Perhaps a woman loves secrets because of the pleasure it affords her to let them escape.

Amateur Aeronaut—Suppose when I get up a thousand feet in the air this balloon suddenly fails?

Manufacturer—Then bring it back.

Necessary for the Family. If health is to be maintained there must be at hand in every household a medicine which can be quickly relied upon to regulate the liver, kidney and bowels.

'Ah, sir, we do enjoy your sermons!' remarked an old lady to a new curate. 'They are so instructive. We never knew what sin was until you came to the parish.'

Johnnie (to new visitor)—So you are my grandpa, are you?

Grandmother—Yes, Johnnie! I'm your grandpa on your father's side.

Johnnie—Well, you're on the wrong side. You'll find that out!

Mrs. Younglove—John, are you aware that you haven't kissed me for a week?

Mr. Younglove—Yes, how darling, I was just waiting to see how long it would take you to notice it.

First Burial—'Hello, Jim! Why, you look as if you had been in a rail-way accident since I saw you last. What's wrong?' Second Burial—'I got into a house where the woman was waiting up for her husband, and she mistook me for him.'

'Charlie, dear,' queried the fair maid at the ball park, 'why does that man behind the bitter wear such a big bib?'

'That,' explained Charlie, 'is to keep his shirt from getting mussed when the ball knocks his teeth out.'

To Have a Beautiful Skin. One such of all the waste matter discharge from the human body passes out through the pores of the skin.

A man, praising porter, said that it was so excellent a beverage that taken in great quantities it always made him fat.

'When I should like to know?' said the ecologist. 'Why, no longer ago than last night—against the wall.'

There is a time in every man's life when the softly-breathed 'Yes of a pretty woman sounds as loud to his ears as the notes of Gabriel's trumpet.

Afterwards there comes a time when she has to yell at the top of her voice, 'John, John, it's time to get up, 'seventeen times before he becomes aroused enough to hear it.'

To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the best, the manufacturer has guaranteed it. See the money that they think of it. You can use it and get your money back.

Dr. Chase's Ointment. He had been a regular Sunday caller for six months, when one evening he dropped in arrayed in a new suit.

'That is a lovely wedding suit you have on,' remarked the dear girl.

'Why, gawped the astonished young man, 'this is a business suit.'

'Well,' rejoined the d. g. calmly, 'I meant business.'

And the very next day he put up $19.98 of his hard-earned wealth for a suit.

A Scottish laird overheard some lowland cattle dealers discussing the use of 'England' instead of 'Britain' in Nelson's famous signal.

According to one patriotic Scot, there was no question of the signal's forgetfulness, and when a companion expressed surprise at the injustice the patriot reassured him.

'Nelson,' he explained, 'only expects of the English; he said something of Scotland, for he knew the Scotch would do their best!'

A Well-Known Man.

DEAR SIR,—I am recommending your MIND'S EMBROIDERY for preservation and repair, as it is used for both with excellent results.

Investor—What do you mean by falsely representing the property? The notice stated that there was a view of fifty miles, and I could not see fifty yards.

Investor—Why, I looked all round me, and I could not see out of the valley. 'Well, mister,' returned the agent, 'you didn't look right. If you had gazed up, there'd be no trouble. I reckon you can see more'n a fifty miles up. I tell you, mister, I've added as the investor walked off, 'we don't misrepresent the facts down here.'

Dancing on Decline.

That the terpsichorean art is on the decline in France no longer admits of any doubt. Only a few days ago one of the most fashionable dancing masters of Paris, a dignified, handsome old gentleman, who has taught several generations of the children of the wealthy and aristocratic French families how to comport themselves in the drawing room and ballroom, was asked what he thought of modern tendencies.

The old professor held up his hands in an eloquent gesture of despair, and well he might. 'It is declining in all its horror,' he exclaimed. 'The only dances that seem to be popular to-day are those ungainly twirlings we see in the cake-walks, the Matchco and the Tango.'

We shall soon arrive at the bamboula of the negroes, or the scalp dance of the Red Indians. These ugly and ungracious dances come from America. And while we in Europe are not ashamed to offer them the hospitality of our saloons, do you know what the Americans of America society is doing? They are doing the pavane, the gavotte and the menuet, and all the aristocratic dances of the past. In other words, America, after having set the example of the most barbarous dances, is returning to the prettiness and most artistic dances.'

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheuma-Remedy, and with amazing success.

Rheuma-Remedy, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin-deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheuma-Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by A. V. Rand.

Things Old or New. It is indeed a pitiable thing to see the modern householder, after a spin around the town and a visit to the outer-county, discard some of her old-time favorites of the china closet and pin her faith, momentarily, to the latest thing out. It is iconoclastic, to say the least. This wholesale destruction of all household gods, be they of the kitchen or the reception room, leaves nothing to mark the generations that have gone.

The wholesome, harmless green leaves and tender stems of a long-leaved mountain shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Tickling or dry bronchial coughs quickly and safely yield to this highly effective cough medicine. Dr. Shoop assures mothers that their care with safety give it to even very young babies.

No opium, no chloroform—absolutely nothing harsh or harmful. It calms the distressing cough, and heals the sensitive membrane. Assuredly, when Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy is used, the cough is cured. Sold by A. V. Rand.

A strange custom is still observed in Roumania. When a servant has displeased his or her master, the offender takes his boots in his hands and places them before the head of his master. It is a sign of great submission, and the boots are either kicked away, as an intimation that the fault will not be forgiven, or else the servant is told to place them on his feet, which shows that he is forgiven.

After the age of 20 people find that their strength is not what it used to be, and they frequently suffer from sudden exhaustion, and weak heart action. To all such we recommend the invigorating tonic Perrovim, composed of fresh beef, Citrate of Iron and pure old Spanish Sherry Wine. Nothing could be more beneficial in such cases. $1.00 a bottle.

