

Campus Serviettes Limited/SP holds a great pep rally and invite lots of friends free!

We think the Payola$/Bopcats concert was a really wonderful way for the Student Pansies to attract a lot of attention. We think the 600 odd people who were smart enough to get that great deal on those tickets (only $17.50) should be commended, and the SP thought so too; after all, weren't they handing out SP badges to everyone in attendance including the band members? Isn't it wonderful that the SP'ers are dedicated enough to hand out propaganda to naive junior high school students

We also think it's simply marvelous that the promoter received only 30 or so free guest passes for his hard and dedicated work.

We think that the mere sum of $250 for all his troubles is peanuts for all the things he managed so successfully to botch. We don't think details are necessary -- people with tickets can look at the spelling of the word Payola$ and have a good laugh whenever they want. Yahoo!

Also, it's wonderful that a group of dedicated CSL (Campus Serviettes Limited) board of directors would be taking nothing more than a ticket for their pains -- and yet many of these same people, mostly Student Pansy members, would mercilessly slash already pitiful honoraria. These people believe that running newspapers, radio stations etc. is a duty. We figure organizing such fantastic concerts is not. Is it?

We also wondered momentarily about the 200 odd free guest passes that were mysteriously handed out, but disregarded any really knowing curiosity. After all, who are we?

Rumour has it that almost $13,000 was lost on this concert, and that aside from poor organization, and a fair amount of blame being shrugged off on many unsuspecting souls, we at the Bums thought the concert was a wonderful, unprecedented success.

Best of all, we heard Bodfish liked it, after all isn't that what happiness is? - A president who sits on the floor and wiggles!
