to look back upon, but scarceaport I had so vainly tried to reach. ly so pleasant at the time. If that ining it I found an address written anxious to obtain a concession, and old gentleman was inordinately I was able to extricate him from his you wouldn't be walking down Piccadilly." dangerous position, and from that mo-

"I thought I couldn't be mistaken," he cried, hastening towards me with "Well, who'd have thought of meeting you, Laceby?" I answered, returning his grip. "How long have you "Just about a month," he replied ..

"Came home from Bolivia. Which way

I told him my errand and he agreed

"After that," he continued, "you outstretched arms. "It's Roger Gavment we became friends.

been in town?"

are you walking?"

to accompany me.

scrape, old fellow. And I am eternally gratefully to you for it." "Rubbish!" I answered. "You'd have Ind and went over to play at politics done the same for me. Well, here we engaged in an animated con-versation with his companion, only assumed. "Ah, Mr. Gavesson," he said. "We have not had the pleasure of seeing you for a considerable time. What can I Mount have the pleasure of doing for you?" I informed him in reply that I had that day retarned from abroad. "If you will excuse my saying so, I gathered as much immediately you en-"The deuce you did. And how did

"If you will pardon my saying so, by up to be a moralist. I am afraid the cut of the clothes you are wearing. houldn't have much right to the It is at least two years behind the present fashion. Terrible!" that my conscience had been driv-He groaned in horror. It was evident steadily away at me throughout that the subject was an extremely painhomeward voyage. Do what I ful one to him. I could not still it. It was "Well, you will have to fit me out a faint but yet nagging tooth- again," I said. "And I want you to be while it did not actually hurt, as quick about it as possible." as nevertheless sufficiently un-"You may depend upon us, my dear ortable to render life unpleasant. sir. All that I can do to expedite mate tender rounded Drake's Island ters shall be done. Think of your cussteamed into the docks, which on tomers before yourself. Grigson, is my stormy morning were even more motto, and always has been. Let them essing than the Sound outside. come first." slimy green piles, the sodden "And charge them for it afterwards."

is, and the disconsolate crowd of I said, with a smile. "Well, every in return. k loafers who, with pinched faces man to his trade."

collars turned up, were waiting arry our luggage ashore, intensi-the dreariness of the scene. And the drearine scene drearing the scene drearing s the dreariness of the scene. And ever. customs shel, that great | "Still the same genial, merry hearted k of a place, at one moment gentleman, Mr. Gavesson, I see," he how soon the frost would break, beand the next swarming like a remarked. After that a wait of half I could not help wondering what he for a little hunting. It is a long time four for the train, which time would have said had he known the since I heard the music of the hounds, ht be spent in a crowded waiting- truth-that truth which I was trying so and, as I've managed to get hold of Yet here I was, with my pockets full of the living after all, whatever faundicor on the wind and rain-swept hard to keep behind me, but which a little money, I don't see why I rf outside. That is a description would thrust its ugly head out every shouldn't enjoy myself." ny arrival on my native shore. At new and then. Having made an ap-however, the train got under way pointment with him for the following in a very short space of time morning at eleven o'clock, we left the outh lay behind us. By the time shop, hailed a hansom, and ordered the reached Tavistock the rain had man to drive us to Laceby's lodgings, ed and the sun had commenced to which were in a street leading out of As the journey is so well Jermyn Street. Having obtained the is not necessary for me to clothes he had offered to lend me I reste time in attempting to describe turned to my hotel to dress, after Let it suffice that we reached which I proceeded to the club at which stol well up to time, Bath with the we were to dine. It was a pleasant vinouth. The weather in Lendon many bonds in common and our cn- morrow afterneen?" Was all that could be desired. It was versation embraced the wide world.

mensely rich. She is also a great horsewoman, hunts as many days in hat. "I hope you will forgive my rudethe week as hounds are out. I sup- ness and that I am not making a mispose they are up in town on account of the frost." "Where do they hunt from?"

"From Burndean Hall, their place in Leicestershire." "Not married, I suppose?" "Oh, dear no; seems to take no in-

"Is it possible that you do not re terest in men. It is commonly reportmember me, Lady Olivia?" I said. "I ed that half the Peerage have proposed am sure I must have changed a good o her, but so far she has refused them deal since you last saw me. Your all. She has evidently got a will of brother Grenville and I were great her own. By the way, there is rather friends. I have a very vivid recolleca joke connected with her. Rumor has tion of a boating party on the lake at it that when the Sultan of Madrapore Bramleigh Castle, and your doing your was over here some tittle time back best to upset me out of an American he was very anxious to add her to the canoe.'

jolly old Governor had had his way, list of his wives. I believe he offered She looked at me in amazement, and exceptional terms, but the old Duke then light dawned on her didn't see it in the same light. Fancy "Surely you are not Mr. Gavesson, "It was you who got me out of the that infernal rascal aspiring to such she cried. "Roger Gavesson?" a girl as that. It was said that that "That is my name," I answered. was why he cut short his visit to Eng-'You will forgive me now for speaking with the French." Having no desire to discuss the subject any further, and having finished my cigarette. I suggested that we should return to our seats, which we accordingly did. On looking up at the box I noticed that a tall militarylooking man had entered it and had taken the Duke's place. He was

