Miss Springstead Succeeds Against the Street Railway.

Jury Disagreed in the Italian Impersonation Case.

Several Cases Have Been Settled Without Trial.

At the Assize Ciurt yesterday afternoon the jury in the action of Spring-stead vs. The Hamilton Street Railway brought in a verdict of $1,500 and costs for the plaintiff. The action was brought by Miss Rhoda Springstead for an accident that occurred to her while in the act of getting off a street car at the corner of Main and Margaret streets on November 3rd, 1908. She had got on a King street west car about 6 o'clock on the night of the accident, and on-nearing the corner of Main and Margaret, nodded to the conductor that she wanted to get off. The car stopped at the corner and several got off, she being the last one. While in the act of getting off the car started. The plaintiff was given a nasty wrench, which spun her around, aveneching her knee badly. She did not fall. As the car passed on the conductor called out, "I beg your pardon," but did not stop the car. She was able to proceed to her home, but a doctor had to be called in, and afterwards she had to undergo an operation, from which she has not entirely recovered. J. W. Nesbitt, K. C., represented the plaintiff.

Mr. M. J. O'Reilly, K. C., offered no an accident that occurred to her while tiff.

Mr. M. J. O'Reilly, K. C., offered no defence, and the case went to the jury for the assessment of the damages and returned the above verdict.

The next case was that of Levi vs. Hamilton Street Railway for $2.000 damages for injury to a passenger, Mrs. Fanny Levi was riding on a King street east car on September 29th, 1908. She told the conductor that she wanted to get off at Wellington street. The conductor, however, went past that street, ductor, however, went past that stre but stopped at West avenue. While was getting off, the car started, and she was thrown to the ground, inflicting in juries. Mr. W. S. McBrayne acted for juries. Mr. W. S. McBrayne acted for the plaintiff, and Mr. M. J. O'Reilly, K. C., for the company. The case was laid over until this morning, at the conclusion of the plaintiff's case.

The jury in the criminal action of Louis Perrini, charged with aiding and abetting in the impersonation of Giovanni Cordetti, came into the court after the plaintiff of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the court after the court after the contraction of the court after th abetting in the impersonation of Giovanni Cordetti, came into the court after a four hours' wrangle, with the decision that there was no chance of an agreement, as the members stood evenly divided. His Lordship wanted to know if there was any chance of an agreement. He did not like the idea of keeping the jurymen penned up any longer than could be helped, but wanted to dispose of the case. The foreman replied that there was little chance of the members of the jury coming together. The point in dispute was as to whether Perrini had spoken with intent to lead Cordetti on to impersonate Cyrus Rose, or whether he had spoken with the intention of assisting Cordetti, who speaks broken English. His Lordship agreed that it was a vital point in the case, and if there was no chance of an agreement, he would have to discharge the jurors. There was a moment's pause, and then His Lordship let the jurors. Dererini was bound over on his own recognizance to appear at the mext sittings of the Assize Court in March.

A number of damage actions have been settled but there was a fourteen.

The jury in the case of Levi vs. The lamilton Street Railway did not retire ntil after twelve o'clock this afternoon. The next case taken up was that of ocks vs. Wagstaffe, Limited, for $625 for wrongful dismissal. The plaintiff claims he was engaged by Mr. Wagstaffe in November, of 1907, as Jam-boiler. In June of 1908, according to his statement, the parties drew up a contract whereby Mr. Cocks was to work at a salary of $16 Mr. Cocks was to work at a salary of $16 a week, from June 1st., 1908, to June 1st, 1909. Some time during the month of August relations became strained and the plaintiff was informed that his engagement would terminate on November 1st, 1908. The case will go on this afternoon. W. A. Logic is appearing for the plaintiff, and J. L. Counsell for the defence.

NEW SCALE

FOR PRINTERS.

