

put it into your hearts to come to our help. It would have been a sad misfortune if we had been compelled to drop the work at this time, and that would have happened had it not been for your visit and the kindly generous response of our sisters in the East when you presented our case before them.

The gift of clothing has been very acceptable and there is a wonderful difference in the appearance of both men, women and children since you saw them while visiting the Reserve. I trust your Society will not lose interest in our small band on the Pipestone.

I received a photo. It is fairly good. I think does more justice to our Indian friends than the whites, but it was their picture we wanted. Mrs. Beattie joins me in sending compliments of the season.

How The Evenings are Spent at the Regina School.

FROM MRS. MCLEOD.

Regina, Nov. 26 1894.

I can imagine how delighted all would be to have you home again, after your long and tedious journey over the prairie. The children often speak of your visit with us; it is so nice for them to know you personally. They remember your address to them, and to us all, on Sabbath afternoon.

We are now pretty well into the winter. Our societies have all to be re-organized for another year. So you will know we are kept quite busy in the evenings. Perhaps it will not be amiss to tell you the way we spend each evening. Monday evening Mr. McLeod shows the magic lantern slides. Last Monday evening they were all scenes in the Life of Christ. To-night we are to have a travel through Africa. Tuesday the Girl's Mission Band, and Boy's Band practice. Wednesday singing and playing.
