GROCERY MARKET

The following comment on the market situation as regards foodstuffs appears in Canada Grocer this week: Interest centres chiefly in the announcement from Washington that an embargo on the export of virtually all foodstuffs has been put into effect. This is a serious matter for the trade here, and whereas some importers feel that modification of this embargo may be possible, others are now affecting raisins, raisins doing considerable damage to the later crops, and army needs proving very heavy.

Coffee is also occupying the thoughts of importers considerably. The Brazilian market has developed remarkable strength only recently. This is not due to scarcity of this commodity, but rather to the possibility of an early peace with probable opportunities for trade with belligerent countries whose supplies must be practically exhausted. Supplies in Canada are none too heavy, though no actual shortage before the first of the year seems likely to develop. At that time, scarcity of bottoms to bring shipments through promptly may result in an acute scarcity arising. The outlook seems to be, too, that prices will show a sharp advance, unless Brazilian interest in the market is so to have a different attitude—an unlikely development.

HARDWARE MARKET

Hardware and Metal: Lower prices are again in evidence on lined oil this week after a week of rather uncertain conditions in the steel market. Declines range from four cents to seven cents per million. Uncertainty as to how far prices may go seems to be the only certain feature in this market. The feeling is strong that unless an almost cessation of hostilities develops, the market is about as low as it will go, and higher levels are looked for later on.

Typpentine has advanced two cents per gallon in some quarters. This is in line with firm tendencies outlined last week, and follows closely on the strong feeling in evidence at primary points. Continuing strength seems probable. It is reported that English interests have bought up large stocks to be stored in tanks awaiting shipping space, and this will provide a firm undertone to the market. Local conditions are affected, too, by increased charges for warpage, marking and barrels which have now become effective.

Horsehoes are again prominent this week in an advance of fifty cents per keg. This follows on the heels of a similar increase about three months ago, and is some criterion of conditions generally applying in iron and steel industries. Further evidence as to the trend of these markets is given in an advance of about 20 per cent in steel gate traps, one of the sharpest increases yet recorded in this line.

New prices issued on roofing cement and paint for spring provide for an advance in these two lines. Cereotite has also gone to higher levels, and the market in all roofing products rules with a very firm undertone.

A decline in drop shot is recorded in some quarters, more is felt, in an effort to clean up on stocks than a market condition. Some lines of Canadian-made builders' hardware have been changed, new prices providing for advances which, it is indicated, amount to as much as 15 per cent.

Other lines to join the list of those on the upward trend are axle pulleys, tin roofing caps, hand saws, foot valves, planes, tower bolts, thumb latches, and chain pipe wrenches. A fifteen-cent increase in the price of cement is also effective, as applied to certain territories. Business as a whole has been very good in spite of adverse conditions brought about by epidemic of sickness.

THE PRICE OF MILK

A letter received at the Halifax board of trade from the London, Ont. board, says regarding the price of milk there that the distributors pay the producers six cents per quart delivered in the city and the public pay the distributors eleven cents. The wholesale price is nine cents. It is anticipated the price will advance May 1 far producers to six and a half cents and to the public twelve cents.

Casualties and Influenza Hit British Troops

London, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press Despatch from Reuters, Limited)—In the House of Commons, replying to a question regarding the co-operation of the national service department in providing more doctors to fight the influenza epidemic, Sir Auckland Geddes said that the number of doctors on medical boards had been reduced in order to enable more doctors to attend civilians. This had been done without detriment to the war effort. A considerable number of doctors were down with the influenza, and the national service department was putting the whole medical board at the disposal of districts where special assistance was required.

There was a very heavy demand for young and old doctors for the front lines in France. The casualties among medical men had been very heavy and a certain number of young and old doctors were being called up because there was nobody else to send to the fighting line. The navy was co-operating, and a certain number of young naval surgeons had gone to France.

BURIED TREASURES

British progress east of Ypres is watched by none more keenly than by the civilian owners of the present battle-field. Any advance holds for them a double interest; not only does it liberate a further portion of their country, but it may also restore to them their hidden savings. Many Belgians, when forced to leave their homes, took with them all they could, but chose to leave their money buried in a spot known only to themselves. Where possible these spots were registered by the police, but normally it was left to the owners themselves to keep in touch with their hidden treasure.

RHODES SCHOLARS WIN HONORS IN THE WAR

London, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press Despatch from Reuters, Limited)—Up to the present time two hundred and forty Rhodes scholars from the dominions and British colonies have taken part in the war. Of this number eighty-three gained honors and distinctions and forty-six died in action.

WHAT ALL CAN DO

What is there for us to do? Is there anything worth doing? Very little, except to what they are doing and have done. Yet there are some things. We can keep a high heart. We can work as never before. We can save. We can give. We can—Is this a lullaby—lend. It is like an insult to say to a man: "Your men gave his life. Will you lend your money?" To lend instead of giving? Money instead of life? Yet in a great struggle of organized nations, such as this, is the lesser thing is as necessary as the greater. Those of whom we think night and day have done the greater, the harder thing of the two which are necessary. Dare we fail to do the lesser, the easier thing? "Let not our beloved blush for us!"

Miss May Cox of Liverpool, England, was united in marriage to Thomas Dougherty of Gagetown in Treton, Ontario, on Oct. 24 by Rev. W. D. Harrison.

