

4.—John, the elder, or Ian Mor, from whom the families of Ardnabee, “all of whom emigrated to America.”*

5.—John, the younger, or Ian Og, “whose descendants also went to America.”

Ian Mor is said to have been father of Alexander, who was father of John of Leek, Allan of Collachie, or Cullaquhuy, and Alexander of Aberchalder, from each of whom descent is traced in Ontarian Families. But there must have been at least one generation intervening, even though, as is probable, Ian Mor was born late in the life of his father, who lived to a great age.

Ranald, or Reginald, 10th Chief, had issue,

1.—Alastair Dhu, 11th Chief, who led the Clan at Killiecrankie, and in 1715 was created a peer by K. James II., after his abdication. His line failed in 1868.

2.—Angus, or Æneas, of Scotus, who had issue,

1*a*.—Donald, whose descendant Æneas-Ranald became 19th Chief on failure of the elder line in 1868.

2*a*.—John, of Crowlin, father of John of Scotus, who was an adherent of Prince Charles Stuart in 1845, and afterwards went to America, finally settling in Canada (U.E.L.), and from whom descent is traced in Ontarian Families. He was known as “Spanish John.” His present representative is John-Alexander Macdonell, M.D., of Port Arthur.

3.—John, father of 1*a*—Donald, of Lochgarry, a noted adherent of P. Charles, with whom he escaped to France after Culloden, and became a Colonel in the French service; his descendants subsequently returned to Scotland; and 2*a*—Angus, of Greenfield, ancestor of that branch, of which the representative is John-Alexander Macdonell, Q.C., of Alexandria.

*Mackenzie's History of the Macdonalds of Glengarry, in which Ardnabee is printed Ardnaheare.