

harmony with old treaty arrangements. That period is very remote.

Captain Cook's Visit.

In 1760, the world-renowned explorer Captain Cook, visited Bonavista and made extensive observation along the coast.

The Dungeon.

Among the natural curiosities of the neighbourhood is a grotto called "The Dungeon," and it is a sight worth seeing. It is more than three hundred yards in circumference and is very deep. There are two channels on the seaward side at the bottom of the cave, and each has a natural arch of gritstone. It is a great sight when the waves of ocean come thundering through these natural doors with the sweeping foam. The earth is constantly foundering and being carried out into the ocean. Corporal Max Clarke, who fell somewhere in France, swam through one arch and around and back through the other. Maybe some others did the feat, we have not heard.

The Dungeon, Bonavista.

The Unknown Sound.

About eighty years ago an unearthly sound was heard in Bonavista and its immediate neighbourhood, then Bird Island