

I ADD also, what I conceive the Author has omitted, That the highest Article which any Man enters, gives the Lead to all the rest; so that he is to pay for each of the succeeding the same which he pays for the first. If a Person enters a Coach and Six, and pays Twelve Pounds Ten Shillings, according to the Rates in the Table, he is to pay the same Sum for every other Article he enters. And there are the following weighty Reasons for it: First, That by so doing, this Scheme becomes the most excellent sumptuary Law, that ever was devised: And secondly, That it is just and reasonable each Person should pay in Proportion to what he Uses of any Commodity: Now the most probable Grounds we can go upon (for the Affair will not admit of Certainty and Demonstration) is, That Persons in general live in Proportion to the Figure they make. A Person, who keeps a Coach and Six, is supposed to have more Wine drank in his Family than one who keeps only a single Chariot, and to use a greater Quantity in Proportion of every other Article, which he enters; and therefore in all Reason and Justice, he should pay the more.

THE next Article that he proposes is,
 " That Husbands should pay for their Wives
 " the one Fourth of the Article they pay for
 " themselves, to entitle them to Use the X " same;