The Connecticut farmer was riding back from the cemetery with his nephew, after burying his wife.

'Well, sh's gone,' said the bereaved husband.

The nephew answered dutifully, 'She kept good care of me for forty years,' said the relict.

The nephew said that was so.

'And do you know,' said the mourner, 'toward the last I almost got to like her.'—Cosmopolitan.

World's Richest Woman.

Mrs. E. H. Harriman, widow of the railroad king of America, has learned that the estate left by her husband to her exclusive control and use totals in value about $100,000,000.

This makes Mrs. Harriman the world's richest woman. She has received an almost complete inventory.

About half the estate is represented by railroad securities. Another large part is in bank, trust company and insurance company holdings. The remainder is in real estate. The latter consists of 45,000 acres in Orange county, New York, and the two Fifth avenue residences owned by Mr. Harriman.

Stomach troubles would most quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, came into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the heart, and one to the kidneys. When these 'inside nerves' fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by A. V. Rand.

Belleville, Ont.—I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Scatter Joy. There is no beautifier of complexion or form or behavior, like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us.—Emerson.

And if in this life on earth, In the chamber or by the hearth, 'Mid the crowded city's tide, Or high on the lone hill side; Thou canst cause a thought of peace Or an aching thought to cease, Or a gleam of joy to burst On a soul in sadness nursed; Spare not thy hand, my child; Though the gladness should never know The well-spring amid the wild, Whence the waters of blessing flow.—G. Macdonald.

Alcohol and Child Life. Before a recent congress of physicians, Dr. T. A. McNichol, a well known New York physician, read a paper on 'The Relation of Alcohol and Child Life,' which has awakened much interest, and is receiving some discussion in the press. During the fifteen years he had been interested in the subject and had been gathering information by personal investigation and in collaboration with others. He presents these facts as the result of studies of 30,000 children of all ages from infancy to nineteen years: 'Fifty-eight per cent. drink some form of alcoholic beverage occasionally or at regular intervals. Thirty-seven per cent. drink one glass of beer a week to five glasses of beer a day. Twenty-one per cent. drink wine or spirits. In some groups the percentage of occasional and regular drinkers runs as high as seventy nine per cent. Of those attending schools, forty six per cent. are backward in their studies. He draws the following conclusions: Alcohol in the form of beer and spirits does not overcome the disturbances of nutrition due to a bad hygienic environment. Alcohol tends to lessen all the bodily forces, mental, moral and physical. The heaviest burden entailed by indulgence in alcoholic beverages is not borne by the drinker, but by his innocent and debilitated children. The mental deficiency which makes it impossible to keep the children in the New York schools up to the standard of studies is due, he says, to the drinking habits of the parents. We quote his statement: 'Degeneracy and mental deficiency have increased at such a rate that efforts made by both educators and the New York Board of Health to combat the mental failure through special schools have failed to keep pace with the growth. Drinking among women is on the increase, and special bars have been started for women. They do a thriving business among society leaders, whose children are the ultimate sufferers from the excesses of the parents.'

Alcohol and the London Postal Service. A vote recently taken in the Postal Service in the Metropolitan of Great Britain has created wide interest in a projected regulation regarding drinking facilities on the premises for employees of the service. The question of selling intoxicants in the various canteens and refreshment bars which are to be found in London Post Offices has been discussed, both pro and con, on many occasions during recent years, and in order to settle the matter decisively, the Postmaster General ordered a vote to be taken in each office. Meetings were held, and the matter was presented and fully discussed by agitators on both sides. The result was a triumph for the temperance advocates, the majority being overwhelmingly against the sale of intoxicants on the premises.

Drink and Divorce. United States census returns show that drunkenness figured as a direct and contributing cause in 59 per cent. of all divorces from 1887 to 1906 in the United States. According to the census figures, liquor was the sole cause of divorce in 13,516 cases, and the cause in combination with some other in 17,765 cases. In addition to this, there were 130,877 in which drunkenness was an indirect or contributory cause.

Wellington and Walseley. The late Duke of Wellington once said he was convinced that if a system of temperance could be generally established in the army, it would be Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St. Sorel, Quebec. 'I suffered from stomach disease for years, with dreadful pain over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by a different doctor without any benefit.

'Then I got a sample of "Fruit-Lives," but I had not taken them all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged me to try them for ten days. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-Lives," I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the cramps were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier. I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again.' (Signed) MADAME JOSEPH LIRETTE, noc. box—6 for $1.50—or trial box 25c. at dealers or from Fruit-Lives Limited, Ottawa.

greatly for the advantage of the discipline and efficiency of the troops. During the Peninsular war, the Duke heard that a large magazine of wine lay on his line of march, and fearing more for his men from barrels of wine than batteries of cannon, he instantly dispatched a body of men to knock every wine barrel on the head. Lord Walseley says: 'Our men enjoyed plentiful health in the Sudan, and this is due to the fact that from the time they entered the Sudan until they quitted it they were not supplied with spirits.'

Personal Testimony. Abraham Lincoln said of temperance in 1853: 'The most effectual remedy would be the passage of a law altogether abolishing the liquor traffic.'

Andrew Carnegie, in 'The Empire of Business,' said: 'You are more likely to fail in your career from acquiring the habit of drinking liquor than from all other temptations likely to assail you.'

President Wm. H. Taft, in an interview in The Defender, N. Y., Aug. 1909, declared himself an abstemious and told young men it was the best plan, and in 1908, he turned his wine glass down and said it was 'going to stay down forever.' In his Vice lectures he declared for local option.
