

A Tribute to Our Heroes

Surround the base with flowers—blooms of life;
And place the wreaths against the unheaven rock:
Remember those who perished in the strife
When hell upon our loved ones urged its shock—
They may have left us—these poor flowers will die—
But they have won their immortality.

Lift up the cross of stone—'tis granite hard,
And typifies an awful sacrifice;
But still, erect, it pointeth heavenward,
And hath a victory despising price:
Our heroes died—and we have liberty!
God keeps the lads who went to keep us free.

Our banner waves—'tis ours to-day, imbued
With their dear blood, who died it still might float
Above the free, averse to servitude:
We turn to them again our loving thought,
With thanks to God for such—the bold, the brave,
Who bore our name in glory to the grave.

Memorial Day.

We congratulate the Great War Veterans Association of Newfoundland for the great success achieved in carrying out the programme of Memorial Service on Sunday, in honor of their fallen comrades, who laid down their lives in the Great War. The weather was perfect for an outdoor ceremonial and the services were most impressive. The citizens turned out in thousands and assembled in the square around the Soldiers' Monument at the foot of Garrison Hill, and the good order and respectful silence that prevailed was the best testimony of the unfeigned and heartfelt sympathy that animated the minds of the vast assemblage. Instinctively the thoughts of all went back to that glorious first of July seven years ago when the brave Newfoundland boys

There's not to reason why,
There's but to do and die,
Advanced upon the enemy's lines
In the face of desperate odds.
With thoughts of the honor of Newfoundland and of honor and kindred in their hearts they freely gave their lives. They gained for our country and its people a place of military distinction in the Empire, which will be handed down to our descendants throughout all future ages in the proud epigrammatic verdict of a British General, "Better Than the Best." They have passed out into the great eternal silence. They could do no more. The duty now devolves upon this country to keep their memory green, and that this will be done was splendidly demonstrated in Sunday's celebration with its impressive memorial services. The prevailing sentiment was necessarily one of sadness in deference to the feelings of the many relatives, mothers, sisters, wives and brothers present to whom the anniversary brought back the most sad and poignant wounds that cannot be completely healed on this side of the grave and every return of July the first will bring a renewal of sorrow. The healing hand of time, however, is ever working to mitigate this natural sentiment and turn it into well-mellowed pride and glory. The ceremony has now matured into a lasting national event, and no doubt the time will come when due tribute of mourning having been paid, the day will be observed by coming generations with eclat and glorification and flags flying from the top of the poles to honor the glorious dead, and mark the day that Newfoundland emerged from comparative obscurity to a front place in the military life of the Empire.

What fame were theirs in all succeeding days,
While Phoebus shines and men have tongues to praise."

Disgraceful Conduct.

The action of the young man, standing on the tower of the B.I.S. Hall on Sunday last, who during the ceremony in commemoration of our boys who made the Supreme Sacrifice, attempted to make a burlesque of the most solemn moments is deserving of the severest condemnation. We don't think the sultry person could have called or that any one belonging to him took his place in the light for his homeland and loved ones, for if so, such conduct would not be possible. Certain it is that he, by his action, insulted the thousands present at the ceremony, he insulted the hall on which he stood and insulted the flag, flying at half-mast above his head. Judging by the indignation expressed by those around it had been taken off his feet and the laws of gravitation allowed to take care of the finish.

Methodist Conference.

SATURDAY'S SESSION.

Conference opened at 9.30 with devotional services. The College Board of Governors convened at the chairmanship of Mr. C. F. Ayre. The annual expense runs to $29,000, with a balance of $1,500. Two additional resolutions regarding the new residence, electric installation was made during the year. Mr. Edgecombe and Mr. Young leave the staff, the former to take a post graduate course, the latter to take a position in Moncton, N.B. The Treasurer, Mr. Joseph Peters, in presenting his report referred to the recreation field presented by Mr. Ayre, and pointed out that it had introduced a new element into school life. Over $1200 had been spent on the field during the year. During the year Mr. McDougall (C.A.) had volunteered to install a modern system of accounting which is being operated by a trained book-keeper.

Hearty votes of thanks were presented to the executive, staff and guardian. Dr. Trueman spoke very highly of the standing in Canada of pupils from the Methodist College. Rev. Ezra Broughton was appointed Treasurer of Superannuation Fund. Grants from Parsonage Aid Fund were recommended: $50 to Greenspond and $50 to Little Bay Parsonages. Dr. Trueman's address at the noon hour was admirably suited to his audience, composed mostly of ministerial delegates. The minister to be effective must be studious, and particularly so of the Scriptures. The Scriptures are not an exhausted mine but an inexhaustible mine. The study of Comparative Religion is valuable because it is reaching out to God. Scientific equipment is only effective when properly used. The minister must be a shipper of his ship. He was to vitalize the machinery and to lead his people into the eternal haven. After the Ministerial Session on Saturday afternoon the Pastoral Address was presented by Rev. W. J. Morris, the ex-President. The address was ordered to be printed and read in all our churches.

MONDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

At the opening of the session on Monday mention was made that Rev. Mr. Reay was in the General Hospital seriously ill, and a special messenger was despatched with greetings. The Statistical Report was presented by Rev. C. R. Blount, Secretary. The Financial Report showed an increase of $22,000 for all purposes, which in a year of great depression is an indication of the loyalty and devotion of our people. The report of the Superintendent of Missions, Rev. Dr. Fenwick, was interesting and exhaustive in its treatment of the work under his care. Some 47 stations out of a total of 78 come under the direct supervision of this department. Tables were presented showing the amounts raised per family on each mission and also the amounts per family contributed by the Missionary Fund. In some cases changes were contemplated which would save at least $1,000 of missionary money. Mr. A. Mews, C.M.G., representative to the General Board, then spoke and referred to the sacrifice that must have been made to give such splendid results in spite of the undoubted poverty which existed in nearly all the fields. He gave an interesting account of the Missionary operations in China and Japan and gave figures to show how rapidly our work was expanding. There being still some four minutes to the time set for Dr. Trueman's address Rev. F. Langford with his usually respectful promptly responded to the President's call to make an explanation regarding our work in Tokio, Japan. Dr. Trueman in his final address pointed out that the first duty of the church is to bring men into vital relationship with God. There must be the cloister in the house. The fire from the altar and the lightning with the Master. Prayer is a necessity. Beauty must be associated with

Methodist Conference.

SATURDAY'S SESSION.

A discourse followed in regard to the number of appointments in the Civil Service according to the denominations. It was seen that the disparity in Methodist appointments had increased over that of two years ago. While this is to be deplored, yet it goes to prove that the Methodist Church has played an honorable part in keeping herself clear of all intrigues in matters of civil appointments. The Conference Board of Trustees reported Marshall Fund Scholarships paid to Charles House and Frank Meadus $65.00 each. The Macpherson Bequest for parsonages has awarded $200 to Carmanville; $50 to Little Bay Islands; $100 to Fortune and $100 to Bell Island. Dr. Darby entertained the Conference at supper in the College residence. After supper a discussion took place regarding the new residence. Conference convened at 8 o'clock. A resolution was unanimously passed thanking Dr. Trueman for his visit and services to the Conference. In the Memorial Service the names of William H. Browning, Wm. S. Howell and Hayward W. Martin, who had died during the year, were read with appropriate minutes in each case. Revs. John T. Newman and Wm. J. Morris were the principal speakers of the evening. Both delivered impressive addresses, the former speaking of the worth of the deceased brethren. Men are falling; we are called to new service in their place. Suitable and touching references were made also by Drs. Fenwick, Curran and others.

He denied that he had official information that the United States government proposed to arrest ship captains and seize foreign vessels entering harbours with liquor under seal.

BRITAIN MAY TAKE INDEPENDENT ACTION. LONDON, July 3. While reports of independent British action for reparation settlement with Germany are characterized as premature, it is learned that they are not wholly incorrect and should the French reply to the questionnaire, asking for the outline of the French policy for form basis for negotiations, the cabinet is likely to be called for immediate consideration of independent action. It is reassured, however, that reports of British pressure upon France for settlement of war debt are wholly inaccurate.

morality. He paid a well-deserved tribute to the President regarding his sermon of Sunday morning. An interesting illustration of practical work was given, showing how in Wingham, Ontario, the members of the Official Board visited every family and personally presented the claims of Jesus. The work of the church was also to make the social environment safe for all who sought to do the will of God.

Monday afternoon a lively discussion took place as to the justification or otherwise of the positions of Superintendent of Missions in this Conference. Messrs. Howes, Dr. Darby, V. R. Butler, R. H. Mercer, R. E. Fairbairn, Hammond Johnson, A. Mews and others took part in the debate. The discussion closed with a unanimous vote of confidence in the necessity of the continuance of the Superintendent of Missions in this Conference.

One of our veteran members, Wm. Swann, is returning to England. The Conference placed on record its high appreciation of the worth and merit of Mr. Swann, and in a motion in which several resolutions were adopted wished him God-speed.