> "And are you going to stay long?" On this point I did not enlighten her. but I gathered from the expression for her voice told me that she took no upon her face that her interest was sort of interest in it. "It all depends," I answered. "Who is that ?" I asked of Laceby may be here a month, I may be here

> "Lord Carborough," he answered. year. At present I am anxious to get "He's in the Guards. Handsome fellittle hunting, but this frost seems low, isn't he ? Rode the winner of the likely to last." Grand Military, and stands a good "It certainly would appear so," she chance of winning the National with rejoined. the same horse." Seeing that she did not wish to be de-

> Then the curtain went up on the tained any longer. I bade her goodsecond act and further conversation morning and went on my way in the became impossible. This time I was opposite direction. able to pay more attention to the play, but I found my eyes continualthat I used to know in the old days," ly reverting to the box. Lord Car- I said to myself as I walked along. "I borough had taken his departure on can see her now, with her long hair the rising of the curtain and the Duke flying in the wind, running across the occupied his place. By the time the last act was finished I had made up lawn with Grenville after her, as full of mischief as a young monkey, and my mind as to one thing, and that prouder of her brother than anything was that I would go a-hunting, and or any one else in the world. It seems that I would take up my quarters that Society has knocked the girl out somewhere in the vicinity of Burnof her and has left a Woman of Fash-The more I thought over the ion in her place." dean. notion, the better I liked it. I had money enough to purchase some good horses, and if I was to serve the Sultan faithfully I was determined that he should afford me some amusement "You are very quiet, old chappie,"

"No," I replied. "I was wondering cause I think I should like to go in shouldn't enjoy myself." "Good man!" he answered. "I wouldn't mind doing a little myself. What do you say if we chum together? I had read the papers and had my pipe, time." "Right you are. I'm your man. It's stable four animals that he thought member of the hunt had the covert not the best time to pick up gees, might suit us. The ground of course, in question been drawn blank. perhaps, but there's a fellow I knew was too hard to try them, but we delives two miles from Leatherhead who cided, in order to fill in the afternoon, Having no other engagement. I, tradesmen. We lunched together at my "Nor I with a sultar." I realied.

and stands as son as a company of a set of the set of t walked up to her and raised my morning. I plenty to de take," I said. "Are you not Lady Oli-via Belhampton?"

Reaching my own She was not in the least put out, but open the window looked steadily at me out of her grey eyes. "That is certainly my name," of Burndean Hall. she answered. "Is there anything that I can do for you?"

CHAPTER VI. A Fine Hunting Day.

Of all the meals of which one partakes in the course of the year there is utes." not a more enjoyable one, in my humble opinion, than that of breakfast on ed. Then she added, "Papa, may I in- of stairs to the scaffold. a fine hunting morning. Let me go troduce Mr. Gavesson to you, as I see into the matter in detail and I will try you do not remember him? He was was led to the scaffold repeating a litto convince you. In the first place, when you descend from your sleeping poor Grenville's friend at college." "Forgive me, sir," said the old genapartment, your first thought should be o open the front door and take a care- must be many years since we last ful observation of the morning. Over-head the sky will probably be blue, "I h "I have been abroad, and only rewith fleecy clouds chasing each other across its vast expanse; the dew will by way of explanation. lie heavy on the grass; the blackbirds "And you immediately pay us the will doubtless be making merry in the shrubbery, while from the stables well, let us hope that we shall show come the sounds of active preparayou good sport in return. "I have promised Mr. Gavesson tions for your amusement. Having satisfied vomrself that the prospects good run this morning," said Lady Olivia, with a smile. "I hope Reyare just as they should be, you glance Olivia, with a smile. complacently down at your snowy leanard will not disappoint us." "I don't think we need fear that," thers and neat boots, and rate your terrier because in an excess of affecremarked the old gentleman. "By the tion he desires to jump upon you and thus mar their brilliance; after which up and dine with us one evening. The you retire into the house for break- Duchess will be very glad to see you, fast, and, if you have the misfortune I am sure." to be a bachelor, pour out your own tea or coffee, and eat your meal in solitary grandeur. Probably, while you are disposing of your second dev-FARMER GIVES illed kidney, you will look out through the window to see your horses starting for the meet, looking as if they knew, as you may be quite sure they do know, what the day's work is going to be, and were as anxious as you HE PINS HIS FAITH TO DODD'S to hear the welcome sound of "Gone away.' After breakfast, if you're the man you should be-and between ourselves They Made Him Strong and Well I'm quite sure you are-a pipe must be smoked and a newspaper skimmed through: the latter, however, not to be taken too seriously, by which I mean, of course, avoiding Parliamentary debates and, shall we say? the state of the money market. Such things are not for hunting men. Later your butier, or if you do not care to be bothered with such a fac-Thus moralizing I made my way back to the Strand, and thence to my hotel. totum, your pretty Mary Jane, will The keen morning air had given me a enter your sanctum to inform you that rare appetite, and when I sat down to your hack is at the door. With what my sumptouos breakfast I could hard-ly repress a smile as I thought of the into the saddle, while the wife of your rice and dates to which I had even gone bosom, provided this time that your spacious room, where many were tak- as is more than probable-regrets that ing their morning meal, I found it dif- she is not accompanying you. As you ficult to believe that I was the same man who had been the companion for so many days of that wretched Greek yourself, if I am any judge of human and of that still more wretched Jew. nature, reflecting that life is worth money, enjoying a breakfast fit for a ed, ill-conditioned folk many say to king! and, on the other hand — but the contrary. Our first morning out was just such there. I am not going to dwell on that.

