Special Meeting Called To Investigate Printing Tenders

EGYPTIAN SOLDIERS CLASH WITH BRITISH

Serious Trouble Looms in the Sudan Over Recent Revolt.

BARRACKS STONED

Britain Sends In More Troops As Serious Situation Develops.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 12.—The British Government has sent a battalion of troops to reinforce the British garrison in the Sudan as the result of a clash between Egyptian and British soldiers at Atbara, following disturbances, in which the Egyptian troops are said to have attacked the British with bricks and stones at their barracks.

According to British official despatches, the trouble started at Khartoum Saturday when military cadets, who paraded with rifles, refused to give up their arms upon returning to their school. The cadets were surrounded and arrested by British troops.

Yesterday the Egyptian railway battalion at Atbara made a demonstration, after which the Egyptian soldiers were confined to their barracks, from which they attempted to escape. When they attacked the British troops with bricks and other missiles the British soldiers fired upon them, causing nineteen casualties.

A minor demonstration at Port Sudan was dispersed without trouble. The disturbances in the Sudan are likely to have a disquieting political effect upon the forthcoming negotiations in London of Said Zoglu Pasha, the Egyptian premier, according to British officials. The officials assert there is no thought of the British government giving up its rights to the Sudan, and that demonstrations such as those reported will only make more difficult the establishment of the Sudan's status in relation to Egypt and Great Britain.

Government Seeks For Data on Migration in Barron Lands of Canada.

HEADED BY HOARE

Department May Next Year Organize Large Wolf Hunting Expeditions.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—In order to obtain data upon the migration of the great caribou herd in the Barron lands of Northern Canada, the federal government has appointed a commissioner to spend several years in the north country.

The work is to be done by W. H. B. Hoare, who has considerable experience. A party has been organized and is now proceeding north from Edmonton. The radio apparatus will permit him to keep in touch with headquarters at Ottawa.

At the same time the federal department here has changed the policy in connection with the extermination of timber wolves, which have menaced the caribou and buffalo. Hitherto the government has paid $20 per head for the wolf skins and permitted the trapper to keep the furs. This year, as an experiment, a party with provisions to last several years, has gone into the Arctic under an agreement whereby they will get $30 per head and give the skin to the government. Should this policy prove successful the department may organize hunting expeditions on a large scale next year, recruiting from Winnipeg and elsewhere.

HONEY SUPPLY RUNNING LOW AS BEES TAKE LONG VACATION

Poor Quality of Clover Nectar Does Not Suit Insects' Taste.

HIVES DEPLETED

Many Canadian Homes Likely To Go Honeyless This Coming Winter.

The busy bee is not living up to his reputation this summer. In fact the bee has been decidedly lazy lately. But it is not his fault.

Three months ago, the bee, fresh from a winter's sojourn in a comfortably warm hive, came out into the open buzzing with activity. He had just finished a most delicious rest after having created a record honey-comb by the score on the local market last year. Honey can't be bought now. There isn't any, and the farmers are cursing the bee's peculiar taste for clover.

The clover crop is poor, farmers say. The juice of the clover is not rich, and the bees simply refuse to make honey if he can't be fed with good clover.

But the farmers can't change the clover, so they blame the weather. Cold nights and lack of sunshine are responsible, they claim, and there is no remedy. Canadian homes must go honeyless this season. Not only does honey have been so scarce in Western Ontario. Only twice within the past few weeks has honey appeared on the local market, and that which was offered for sale was of mediocre quality. The bees are not being fed properly, and many hives which were thriving this time last year, are now almost depleted. The situation has become so critical, one farmer stated today, that the bees will have to be almost spoon fed during the winter time if they are expected to produce any honey next summer.

Youth of the World Will Be Welcome To Stately New 'U' Buildings Sept. 22

University of Western Ontario Cares For Fourteen Counties.

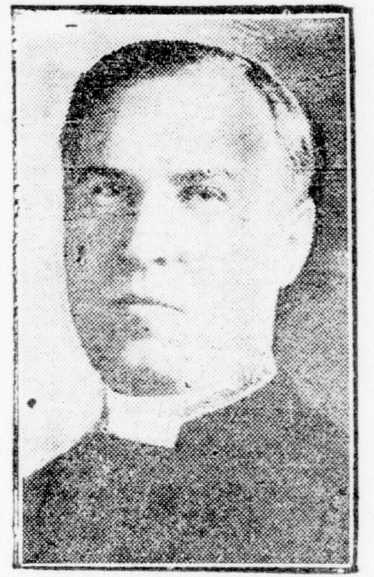

ESTABLISHED 1874

Magnificent Structures Are Situated on Beauty Spot Near London.

