

SONNET

SNOW BY MOON LIGHT.

ENCHAIN'D by frost all desolates and drear,
Still Nature shines in dazzling robe array'd;
The Moon's bright beams these dismal prospects cheer,
Gleam o'er the heath, and glitter in the glade;
Long lines of silver radiance mark the vale,
Mantling yon cor, whose roofs low rafted shake;
Beneath their fleecy load; or, o'er the dale,
Lends a new glow to the spangled brake.
