TORRANCE-SENN daughter of Mr. and Mrs P. M. Senr 31 Peel street, became the wife of Mr. W. H. Torrance of the Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B Torrance of Montreal. Rev. Mr. Jeakins, rector, officiated. The dainty bride, who was given away by her father, looked exceedingly pretty attired in a grey travelling poplin suit with a corsage bouquet of mauve orchards and lillies-of-the-valley and hat of white silk with crepe trimmings. During the ceremony th wedding march was played by her sis ter, Miss Elsie Senn.

At the close, an adjournment was made to the house where a dainty dejeuner was served and hearty good wishes expressed. Only the immediate relatives were invited. The happy couple left on a honey moon trip to Detroit, Chicago and points West and on their return will take up residence in the Queen City. The groom was at one time station ed in the branch of the bank in this city, and made a host of friends here. The bride has resided in the city all her life and earned the esteem of

Story of a Smart Boy Who Raised a Flock of Chickens.

Profitable Way For Children to Spend A quiet, but pretty wedding took place in St. Judes Church to-day when of Information—Puzzles and Games For the Small Fry.

Young people who live on farms or any place where they have a few rods of ground at their disposal might follow the example of a Pennsylvania boy with pleasure and profit. This boy, who is only nine years old, was given A a hen and setting of eggs on his birthday. The hen hatched out eleven hicks, and nine of them were pullets. One of the males he sold for 75 cents when it was ten weeks old, and the other one he raised. That is the one he is shown holding in his arms. It is of the Langshan breed and grew to be when the photograph was taken. Last winter his pullets laid many eggs. He took entire care of his flock and fed and watered them regularly. He lived in a small town and kept his flock in a yard back of his house. His father furnished the benhouse, but the flock carned much more than their feed cost. | illness. This season he is planning to raise several broods of chicks.

Pussy Raised the Rumpus. A Chicago lady became so afraid of burglars that her husband had the house fitted with burglar alarms. Then the family turned on the electric lights from garret to cellar. Armed with revolvers, the men cautiously descended then entered the dining room. Hah, a opened, and behold-the family cat! She had been fumbling at the doorknob and raised all the tumult and ter-

What Is Your Occupation? The game may be played by three or more children. One player becomes the "guesser," and the others each agree upon an occupation which he is supposed to follow. The guesser then asks, "What is your occupation?" and all the other players must go through the operation of performing the labor agreed upon. If from any one the guesser can get an idea as to what the labor is then the laborer must take his place. He can have but one guess.

Son of Former Brantfordite Gives His Life.

The following from the Winnipeg Free Press refers to a grandson of the 28 late Andrew McMeans of this city. 28 His father, Mr. Landrum McMeans, ex-M.P.P., is an old Brantford boy, and is well known here:-

"Once more does the casualty list drive home the terrors of the con-26 flict now raging in France, and once more does the name of one of Win-26 nipeg's most promising young citi-26 zens appear among those who have 26 given up their lives in the great 26 cause. He is the popular young officer, Capt. Ernest d' H. McMeans, 25 of the 90th Rifles, and he has been killed in action. The word came to day to his father, Lendrum Mcmeans, ex-M.P.P. for South Winnipeg, and conveyed the information that he had been killed on May 22. Ernest McMeans was one of the ost enthusiastic officers in the goth

Rifles, and he devoted all his spare time and energies to the furthering of the interests of that corps. A crack shot, never a year passed a very large. It was about a year old The Manitoba Provincial Rifle Association meet but that he carried off one or more of the best prizes. Mr. and Mrs James Marsh, 24 Port The late Capt. McMeans was educat-street, will have the sympathy of ed in the Winnipeg schools, then in many friends in connection with the the collegiate and later at Manitoba college, where he studied for the law. He was successful in all his examini-tions and was called to the bar in 1912. He at once went into partner ship with his father, Lendrum M:-Means, ex-M. P.P., and present liquor license commissioner for the province. His keen interest in musketry in general and shooting in particular brought him prominently to the front in the 90th. He possessed a certificate in musketry and was one of

There is another brother also the 90th now at the front, V. A. V. McMeans, who, up to now, is safe. Both Mr. and Mrs. McMeans are deeply shocked at the news of the Means throughout the Langemarck casualty lists' arrivals showed the greatest anxiety concerning his sons and every night paid a visit to the offices of the Free Press to scan the names. When these lists were concluded, Mr. McMeans expressed ing Hospital Day the greatest relief that his boys had far come through safely."

Service Was Held

A very impressive memorial service was held on Sunday in the Marlbord St. Methodist Church in memory of the late Private John Hawk, who was the town with June roses.
