A Quiet Ceremony.

A Quiet Ceremony.

The corne stoner of the $20,000 addition to the Collegiate Institute was laid shortly before noon to day. It was a very quiet affair, only School Trustees Dewar and Turner, Architect Fred Henry, Inspector Perry, Principal Merchant, Janitor Jury Purner, Arontect Fred Henry, Inspector Perry, Principal Merchant, Janitor Jury and Contractor S. Flory being present. The box deposited in the atone contained copies of the daily and weekly ADVERTISER and Free Press, Catholic Record, Echo, Y. M. C. A. Points, the annual reports of the Board of Education for 1891 and 1892 and the Collegiate Institute annou 1892 and 1893. A number of coins and stamps and a description of the addition, with the names of the contractors, were also put in. The stone was laid by Mr. Dewar, and the whole ceremony was over in a very short time. Work on the portion is being pushed ahead rapidly. Feeling Sore.

Feeling Sore.

A large number of those who bet their money on Carling in the recent election are feeling very sore. They had hoped that the appeals to the Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall would have resulted in the reversal of the decisions given against them here. The cases of Trebilcock vs. Walsh and Trebilcock vs. Gustin upon which judgment was given Saturday cost the Carling men about $700 in costs. It is not probable that after this dose they will carry it to the Supreme Court. Others who also intended to appeal to try to get the money wagered on Hyman are greatly disappointed at this test case, and will-have to swallow their chagrin.

A man who believed, for example, that Canada and the United States might better serve the cause of humanity by remaining separate peoples, was within his right in so believing and so arguing; but not more so than he lwho took an opposite view, and upheld his view in legitimate and constitutional ways. But saddest of all was the spirit that would regard another as an enemy because he saw fit to worship God by different forms. The barriers between the various Protestant denominations were not as great to-day as they had been, but we should not confine our love even in Protestant limits. However much we might see in the history and teaching of the Roman Catholic Church as an institution, to dissent from, yet to the individuals therein we should manifest no bitterness, but love; and the society or individual that placed itself in the position of reiusing employment or support in any way to an individual because of his religious conviction, was displaying the disposition of bigotry, and the result of such a stand could be evil and only evil. Moreover, all experience proved that such antagonism manifested, surely nourished and strengthened the one condemned in his position, and caused the spark of evil passion to break forth in to a flame. He exhorted his hearers to display the spirit of love in their business, politics, religion, the great reward held out being a growth in likeness to God. His sunshine and rain fell upon the fields of the godly and the godless, and turned not aside because of any tence erected by man. So should the love of Christ rule in our hearts, turning not away because of any barrier—antional, political or religious, but displaying helpfulness and sympathy to all men, our the great Father who makes his sun to rise on the evil and good, and sends his rain upon the just and the unjust.

THE POLICE COURT.

Met || Keepers Fined-Street Car Driver

Rabert Lloyd, hotel-keeper, was charged at this morning's Police Court with selling liquor to a minor. Wm, Pate, the boy to whom the liquor was sold was present but was net called. Mr. Lloyd said that the liquor had been sold while he was sick in bed by a new bartender, who was not aware of the law. The magistrate inflicted the lowest possible fine, $10.

Jerry McDonald was charged with having a light in his barroom on the night of Feb. 22.
P. C. Egelton, P. C. McDonald and P. C. Ralph all entered the box and swore that the light was in the bar from 11:45 until 12:30, when four men came out. They went to the window in the lane, on the west side of the hotel, and from there heard voices, footsteps and cork drawing. They tried the front and back doors and could not get in.

Mr. McDonaid claimed that the light seen ould not get in.

Mr. McDonald claimed that the light seen in the barroom was the reflection of the stove on the ceiling, the voices and footsteps heard were in the hall, and the men that went out were simply callers. They had been in the hall, but not in the barroom. In proof of his assertions he called Harry McCann, James Herry, Charles Henley and Wilbert Gosnell, but their testimony did not cover the time after 11:40.

In summing up the magistrate said that even if it was as claimed, that the light was reflected from a stove, it brought them within the pale of the law. He inflicted the lowest fine, $20.

John W. Jakes, a street car driver, was charged with cruelty to animals in that or Feb. 27, he drove a horse that was suffering

rom a sore shoulder.

Sergesnt Crawford was the complainant and his evidence was backed by that of P. C. Westman. They both testified to seeing the horse, which was attached to No. 10 sleigh, wince in starting up. They examined the shoulders and found on one side a sore. a little over an inch in width, and sleigh, wince in starting up. They examfined the shoulders and found on one side a sore, a little over an inch in width, and about the same in length.

Superintendent Smith testified that he had seen the horse shortly after it was returned to the stables. The sore was just in the crevice of the neck and might have been opened afresh by the strain
attending the pulling of the car through a heavy rut. The horse did not flinch any when he touched the sore
with his hand. He was sick on the morning of that day, or else the horse would not have left the stables.

The police magistrate held that a case
was made out, but he did not think it was an extreme case, however. "Of course,"
he said, "there is no doubt that the weather has been extremely hard on horses this winter. I will impose a nominal fine of $2."

OTTAWA, March 7.—The agricultural committee of the House of Commons met this morning and examined Prof. Saunders, of the Dominion Experimental Farm, of various technical matters connected with the varieties of grains grown and the methods of cultivation adopted. The cattle question did not come up.

A delegation arrived to-day from Kent county and was taken in hand by Mr. Campbell, M.P. The visitors embraced J. J. Ross, manager of the Erie and Huron Railway; Rufus Stephenson, H. A. Patterson, T. A. Smith, T. M. French, N. H. Stevens, James Leslie (Chatham), and J. Carey (Wallaceburg.) They will interview the Minister of Public Works to-morrow and ask for aid to put Rondeau harbor in proper shape.

Guthrie, O. T., March 7.—The AntiGambling Bill passed the Senate yesterday after a fight which threatened to become riotous. The bill was at once signed by the Governor. It makes any kind of gambling
a felony and prohibits progressive euchre
parties where prizes are offered.
