Thorndale, July 4.-Thorndale's branch of the Bank of Montreal was robbed of more than $6,000 in cash shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a lone bandit held up three clerks and the manager at the point of a gun, and after locking all in a vault, made his escape in a waiting motor car.

The bank officials were confined in the vault, a small, dingy inclosure, for more than an hour. It was not until passing school children heard their shouts for assistance that they gained their freedom to spread an alarm.

After Closing Hours.

The man drove into Thorndale on the St. Marys road shortly before 3 o'clock. He parked his car directly at the front entrance of the bank on the main street. Entering at a time when the bank was closed to customers, he proceeded to the office of the manager, Arthur Reid, and ordered him to put up his hands. He forced him into the main office of the building, and there gave commands for three clerks, Alfred Waugh, teller and accountant; M. McMaster, ledger-keeper, and Miss M. Baker, to line themselves against the wall and then proceed to the vault. He closed the heavy metal door upon them, but neglected to turn the combination, locking them in with a snap fastener.

Between $6,000 and $7,000, composed mostly of $50 and $100 bills, was lying in drawers and on the counter of the teller's cage. These he picked up and sauntered out into the street. He entered his motor car and made a getaway without attract-ing the attention of nearby residents. Seen By Many.

The car was seen standing in front of the bank by many Thorndale residents. They paid little attention to it however. Few could give definite dents. They but the could give definite it, however. The bank staff were exhausted upon release from the vault. Details of the crime were given incoherently first, but little time was lost in notification of district police. High Constable Wharton took charge the case upon his arrival in Thorndale a half-hour after the town was first notified of the robbery. 'He ordered me to 'put 'em up'," Albert Reid, the manager, declared shortly after he had been released from the vault. "He was a young man, about 25 years old, five feet six in height, and weight about 140 pounds. He wore a greasy gray suit and weight about 140
