Big Mineral Discovery.

ST. JOHN'S MAN INTERESTED IN LARGE AREAS IN AUSTRIAN ALPS.

A gentleman of the city is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Geo. E.
Barnes, a well known citizen, who is now in Vienna, the capital of Austria. In the communication Mr.
Barnes says:—He has just returned from the Austrian Alps, where he has a staff of mining engineers inspecting a platinum and gold area of some 12,000 acres extent. The property has been purchased by Mr. Barnes and associates of London and Paris, the purchase price running into millions of dollars. The report of the engineers is that the quantity of ore in sight is sufficient to last 100 stamp mills for over 1500 years, and the average value from the various assays is about $5 per ton. This discovery is regarded as one of the greatest of the 20th century. Mr.
Barnes adds that the property is well situated, with ample water power nearby, and labor plentiful and cheap, and that the climate was all that could be desired, there being no snow up to Dec. 20th the time of writing.
Mr. Barnes, who visited here last summer, has since travelled extensively, going East as far as Burma in connection with oil interests.

Buildings on the Sun!

Well into last century it was believed that the sun was inhabited, not with puny beings like ourselves, but with people weighing several tons and of proportionate strength.
The sun, being a body of most tremendous size, must necessarily have inhabitants worthy of its grandeur.
And, having men, women, and children, it must have buildings in which to house them and to carry on their industries.

Hence some observers, with an imaginative which did credit to their imaginative faculties, were certain that they had discovered buildings on the dark, solid body of the sun. The buildings were not claimed to be in regular formation, such as a vast city in the sun might be supposed to contain, but were merely "traces."

As a fact, what they actually saw was not a dark body on the sun at all, for it possesses none, but dark openings (caused by uprushes of gas) in the sun's flaming envelope.
These openings we know as sun-spots, and the differences in the shades of the spots were taken to be buildings beside which St. Paul's Cathedral would be a mere toy.

Girls! Girls!! Clear Your Skin With Cuticura

Hard on Jones.

Claire Adams, who plays the leading feminine role in Benjamin B.
Hampton's production of "The Killer," tells her studio friends a humorous incident that occurred during her training for Red Cross nursing at the Grace Hospital, Detroit.

"One of the patients, a gentleman with a pessimistic turn of mind, watched Jones, a fellow sufferer, regain consciousness after a minor operation.

"Thank God, it's over with!" gasped Jones.

"Immediately the pessimist informed him:

"Don't be sure it's over. That man over there had to be operated on twice because the doctor left a piece of cotton in his stomach. Then once a button from a nurse's dress fell into a man's appendix, and they had to take his appendix out."

"Just then the doctor stuck his head in the door and asked if anyone had seen his hat!"

"Jones faints!"

Robert Aiken, the sculptor, who was awarded a gold medal for his "Fountain of the Earth" at the San Francisco exposition, is now busy on an equestrian monument for the University of Virginia. He has depicted the white man and Indian in his seven-figure group.

LONDON GOSSIP.

THE KING AND SOUTHERN.
LONDON, Jan. 24th, 1921.

It has always been a complaint among Southern yachtsmen that they do not have an annual race week comparable to Cowes. They are trying to arrange one this year, either for June or July. The King is anxious to go to it and race the Britannia. Whether he does so will depend on a date being found to suit his London arrangements and on other owners of big yachts being willing to race off the Nore before sending their vessels to Cowes.
No date later than Cowes would serve, because the crack yachts and their owners all work westward and northward from the Solent for a series of regattas, finishing on the Clyde, Scotland.

PROPER PAY FOR NURSES.
Trained nurses have as a class been for a long time notoriously underpaid, but I hear that the tendency among hospitals nowadays is to pay their probationers at a high rate, sometimes giving these untrained women nearly as much as the qualified nurses. This queer state of things is due to the great difficulty in obtaining probationers, which has forced the different institutions, especially the hospitals under the Poor Law, to compete against each other for the limited number of women available. The lower salary than probationers now receive is a result of the fact that the probationers are better fitted to take up the work but to undergo the four years' training at a much lower salary than probationers now receive. As it is, the probationer's salary, which in some hospitals ranges from $160 to $200 a year, is attracting many women who would otherwise go into domestic service and who would perhaps be better fitted for that work. The College of Nursing is now circulating the hospitals and recommending a scale of minimum salaries higher than that which was fixed last year to meet the increased cost of living. The scale suggests that probationers should be paid £72 in the first year and £750 in the fourth, and that staff nurses should receive from $240 to $280 in the first year, with annual increments of $20. Matrons of the largest hospitals should start with $2,000 and have an annual increment of $100, while it is recommended that fully trained nurses holding non-resident posts should receive $1,000. Some are now getting only $520. The hospitals, I believe, are welcoming these recommendations.

PENDING REVOLUTION IN PUB-LISHING TRADE.

I am informed on reliable authority that there is a prospect of the great book publishing firms in London, or many of them, making arrangements under which they will do their own printing and binding of the books which they publish. At present there are a few publishers in the country who have their own printing presses, in which in some cases the whole and in other cases part of their books are printed; but in most instances the printing and book-binding are done for publishers by independent organisations. The idea is that the change will, in many cases at least, be brought about by triple amalgamation—the publisher, the printer, and the binder in each case combining into one great firm. The reason for the change is not far to seek. The enormous expenses in the publishing trade arising out of war and post-war conditions are by no means falling off.
Though there has been a slight decrease in the cost of paper, the cost of printing has again recently risen, and within the last few days the cost of engraving for illustrations has suffered another increase. The total cost of book production is thus as high as ever, and no one can tell when the demands for higher printers' wages will end. The suggested amalgamation would, it is thought, lead to great saving in the cost of book production. In that case the price of books would not have to be increased to such an extent as will be necessary if the new arrangement is not entered into. At present books, especially the cheaper ones, are not sold at an economic price, and it is difficult to see the public to pay more.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND EMIGRA-TION.