A temporary altar was erected in the Louis XV. room of the Mills residence in West 69th street for the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Bishop Cusack, of St. Stephen Roman Catholic Church. The bride wore a within the star night for the purpose of electing officers for the year and for final consideration of the scale of wages which is to prevail in the news rooms during the next three years and four months. For a morth or more the publishers, the members of the union's scale committee and the International representative, Mr. Charles Kinskey, of Buffalo, have been working on the scale, and came to an agreement a few days ago, which means an increase from $14.50 to $16 a week for all day hands for the year 1909, advancing to $16.50 for the second, and to $17 for the third year of the three-year term of the agreement. The minimum for machine operators is raised from $14.25' to $16 a week, but the operators agree to give an increased amount.

A temporary altar was erected in the Louis XV. room of the Mills residence in West 69th street for the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Bishop Cusack, of St. Stephen Roman Catholic Church. The bride sown, and carried a prayer book instead of a bouquet. She was attended by Miss Alice Astor; Miss Edith Taylor and Miss Beatrice Bishop. She was given away by her father. Lord Granard's brother, the Hon. Domald Forbes, was best man. The guests numbered about 250. These included a number of notables of society of this and other cities.

The gifts to the bride included a cheque from her father for $100,000, to be supplemented later on, it is said, by a London town house from her grand to $17.50 for the second, and to $17.50 for the second, and to $17.50 for the second and to $17.50 for the secon from $14.25' to $16 a week, but the operators agree to give an increased amount of type equal to the advance in wages, and will receive the usual bonus on all work above the minimum amount re-

The union last night accepted the new agreement in as far as it applies to the Times and the Herald, and it goes into effect at once, lasting until April 30, 1912. The Spectator did not consent to the new arrangement.

(Special Despatch to the Times.)

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 14.—Nor-man Glintz, who is employed at the Hippodrome, and resides on Lake street, returned home about midnight last night and had retired but a short time when he was aroused by a noise at the rear door of the house. It required but rear door of the house. It required but a moment's thought for him to decide that an attempt was being made to effect an entrance into his house. He opened the window above the door and warned the burglars that he would fire if they did not leave at once. As they showed no signs of desisting in their work he fired a couple of shots from his revolver and the men left in hot haste. The shots awakened some of the neighbors and a search was made. No footprints were found in the snow around Glintz's residence, the burglars having evidently entered the yard by means of a shovelled path. No trace of the men could be found. At least, half a dozen burglaries in that part of the city have been committed in the past two months. Arthur Bradley, wife and three children, of Thorold, are just recovering from the effects of coal gas, which escaped from a heater and very nearly asphyxiated the entire family.

The fire department had a busy time of it yesterday and to-day. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock a fire at 95 Leeming street, the residence of Mr. John McClemont, did $600 damage in one coom alone. Mrs. McClemont was cleaning the carpet with gasoline, when in some manner it caught fire, and the front room was completely gutted before the fire department could check the blaze. A piano was among the burned articles, and all the furniture was a total loss in this one room. The rest of the house was untouched, and it is estimated that $600 will cover the

at the head of Wentworth street for $25,000. The secretary was instructed to write the manager of the bank, and notify him that if a smaller offer for the property was made the board would consider it. The property, if secured, will be used as playgrounds for children. A request to make a new entrance into Dundurn Park from Kennell street was refused. Commissioner Hope urged the board to take down the two big stone pillars on York street and widen the main entrance. At present, with rigs and automobiles going through the narrow entrance, he said, there was danger of pedestrians being hurt. No action was taken. The usual votes of thanks were passed. Actions assessed the fire department was called to a frame shed in rear of 119 Charlton avenue west, the residence of A. J. Scott. Carelessness with a match while some person was in the shed is blamed for the blaze. The damage was small, however.

Just two minutes after the fire department got back from the above fire an alarm was turned in for Walter Woods & Co's. warehouse, 74 MacNab street north. A broken steam pipe caused some alarm, but did no damage, and the firemen had their run for noth

Mr. Stewart was behind the counter at the time. He had finished sweeping, when the explosion took place. Stewart was blown across the room and through a doorway, and two doors and a window were blown out. The floor was damaged and a fire started in the cellar. The firemen were able to get the blaze out without difficulty in a short time, and it is thought that $150 will cover the loss.
