

MURAL TABLET

In Memory of a Man Who Fell in South Africa.

Unveiled at Quebec Sunday-Rev. F. G. Scott's Sermon.

There was a militia parade to church in Quebec last Sunday, and an interesting feature of the service at St. Matthew's was the unveiling of a mural tablet to the memory of Private Alexander McQueen, who was killed at Paardeberg. The ceremony, which was conducted by the rector, Rev. F. G. Scott, was brief, but impressive, consisting of a portion of the Anglican burial service. At its conclusion Lieut. Col. Jones drew aside the Union Jack which covered the tablet and Mr. Jamieson, the organist, played a portion of the Dead Marcti 'n Saul. The tablet is a handsome one of brass mounted on polished oak, and the inscription is as follows:—

"In Memory of Alexander McQueen, of the Second (Special Service) Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, aged 21 years. Killed in action at Paardeberg, South Africa, February 18th, 1900. 'Faithful unto Death.'"

The tablet unveiled, the regular service proceeded. Several members of the R. C. A. Band assisted with their instruments in leading the singing and the mugic as a whole was exceptionally fine. The hymns sung were Onward Christian Soldiers, God Save the King and Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus. The lesson was read by Rev. J. S. Brewer and was taken from the 5th chapter of St. Matthew.

THE SERMON.

THE SERMON.

Rev. F. G. Scott took his text from the tenth verse of the second chapter of the Revelation of St. John the Divine: "Faithful unto death." The sermon was in part as follows:—"There can be no human greatness without love, and since God is love, all human goodness is merely an imperfect reflection of the divine nature. Love is the cement that unites all life. It forms the basis of all education, all law. Behind love, and as the highest manifestation of it there is self-sacrifice. And this self-sacrifice grows more and more in those who are living the Christ-like life until it culminates in a man's laying down his life for others.

Today our hearts have been touched while we unveiled the simple brass tablet which commemorates the name and the noble death of your comrade, one who wore your uniform and who worshipped in this church. His was not a conepicuous life, he was not born in any position of worldly eminence, but he did what he cyuld for God and his land, even laying down his life for queen and country, for his father and mother, for his comrades, for you and for me. Here we see the transfiguring and emobiling power of self-sacrifice. And, my brethren, believe me that such self-sacrifice is needed by Canadians of all ranks of life, especially at this time, when a new era is opening out before our empire. We need that spirit of heroism that has animated our Canadian soldiers in South Africa, in order to do our part in keeping the empire united, pure and forceful. Por Alexander McKueen now sleeps far away beneath the veidt of South Africa. Por Alexander McKueen now sleeps far away beneath the veldt of South Africa. The tramp and tumult of war still treaks in upon his sleep, but in this city, which he loved so well, his short and devoted life is still an inspiration we here in Canada have been given by God extraordinary privileges. We possess a vast territory, whose shores are watered by the great twin oceans of the world. On the north our land is guarded by ice-bound solitudes, whence can come no foe, on the south it is bounded by a nation speaking our language, pursuing the same ideals, having the same home life and the same religious faiths. Our vast territory is in the hands of only five million people, and God has given us a breathing time before our cities become orgested, before our social life becomes crystallized, in order that we may set our house in order. We have the time and opportunity to make of Canada what we will.

In the achieving of results, let me point to the importance of the individual. He who is faithful unto death has the destiny and the honor of his country in his hand, and at this time, when all we members of the British witness, Halifax. power. here in Canada have been given empire feel the stress of conflict and unrest, we must be united and stand together. Let there be a thrill of brotherhood from Halifax to Vancouver, a sense pf duty to perform, and behind our love of king and country let there be the determination to prove our sentiments by our actions, and if necessary by the sacrifice of even life itself.

In this new age, when the British let there be the determination to prove our sentiments by our actions, and if necessary by the sacrifice of even life itself.

In this new age, when the British empire is being brought into closer union, our lives must be ennobled by the example and the deeds of those who have given up all for the empire. Our patriotism must not be the empty Jingolsm of the man on the street that glories only in wide territory and powerful resources in war. We must rather bend all our energies to fulfil the supreme duties which God has laid upon the great British race. To the huge empire of India we have brought education, justice, the freedom of the press and the arts of modern civilization. Some day we hope to bring it under the yoke of Christ. We dare not under God cast it off. We dare not shirk our responsibilities. And some would have us leave our scattered brethren to shift for themselves and become the prey of covetous nations. I tell you it would be no light thing for us to allow other nations to pounce down upon our possessions and perhaps crush our brethren in a servitude unknown under our empire. This it is above all that causes us to uphold the British confederation, and it is the death of our soldiers in Africa that gives strength and determination to stand firm. Let us individually resolve to make our nation pure, noble, lofty, just and free. It rests with you, young men, members of the Canadian militia, you who wear the king's uniform, you who cast your votes at every election, that you stand for a broad nationality in the British empire. You must be faithful at all times. In your daily work, your duty to your superiors, not only in the ranks of your regiment, but in every walk of life. Then if you prove yourselves faithful in danger, in war, in the hour of death. A dazsling future lies before us. As Canadians we have it in our power to make our country as a part of the empire, a home of freedom and toleration, of justice and liberty. Let us not forget those who have failen in our behalf, who have given up their

to Major Waller to kill natives without trial, assembled today. Col. Woodruft appeared as counsel for Brig.-Gen. Smith, who pleaded not guilty.
Col. Woodruft forestalled the prosecution by admitting that the majority of the accusations were true. He said that his client had issued orders to kill the natives and burn their homes. The country was hostile to the Americans, and the general did not desire any prisoners. He had issued orders to make Samar a howling wilderness. He had ordered that all persons capable of bearing arms should be killed. The age limit was made 10 because many such boys had borne arms against the American troops.
Gen. Smith will apparently plead justification as the basis of his defence, taking the ground that his action was justified by Military Order 100 and by historical precedents, including Sheridan's Shenandoah Valley campaign and Sherman's march to the sea.