All the Dominions are now unusually busy in London with enquiries and applicants for facilities of emigration. Canada is closest, until March next to all emigrants except those who can give satisfactory evidence of having situations waiting for them on the other side. Ex-service men are selecting Canada for their destination in increasing numbers, and availing themselves of the financial help offered by the Overseas Settlement Committee. The Government of Ontario are arranging to receive two large parties of ex-service men early in March, who must arrive in Canada on the threshold of spring. These men will be sent out by the Settlement Committee and placed in Canada by the Government of the Ontario Province, Australia and New Zealand are hindered in the matter of despatching approved ex-service men by the limited shipping accommodation available. I learn that Scotland is now supplying a large percentage of the applicants for emigration privileges. Many ex-service men, after wearily waiting for the results of experiments on small holdings, have abandoned the hope of finding a niche on the land at home.

WOMEN SHOP-LIFTERS.
Women shop-lifters have been very busy during the sales, especially in the more crowded and popular shops, where it must be very easy for a customer to stow articles without being observed. Indeed, the wonder is, not that so much is stolen, but that so many women are caught in the act.
The head detective employed by one of the big shops says that the woman shop-lifter comes from every class of society, but he says that he cannot recall any instance where a woman has

Mainly About People.

The car in which Marshal Foch met the German armistice delegation degenerated to a dining car. It will be restored to its armistice condition and placed in one of the national museums. There are two tablets in the car, one giving the name of Foch's great battles and the other the date, place and names of those signing the armistice.

Rudyard Kipling used a medicine company of London for using a stanza from one of his poems beginning, "If you can force heart, never aimed, etc." and was awarded 40 shillings damages and costs. The famous author was perfectly satisfied with the verdict.

General A. W. Greely is kept in close touch with the far north. He has just heard from Captain Godfrey Hanson, Danish navy, from Grinnel Land. It is 40 years now since the Greely expedition. There are only two others living, General Brinnard in Washington and Sergeant Connell in San Jose, Cal.

Georges Carpentier, Europe's heavy weight pugilistic champion, is the proud father of Jacqueline Carpentier, now a few months old. The father wants champions in his family, and so has decided to make her a champion tennis player.

Editor Joshua S. Smith, who made the Rockland, Mass. Standard famous among New England weeklies, has been a resident of the town for 50 years. He is a native of Edgartown.
The whole of Rockland participated recently in the golden wedding of the editor and Mrs. Smith.

Miss Sarah Isabelle Skinner, of Hampshire, is godmother to the entire French village of Hailon-Chatel, one of the devastated places in the valley of the Meuse, and has already given a half million of francs. She replaced the church bell stolen by the Germans, and the villagers christened it "Sarah Isabelle."

There are a few farm men in the country who know more about hens, pullets, chickens and poultry farming than Oscar M. Wilbur, of Maine. He instructs the poultry farmers of the State. He tells how a layer may be detected from a brooder at sight.

During debates in the House of Commons, as soon as one member sits down possibly several others rise at the same moment to continue the discussion.

Of course it would not do for all to speak at once, and the question of which was the first to rise would be very difficult to answer. The problem is decided by the Speaker, who makes a sign to whichever member is to remain on his feet. This is called "catching the Speaker's eye."

The custom came into being during the famous Long Parliament, in 1640. At this time there was much dispute as to the precedence of members, and as each was backed by his own particular friends, a great deal of the time of the House was wasted in deciding who was to have the first hearing. Finally, a rule was made leaving the choice to the Speaker, who naturally gives the honour to the member whom he considers was first on his feet.

Any occupant of the front benches, where the Cabinet Ministers and leaders of the Opposition sit, has precedence over the ordinary members.

The Public hears a lot about Price Reductions to-day. But it is of no interest to the workman to hear the price of the Rolls Royce Car is dropping.
But the laborer, the milkman, the lumberman, takes heart when he hears that he can now get a Twenty Dollar Mackinaw or Overcoat for only Ten Dollars. The prices of Men's Mackinaw and Overcoats are cut in two for Ten Days only, at BLAIR'S.—Feb. 22/21

Revising History.

Three hundred and fifty years ago, just after the return of Charles II. to the throne of Great Britain, a mob of Royalists who had hated and misunderstood Cromwell, the great Commoner, dug his body out of the grave, dragged it through the London streets to Tyburn, and hanged it in the gibbet there, and afterwards cut off the head. They also went to Westminster Abbey and demanded from the priests the bodies of Cromwell's wife and daughter, and dragged them through the streets and threw them into a common pit.

But as you go into the House of Commons now, the first thing you notice as you enter is the noble statue of Cromwell, inside the enclosure of the Houses of Parliament, the only monument of any kind that has ever been allowed a place there.

About sixty years ago, in the British Museum, there was a large cartoon in Punch showing Abraham Lincoln sitting on a heap of skulls of American soldiers, and laughing over a funny story he was telling to his cabinet.

But a few months ago, in the midst of a pouring rain, in the heart of London, a great crowd stood with bared heads when a noble statue of Lincoln was unveiled, and the English people honored him as the First American.

CONTROL!

"RAYBESTOS" Brake Lining

Will always grip and hold the car in any emergency because it is made of long fibre asbestos woven with brass wire and treated in a way that gives it the greatest gripping power.

"RAYBESTOS" gives longer wear than any other lining, and it wears evenly down to the last sixteenth of an inch. Most of the best known car manufacturers use RAYBESTOS.

Look for the silver edge: your protection against imitations.

Send your car to us to be overhauled and have the brakes relined with RAYBESTOS and protect yourself against accidents.
