THE T. EATON Co. LIMITED

190 Yonge St. Canada's Greatest Store. Toronto.

YONGE AND QUEEN STREETS, November 7, 1896.

Store closes to-day at 6 o'clock as usual.

This store is becoming more and more a shopping place with fashionable ladies. That means we're selling more rich and exclusive things, and more of the novelties that are limited to one or two of a kind. Aristocratic styles come with the growth of the trade. The choicest things are sure to be where the power of collection is greatest, and if any store in Canada has better facilities for getting goods direct you would like to know it.

This store is pre-eminent in Dress Goods, in Mantles, in Millinery—in everything that goes to make a lady's costume complete. Everybody knows we have special values in such things. Suppose we jump the track for once and emphasize newness and novelty instead of bargains. This list tells of the fine things we have. It's worth your while to remember that the choicest styles go first as a matter of course:

AN INVESTIGATION IN ORDER.

The facts in connection with the vote of $500 to Mayor Fleming demand the strictest investigation. The reason assigned for granting the Mayor this money is that he had paid that amount out of his salary for charitable purposes. Admitted he had. It is well understood that the salary attaching to the Mayor's office covers expenses of this nature. Whatever the city dispenses as charity should be voted in the regular way. Citizens have a right to know how every dollar of their money is being spent. We are surprised that Mayor Fleming should have created such a bad precedent as that involved in the filing of a claim of this kind. The circumstances under which the vote was taken are in themselves very suspicious. The whole business looks like a job, and what makes it look especially bad is that the chief party to it is the man who was elected to protect the city from just such raids as this on the public treasury. We think the citizens of Toronto will be pleased to learn that the matter is to be ventilated in the courts.

SHOULD BE MADE IN CANADA.

Thanks to the National Policy, a considerable portion of the machinery used in connection with our mining industry is made in Canada. There is no reason, however, why Canada should not manufacture all the machinery that is required in this industry. There is no trick in the manufacture of this kind of machinery. It is all built from a few standard patterns. Take the stamp mill, for instance. Take the simple machine. It can be made in Canada just as well as in the United States. Hitherto we have not had a demand sufficient to warrant any of our manufacturers making them, but conditions have altogether changed during the past year or two. Within the course of the next twelve months hundreds of stamp mills will be set up in the Rainy River country, Eastern Ontario and in British Columbia. The present affords an excellent opportunity to begin the manufacture of this and other kinds of mining machinery in this country. We have the iron, we have the workmen, we have the market. Nothing is wanting for the successful establishment of this industry in the Dominion. Our policy in the past has been to encourage mining by exempting from duty such machinery as is not manufactured in Canada. That policy should be reversed. We will now encourage mining if we insist on the manufacture of all mining machinery within the Dominion. Our tariff should be so framed as to compel American manufacturing firms to open up branches in this country, if our own business men do not seize the opportunity and get ahead of their foreign competitors.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN CAPITAL NEEDED.

It is becoming more evident every day that foreign capital must be attracted to this country for the successful development of our mines. Toronto people have subscribed liberally for stock in countless mining concerns, but they have contributed only a very small proportion of the money that is required to properly develop our mines. Many of the ventures that have been floated will come to grief, not so much because they are worthless properties as because the capital necessary for their development will not be forthcoming. Instead of trying to float more companies in Canada the mining promoters should take their wares to New York and London It is upon English and American capital we must rely for the opening up of the gold mines of Algoma and British Columbia. There appears to be a surfeit of mining properties on the Toronto market It is difficult to keep track of the hundred different kinds of shares that are offered to the investing public. We do not wish to be understood as decrying the value of these shares. What we wish to point out is that the Toronto market is now fully supplied. The properties are most of them all right, but the promoters ought to recognize the fact that even a good thing can be overdone. When the English public once becomes interested in Canadian mines the market for the disposal of shares will be practically unlimited. England invests $600,000,000 yearly in domestic, foreign and colonial ventures. Here is the field which our promoters should cultivate. During the next two or three months there will probably be a lull in the promoting business in Canada, but it is sure to assume big proportions when the English public becomes interested. We believe there will be a great boom in Canadian mines next spring in London. As soon as the boom strikes England the share market in Canada will be relieved of a burden that is beginning to cause more or less congestion. Now that business is beginning to hum again in the United States, New York also ought to be an admirable centre for handling good mining properties. There is abundant capital there awaiting investment in any reasonable venture. Let the promoters give Toronto a rest and try their hand in New York and London.

TRADE PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Yesterday was a good day for holders of wheat. The advance in Chicago was 4c and the advance since the late break is just ten cents per bushel. The situation seems to warrant dealers paying present prices. The chief buying comes from Britain, and the advance in prices is the more remarkable from the fact that freight rates are unusually high. But there is a shortage in the world's crop, and the outlook is encouraging to growers.

The exports from the United States continue large, while appearances would indicate a falling off in the receipts of spring wheat at western interior points. The stimulus to the trade is partly due to the improvement reported in general merchandise since the presidential election. Canada wheat is also higher, in sympathy. Some say that prices, both here and in Manitoba, are relatively high, but nevertheless, the demand in Britain for our wheat is good, and there is every indication of its going higher. There is no doubt but that the trade situation is improving. The outlook is extremely good, and Canada is about entering an era of prosperity.