Where did you get all the money, boy?" asked the farmer called Dan. "Why, I sell more papers than any kid in town, and I carry parcels and run errands. O, anything to make some coin—for they're going to have money, too, ter lick the Germans—so Dad says."

Dan showed a hand deep into his pocket and turning to the boy said: "Here, kid; will you do a little job for me if I pay you for it?"

"Sure thing!"

"That's business," continued the farmer. "Now, here's a five dollar bill. If I give you this will you agree to tell at least five other farmers you may run across today about your bond buying and how you got the money?"

"I'll do it if you say so, mister," agreed the lad after a slight pause of incredulity.

"I say so—and I mean it. You've put a new kink in my thinking apparatus today, kid. Here's the 'V'—now hustle!"

"Say," shouted the boy, "bet you gent's was just kidding—you're both gone!"

"You bet we are," said the one who parted with the five-spot.

Fuel Controller Fixes Limit For Heat of Buildings — Fuel Situation Critical — Must Avoid Waste

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—The temperature in all buildings must be kept down to sixty-eight degrees at most, it is announced by Fuel Controller Magrath. The fuel situation has become so critical that it is urgently necessary to avoid waste, and a conference called by Mr. Magrath has just been held, at which ways and means of saving on limited supplies of hard coal were discussed with the fuel administrators for the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

"Through investigation it has been established that a maximum of sixty-eight degrees is all that is required and the temperature in all buildings must not go any higher than that," was the decision of the administrators of both provinces. "It is important," said the fuel controller, "that the other Canadian provinces should fall into line."

GETS PEERAGE AND BEAVERBROOK'S POST

London, Nov. 4.—Sir Auckland Geddes has been appointed president of the local government board. He will remain head of the ministry of national service.

William Hayes Fisher, who was president of the local government board, has been appointed chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, a post previously held by Lord Beaverbrook, who resigned recently on account of ill-health. Mr. Fisher will receive a peerage.

Suggestion That the Call Has Some Relation to War Thrift.

(Newark News) The penny, or more correctly speaking, the one-cent piece, is coming into the country the small bronze disk behind which stands the best possible security, the United States Government, has not been looked upon with favor. In cities on the Western coast it has been so completely ignored that it scarcely entered into the calculations of shoppers or storekeepers, and was practically never seen in change; nothing smaller than the nickel 5-cent piece was of sufficient importance to occupy a place in the pocket or purse.

To the eastern journeying on the western coast the absence of the penny was as noticeable as the absence of the silver dollar in the east to one who journeys hither from the Pacific.

But these are the days of innovations. No longer is the penny looked upon as a coin whose chief prerogative is the filling of the youngster's toy bank or that of being consigned to the slot machine. The position of the penny in the realm of finance is assuming an importance it never before achieved. So great has been the demand for it on the part of Americans who are now literally counting Jim Coffey and Battling Leviaky. This will be held at the army in Cleveland, November 22, by Matt Hinkel. It will be the first time in twenty years that a Cleveland armory has been given over for boxing purposes. At Boston, November 12, Johnny Dundee will fight a boxing match with Tommy Toney at Patterson, N. J.; at New Orleans, November 17, Pat Heenan will risk his bantamweight title in a bout with Pat Moore. The bout between Jack Dempsey and Fred Fulton or Willie Meahan probably will be held in Kansas City.

At the meeting were James W. Coffey, Charles J. Harvey, Billy Gibson, and Harry Pollock, the local committee; Dan McKitterick, Jim Buckley, Dan Morgan, Matt Hinkel of Cleveland, Jack Bulger, and Scotty Monteith.

THE NEWSBOY'S BOND.

This really and truly incident took place in one of the smaller cities of the West.

The first of the colored posters for the Victory Loan in 1918 were being hung up in a store window by the local bill-posters. A couple of farmers passing by at the time stopped to look at the posters and talked a third individual bustling importantly between them. This third spectator was a lad of ten—an enterprising newsboy of the town.

One of the farmers was dilating upon the fact that crops in the district were none too good, and said to his companion:

"I guess, Bill, we won't be able to do much in the way of Victory Bonds this fall."

"No, Dan, they don't want to figure too heavily on us this time. The Bonds are alright, but—"

At this juncture the ten-year-old newsboy, facing the two men defiantly, exclaimed:

"Well, I've got money in that there, and I think it's jake!"

"Yes, sir," he continued, "I bought a hundred-dollar bond last year, and I got a hundred dollars saved up for to buy another one like it this year. I got two brothers at the front, I have; and I think it's jake—that there" pointing to the posters.

Where did you get all the money, boy?" asked the farmer called Dan. "Why, I sell more papers than any kid in town, and I carry parcels and run errands. O, anything to make some coin—for they're going to have money, too, ter lick the Germans—so Dad says."

Dan showed a hand deep into his pocket and turning to the boy said: "Here, kid; will you do a little job for me if I pay you for it?"

"Sure thing!"

"That's business," continued the farmer. "Now, here's a five dollar bill. If I give you this will you agree to tell at least five other farmers you may run across today about your bond buying and how you got the money?"

"I'll do it if you say so, mister," agreed the lad after a slight pause of incredulity.

"I say so—and I mean it. You've put a new kink in my thinking apparatus today, kid. Here's the 'V'—now hustle!"

"Say," shouted the boy, "bet you gent's was just kidding—you're both gone!"

"You bet we are," said the one who parted with the five-spot.