An hour or so after breakfast, when another as I have endeavored to de-Dodd's Kidney Pills. I began taking scribe. The sky was blue, the wind I can't run to a very big stud, but Laceby put in an appearance, looking in the right quarter, and it needed whatever I back shall be good 'uns." like a Russian Grand Duke in his fur only a glance to see that the going "I wouldn't with for any one better. coat. It appeared that he had sent the would be perfect. The meet was some We'll lay ourselves out to have a good wire to the man near Leatherhead, and five miles distant and was a favorite had received a repty that he had in his one. Never in the memory of the eldest

"I wouldn't change places with an ¹⁰ admirable precision, and steam- little dianer' for more reasons into Paddington some five hours than one. I liked Laceby and minutes from the time of leaving I fancy he liked me. We had What do you say to running down to-minutes from the time of leaving I fancy he liked me. We had what do you say to running down toemperor," said Laceby, after we had Previous to the execution Neider meler maintained the same sullen demeanor which has characterized him since he became a prisoner. While the "Well, my dear," he said, addressdeath warrant was being read he ing his daughter and throwing a snatched the document from the sheriff glance at me, "time is up and we and stuck it in his pocket, making a shall be making a move in a few min- sarcastic reference to his execution. He was carried to one of the floors on a "I am glad to hear it," she remark- jail truck, then carried down a flight Marx accompanied by two priests, any after the clergy. He made no statement. He appeared weak, but met tleman, "for not recognizing you. It death bravely, the trap being sprung at 11.17. He was pronounced dead at 11.34, his neck having been broken.

VanDine's execution followed about turned to England a week ago," I said half an hour later.

The hanging of the youthful car barn bandits followed eight murders compliment of hunting with us. Well, all attendant upon robberies or efforts eo escape arrest. During an attempt to escape on a stolen train after an extraordinary battle in the swamps of northern Indiana, just east of Chicago, in November last, the capture of the gang was completed by the arrest of Neidermeter, VanDine and Emile Rosski, their associate, Marx, having alway, Mr. Gavesson, you must come ready been arrested.

VanDine, Neidermeier and Marx were sentenced for the murder of Frank Stewart, a clerk in the Chicago City Railway car barns during a robbery there on the morning of Aug. 80, 1903. James B. Johnson, motorman, was also killed, and two persons were wounded.

The bandits escaped with $2,240. Roeski was not concerned in this crime. Marx's drunken boastfulness directed suspicion to him and he was wounded and captured, but not until he had shot and killed Detective Quinn in a battle in a Chicago saloon.

Several days later Marx, angered at the failure of his companions to carry out a pre-arranged plan to dynamite the pelice station in which he was confined and secure his release, confessed to the murders at the street railway barn and implicated Neidermeier and VanDine. Marx told of other substantial farmer of Pelham Town- desperate crimes they had committed ship, well known and highly respected and involved Roeski.

Soon afterward the three men were throughout this neighborhood, has found hiding in a "dugout" near Clarke, Canadians who pin their faith to Ind. Seven Chicago policemen laid Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Thomas siege to their cave and a pitched batgives his reasons for doing so as fol- tle with rifles and revolvers ensued, in which two detectives were wounded, one fatally.

"For several years I was sorely af-The bandits escaped from their cave and the detectives withdrew to care for their wounded and secure reinforcegravated degree. I had Lumbago and was in such a condition that I was ments. The bandits captured a freight train, shooting and killing brakeman unfit for anything for weeks at a time. John Sauvie and started to run to Liv-"Insomnia resulted, and I was an inerpoel. A posse of farmers stopped the train. The bandits again gave battle to the farmers and Neidermeier and "I had been treated by a dector VanDine were wounded and surrenderommendation of a cousin, who had ed. Reeski got away, but was soon arrested without resistance. been saved from a life of misery by

In the trials no defence was made for Neidermeier. In the case of VanDine evidence was introduced to show that he had been since birth afflicted with a fit, and after taking five boxes the old form of epilepsy which had made him trouble was a thing of the past and irresponsible. Marx Neidermeier and VanDine were found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. Roeski was afterward sentenced to life imprisonment cure. Losing a month's rent almost doubles your taxes. If your taxes are already big enough adverting for tenents. CASTORIA. Bears the Branking Castoria (1997) Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Bears the Branking (1997) of Castoria (1997) The Kind Yes Haw Harrys Bought Bears the Bear

I was again in every way strong and well. Ask those who have used them if they ever heard of a case of Kidney Disease Dodd's Kidney Pills would not All of them were under 21 years of age