Insurance and Investment Combined.

The following illustration forcibly presents the advantages derived from securing an Investment Policy in the North American Life Assurance Company:

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 5th, 1896.

To the North American Life Assurance Company, Toronto, Ont.:

Gentlemen,—I was one of the first in Nova Scotia to avail myself of a policy in your company, having taken one when I was 55 years of age. Fifteen years ago I took the life with a fifteen-year investment period, giving me at that time the lowest priced premium that I could possibly obtain for a policy with profits. The investment period of this policy matured to-day, and after carrying my insurance for fifteen years, I find with great pleasure that the cash value of the policy is nearly equal to its face, and that my cash surplus, or the earnings of the policy in fifteen years, is so satisfactory as almost to create surprise, and viewing the policy itself as an excellent investment I have decided to continue it and take my surplus in cash.

I notice that the paid-up value of this policy is now largely in excess of the face amount, and the annuity thereon would considerably more than pay the future annual premiums, leaving the face of the policy intact as an earning policy.

When it is borne in mind that my insurance has been carried all these years, I am not only gratified, but consider that the results in the North American Life Assurance Company have been indeed of a character to give the institution a position unexcelled as a life insurance company.

I notice that results on policies held in your company are largely in excess of the same kind of policies maturing that were issued at the same time by two of the largest American companies doing business in Canada, although their premiums were considerably in excess of the premiums charged by you. Wishing your company the continued success that is certainly due to excellent management, I remain,

(Signed), Geo. J. Troop.

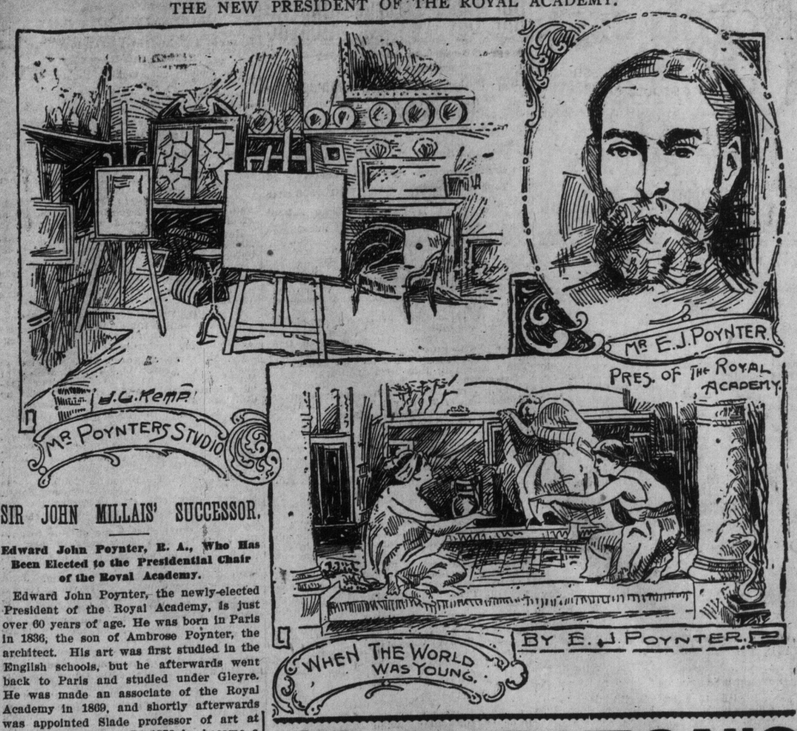
THE NEW PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY.



SIR JOHN MILLAIS' SUCCESSOR.

Edward John Poynter, R. A., Who Has Been Elected to the Presidential Chair of the Royal Academy.

Edward John Poynter, the newly-elected President of the Royal Academy, is just over 60 years of age. He was born in Paris in 1836, the son of Ambrose Poynter, the architect. His art was first studied in the English schools, but he afterwards went back to Paris and studied under Gleyre. He was made an associate of the Royal Academy in 1869, and shortly afterwards was appointed Slade professor of art at University College. In 1876 he became a full academician. For several years he was director of art and principal of the National Art Training School at South Kensington, and in 1894 he was appointed to the directorship of the National Gallery.

The late Mr. Du Maurier in his novel "Trilby" drew a delightful sketch of Mr. Poynter in their old student Paris days, and of his passionate study and admiration for all the great masters one after another in succession. This early intensity and catholicity are still features in Mr. Poynter's taste. Some of his best-known pictures are "Perseus and Andromeda," "Atalanta's Race," "When the World Was Young," and "The meeting of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba." He also painted the cartoon for the mosaic of St. George in Westminster Palace and has exhibited many water color drawings. Mr. Poynter will enter on his new labors with the good wishes of all whose knowledge of the man prompts them to congratulation.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM—Mr. S. Ackerman, Commercial Traveler, Belleville, writes: "Some years ago I used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for Inflammatory Rheumatism, and three bottles effected a complete cure. I was the whole of one summer unable to move without crutches, and every movement caused excruciating pains. I am now out on the road and exposed to all kinds of weather, but have never been troubled with rheumatism since. I, however, keep a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Oil on hand, and I always recommend it to others, as it did so much for me." ed
