DONS AND THE MOORS
IN A FIEDOR IN A FIERCE FIGHT

Latter Make Furious Attack on Penal Station on the Coast.

Madrid, Aug. 11.-Advices received here from Penon de la Gomera, Morocco, say that the Moors are directing a fierce attack against the Spanish garrison there. The fighting began yesterday. At midnight the Spanish artillery seemed to have silenced the enemy, but the Moors dug trenches under cover of the darkness, and this morning they reopened with a heavy fire, and their bullets are falling in the streets of the town. Some of the projectiles are so large that it is thought the Moors possess light artillery. The civilians of Penon de la Gomera are aiding the soliders in the defense of the place. There have been no Spanish casualties as yet. Penon de la Gomera is a fortified Spanish island on the coast of Morocco, 80 miles from Ceuta. It is used

"With the two new rooms we will be able to handle the number of pupils we had last year, probably more," said Principal McCutcheon. "These rooms will accommodate from 60 to 70 scholars, and will relieve the congestion in the other rooms. However, the number of students may increase greatly again this year, and if that happens we will have to look elsewhere for Petitions for Fifteen Miles Have room. This is the limit of extension in the present building, and further extension must come from the outside. I expect we will be able to get through for a year or two, at least."
