

ROCKLIN HOUSE.

This popular hotel, which has been established nearly twenty years, is conducted by the proprietor, Mr. Simon D. Fraser. The central position of the "Rocklin" and its proximity to the market make it very convenient for farmers and others whose sojourn in the city is temporary. Commercial travellers, tourists, visitors and the travelling public generally will find the house replete with every comfort and convenience. The sleeping apartments are airy and cheerful, and parties seeking quiet and recreation will do well to make this house their home while in the city. Carriages are always in attendance at the trains and steamboats to convey guests to the hotel. Attached to the establishment is extensive stabling and experienced hostlers. Read advertisement on page 101, and remember the address, Kent street between Queen and Great George streets.

WAGSTAFF'S HOTEL.

This modern house, prior to its renovation, was known as the "Old Rankin," corner Sydney & Pownal Streets, and now bears the above name. It is conducted by Mr. Wm. Wagstaff and has already secured a fair share of public patronage. It is located in an excellent position, not far distant from the leading thoroughfares, Market, Post Office, Custom House, Banks & Public Offices. As a commercial house it has already become popular, and as a necessary consequence its comforts are sought after by commercial men and others. Those who may make the hotel under notice their home while in the City will meet with every attention from the obliging proprietor or his efficient representative. Read advertisement on page 130.

FRANKLIN HOUSE.

Is situated in the Royalty, in the environs of the City, and is conducted by the proprietor, Mr. Henry Coombs. This commodious hotel has been recently erected in a beautiful locality at considerable cost. It has been furnished expressly for the accommodation of visitors, strangers, and the travelling public generally. Its location is in one of the most healthy parts of the Royalty, away from the smoke and bustle of the city, where the tourist will find quietude and enjoyment. Few places are better adapted for boating and bathing, as the house is in close proximity to the health inspiring waters of the West River. Read advertisement on page 81.

Is situated Gillis, the
to the wa
patronage
find that
give Mr. C
shortest p
on hand a Refreshme
of which a
establishm
comfortab
visit this obliging a

This ho
in consequ
stant end with their goodly sha
ing the to stabling a
the table f

Persons
sojourn in dation, for may be fou
most comf
widely and
and attent Street, and hot summ
enjoyed in this house
proximioy
and they w
the obligin
the delicac
moderate, t