One Victim a Minister, Another a Young Woman.

The Revivalist Was of the Sam Jones, Sam Small Type - The Young Woman Had Been Zealous at the Meetings and Her Mania Was That She Must Save the

(New York Sun.)

Ramsey, N. J., was struck about four weeks ago with what might be called a revival cyclone. The town never had anything like it before, and as to the advisability of having it again, there is some division of sentiment. One person died last Monday in Morris Plains asylum, who took an active part in the revival work and lost his reason soon after the revivalist left. Another person, a woman 24 years of age, was taken to Morris Plains asylum yesterday noon a raving maniac. She, too, had been one of the most excited workers in the revivalist left. Michael McCarthy, who died late on Monday atter a short illness, at his residence. No, 9 North street, was one of St. John's best stone cutters and a walled worker with Stanton Bros. He was about 35 years of age, a widower, and leaves three children. A large number of friends will mourn his early death. The funeral will take place at 2.30 o'clock tomorrow from his late residence.

ing maniae. She, too, had been one of the most excited workers in the revival.

There are plenty of people in Ramsey who believe that the revival excitement was at least the culminating cause of these two people losing their minds. The first victim was the Rev. Carleton Bannister, who for ten years had been the pastor of the Lutheran Church in Ramsey and was very much respected and beloved in the community, irrespective of religious creed. His funeral occurred in this village on Friday last and was largely attended.

The second victim was Miss Grace Montross, the daughter of William S. Montross, in Ramsey. Miss Montross was wrought up to a high pitch of excitement during the ten days the revival meeting was going on. She did not, however, manifest signs of downright insanity until after the revivalist had left. Before he went away he exhorted Miss Montross to continue the good work. He told her that if she would go on with it in the proper spirit she could save the town.

On the Sunday after the evangelist left, Miss Montross, then clearly demented, started out on her salvation mission. She went to one of the village hotels and battered on the door in the early morning. When the door was opened to her she told the hotel proprietor that she had two sermons to preach that day and that one of them she intended to deliver in his hotel. She was with difficulty induced to go home. From that day on she went from bad to worse, until last week it was deeided that there was nothing left to do with her save take her to the worth and the committeeman John Ryerson, started with her or the atagin which left at 13 50.

to do with her save take her to the Morris Plains Asylum. Her mother, accompanied by Town Committeeman John Ryerson, started with her on the train, which left at 12.50 yesterday afternoon and there was a painful scene as the raving woman was half carried, half led into the car. Miss Montross was of a high-strung temperament and had been treated for nervous trouble in the pass, but her present unhappy condition is attributed directly to the revival excitement. The revivalist who so shook up the village of Ramsey is the Rev. O. W. Eichelberger of Pulaski, Tenn, and he is a recognized clergyman of the Lutheran Synod. His methods in Ramsey at first caused some criticism. His language was replete with slang and his manner often of the rudest. He affected the Sam Jones-Sam Small style of pulpit oratory. He roared at people to "move up" and "to stand up," and if they didn't respond he would shout to them:
"Get out of the hall, then. I can't

Its effects were noticed as soon as the evangelist left town. To the astonishment of his congregation on the first Sunday following Elchelberger's departure, the quiet, scholarly Mr. Bannister made what clearly was intended for an attempt at dramatic pulpit antics. Such methods were so foreign to his character that he made but a sorry attempt at them.

This was to beginning of the end for poor Mr. Bannister. He preached once more, but he was not himself. Then he collapsed and was taken away as above related.

There were great doings when Mr. Eichelberger took the early morning train to leave Ramsey for good. In "Journal Hall," close to the railroad station, there was a "sunrise meeting" to begin with. Then after that there was a tumultuous scene of farewell on the station platforms at which many of the women were prodigiously agitated and wept until they were in the verge of hysterics. Mr. Eichelberger's visit to Ramsey will be long remembered there.

The Present Situation of Over 60,000,

(Gleaner, Thursday.) Mr. Cunliffe, who is now in the dis tant upper St. John, has about $50 men at work, but is making little progress and probably has suspended operations for the present, awaiting the breaking up of the ice in the lakes and a rise of water in the streams. Mr. Cunliffe has 14,000,000.

John Kilburn, also in the distant Upper St. John, is in about the same plight as Mr. Cunliffe. He, too, is awaiting a rise of water. Mr. Kilburn has altogether about 19,000,000; 6,000,000 of these are this year's cut, and the balance includes the cut of last year and also some of the year previous, which was hung up as before reported. Mr. Dickie, of Fort Kent, has also suspended in all probability for the present. He has 6,000,000.

William John Noble is in the same plight with 6,000,000 for Cushing of St. John.

The logs cut by the late Robert A. 14,000,000.

John Morrison has 3,000,000 of cedar. He is on the Little Black River and is waiting for the ice to break up.
Robt. A. Aiken is lying against the lake on the head waters of the Machias waiting for the ice to break. Mr. Aiken has about 6,000,000 altogether, 3,000,000 of his year's cut, and the balance of last year's.

The ice in the Machias does not tenerally run out until from the 1st to the 1st of May.

Omar Morrison has 3,000,006 on the Temiscouata for Donald Fraser & Sons. He, too, is making slow progress at present, but the prospects for the early future are not discouraging.

Omar Morrison's brother is bringing along 3,000,000 for Cushing. He enters the St. John between Connors and Edmundston, and is coming along at a very satisfactory pace. If he is not now in safe waters he soon will be.
