He is huahua to-day were spurred to un- living with his family in Lessourne usual efforts to learn the fate of Road, Reigate. Roger Lawrence, Gustav Bauch, Harry Compton and a rancher named Curtis, all believed to be victims of General Villa's ire. Late yesterday Consuls Edwards at Juarez, and Letcher at Chihuahua received orders from Secretary of State Bryan to proceed diligently in their search for the missing men. In El Paso the fering is strong that Curtis and Lawrence have met the same fate as did William S. Benton, their friend and a British subject, who was killed by order of General Villa last Tuesliy night. In spite of the fact that Consuls Letcher has been unable to final trace of Compton in Chihuhua, his friends here believe that he was taken prisoner there and probably returned to Juarez recently and was
