

This stringer carries the bottom of the two-inch by two-inch pieces which form the side of the rack, and which are placed on six-inch centres. The upper ends of the two-inch by two-inch are fastened to the centre two-inch by six-inch, which forms part of the upper side of the rack. One of these racks will hold $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ tons of hay. Grain tables about three feet high and thirty to thirty-six inches in width, with a two-inch by six-inch piece bevelled and sloping outward to form the sides, will be found most satisfactory for the feeding of chop. These wide, low tables permit of the cattle feeding from both sides, and if the stock are dehorned there is little crowding or fighting for grain.

It is advisable to bed the corrals thoroughly. Labor is economized by being able to clean the corrals moisture collects on the roof of these cabins, and not a single instance of rheumatism has developed in the large numbers of swine so wintered. Extra protection for winter is provided by placing the cabins in line within a foot of the woven wire fence and a foot apart. The spaces at the north end and between the cabins are then filled with straw, the straw being up to the top of the roof of the cabins.

It appears that such shelter is much more satisfactory, both as to the health of the hogs, and as to economy of labor in taking care of them, than are expensive hog houses.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

The following declaration has been made by J. Ogden Armour:

The government of the United States can have Armour & Co.

"Maxwalton Commander" Grand Champion Shorthorn Bull, International 1917.

at one time in the spring or summer, when the rush of work is not as great as at other seasons of the year; also by being able to feed sufficient hay at one time to last for days, provided the rack accommodation is sufficient. The efficiency per man for the feeding of cattle in the open is many times multiplied as compared with his capacity for feeding inside.

After some years' experience in the handling of sheep, it has been thoroughly proven that an open shed, facing to the south and opening into a corral fenced with a six to seven-foot high board fence, is the best shelter possible. If the shed is shingled it will also prove serviceable and satisfactory at lambing time, particularly if the lambs do not arrive until the middle of April.

The "A" type of cabin for wintering hogs has been used at Lacombe both for fattening and breeding stock, for the past three years, with excellent results. No

The government of the United States can have J. Ogden Armour.

The government of the United States can have any man or group of men of Armour & Co.

There will be no request for exemptions. When a man is irreplaceable the government will be so notified and it can take its choice of where it wants him to serve.

Whether it is patriotism or selfishness that moves us counts little in the actual outcome. We may not all realize it, but as a nation and as free men we have staked all and shall win or lose all.

That's what I think about the "situation."

"Now then, sonny, run round to the shed and clean up my old bicycle."

"Why the old one, father?"

"Wear out the old first is my motto, my lad."

"Well, father, you go round and clean your bicycle, then!"