The University of Western Ontario, the provincial center of higher education for fourteen counties of the southwestern peninsula, will throw open the doors of its magnificent new buildings to the youth of the world on Sept. 22. The two recently completed Gothic-styled stone buildings are beautifully situated on a hill beside the River Thames. Just beyond the city limits, and represent the highest development in university equipment and appointments. Affiliated with the University of Western Ontario are the new Medical College and Institute of Public Health and several denominational institutions. Registrations are now being accepted, and the attendance will be the largest in the history of the university.

The University of Western Ontario was established in 1878. For more than forty years, it was known as "Western University." It was founded primarily to provide a liberal education for the students attending divinity courses at Huron College. During the years the university was under the direction of the Anglican Diocese of Huron many changes were made in the character of the instruction provided. There was a boys' school and a ladies' college, both of which attained a good reputation and lasted for some years. A law faculty was established, but was forced to cease operations on account of the change of educational policy by the Law Society. A faculty of music was organized, but did not survive. A medical faculty was formed by the leading physicians and surgeons of London. This faculty has made a great reputation for itself and is now one of the strongest departments of the university.

Reconstituted in 1908. In 1908 the university was reconstituted, becoming un denominational and co-educational. It was then placed under municipal, provincial and public control. In 1923 the Legislative Assembly renamed the institution, making it the University of Western Ontario. It was recognized as a regional institution, being the Please See Page 4, Column 3.

DETROITERS JOIN IN INGERSOLL FUN

Hundreds of Former Canadians Return to Town of Birth Today.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Ingersoll, Aug. 12.—All Ingersoll is taking a holiday with the Old Boys. There is a friendliness and geniality on the streets that warms the heart of even a stranger, and makes one regret another birthplace.

Today is Detroit Day, and the old home town is crowded with cars from over the border. They carry American licenses, but Canadian passengers, and demonstrate again the accuracy of the old saying, "blood is thicker than water."

Most conversations in Ingersoll these days begin with that most dangerous phrase in the English language, "Do you remember?" And they do remember! They remember when they used to skip school and go hop-scotch and duck-on-the-rock and quarrel about their dolls, and come home from school to get a big piece of bread and butter with brown sugar on it.

They have come a long way some of these men and women to become boys and girls again, and now that they are here they are doing the job. Please See Page 4, Column 1.

MAYOR WILL AGAIN MOVE FOR PROBE OF TENDERS

Special Meeting Called For Thursday Night To Consider Printing Contract.

CLAIMS ADVANCED

Alderman Towe Declares the Council Did Not Possess All Essential Facts.

In a further effort to probe the letting of the tender for the printing of the voter's lists the mayor is calling a special meeting of the council for Thursday night. His motion before the finance committee, to re-open the question was defeated by a vote of three to two, but he still believes that the subject is serious enough to warrant another attempt on his part to investigate the matter.

The procedure bylaw requires that a two-thirds vote is necessary before any business that is closed can be opened, and in spite of the fact that this backing in the council seems to the mayor to be lacking, he will move the re-opening of the question on Thursday night.

Alderman Towe, who together with Ald. Greer, was instrumental in getting the mayor to make his motion last night, claims that the council was not fully acquainted with the whole facts of the case when the tender was let and therefore backs the mayor in his determination to re-open for a reconsideration of the matter.

Claims Original Correct.

"I have taken the original specifications on which the tender was submitted by both the Haydon Press and the London Lithographing and Printing Company, to a number of independent printers in the city this morning," he said, "and they all agree that it could only mean one thing, a nine-inch page. That is, they agreed that the London Lithographing and Printing Company acted in accordance with the terms of the specifications. This means that the tender submitted by this company was correct. It happened was that after the two tenders were ordered to be tabulated by the city clerk, he was back to the London Litho people and asked them to submit a revised tender. This was done. It turned out to be the lowest tender, but the council refused to accept it on the grounds that the firm had no right to submit a revised tender after the two original tenders had been opened. In my opinion the council was not sufficiently well versed in the antecedent facts of the case to make a decision. I am fully in sympathy with the desire of the mayor for a complete investigation."

Robert W. Tufts of the London Lithographing and Printing Company, who handled the tender for his firm, agrees with Alderman Towe and Greer.

Claims Action Unfair.

"We submitted a tender in strict accordance with the specifications sent us by the city clerk," he declared. "It called for a nine-inch page. It said nothing about the amount of type on the page. After the tender and the tender of the other firm had been opened, the city clerk came back to us, told us that there had been some misunderstanding of the specifications and asked us if we would care to submit a revised tender. This we did, and we were a lower tender than that which was let by the council the other night by nearly $600. I understand that our tender was a complete investigation."
