

9. Let me sȃy to all who read this book, that you must be kind to your pets, if you wish them to be fond of you.

---

LESSON IV.

|               |               |                |                |                |
|---------------|---------------|----------------|----------------|----------------|
| fēed          | nīce          | f o od  | skīn           | bāthe          |
| dēer          | fāst          | R u th  | w o ods | thēse          |
| ēars          | pārt          | c o at  | m ē al  | y o ung |
| ēase          | dārk          | māde           | m ē at  | m i xed |
| y ē ar | t u rn | l i ght | wh ē at | Brown          |

RUTH AND HER DEER.

1. Ruth Brown has three pet deer. The old one feeds on the green. The young ones eat meal and salt from her hand

2. These two have long ears, short tails, and long slim legs.