

The St. John Local Council of Women

Moncton Lady Warmly Received — Mrs. Oman to Deliver Address — Judge Murphy Asks for Information.

A largely attended meeting of the executive of the St. John Local Council of Women was held yesterday afternoon at the Board of Trade rooms. Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, president, in the chair. Miss Ryan, of Moncton, was present and brought the greetings of the Moncton Council to St. John. She was given a warm welcome to the meeting.

A letter was received from Mrs. C. J. Oman, vice-president for New Brunswick of the National Federation of Women's Institutes, accepting the invitation of the Local Council to address them, and setting March 22 as the date when she would come. Arrangements were made to hold the meeting on the afternoon of that date in the Board of Trade rooms and all women will be invited to hear Mrs. Oman's interesting and instructive address on the achievements of the Women's Institutes.

Mrs. Parsons, corresponding secretary of the National Council, wrote calling attention to the annual meeting to be held in the twin cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, June 30 to 30.

Judge Murphy—"Jenny Canuck"—wrote asking for information in regard to what was done in New Brunswick to care for the orphaned children of negroes, and the following committee appointed to secure the information and forward it to Judge Murphy: Rev. George Scott, Miss Cora Sinclair and Miss Grace Robertson.

A number of letters had been received by members of the council from overseas calling attention to the visit of Mrs. Proulx, a member of the International, who is visiting America to gather information relative to the work done on the continent and to attend the Pan-American Congress to be held in Baltimore in April. Mrs. Proulx will arrive in the city on the Melita and will be given a St. John welcome by the members of the council. The matter of having her address a public meeting was talked over and the president, Mrs. Smith, in view of the many public meetings being held and the scarcity of hall-rooms, asked the Natural History Society to be allowed to substitute Mrs. Proulx for herself on Tuesday evening, on which date she was to lecture. Her request was acceded to and the visitor will speak on that evening at eight o'clock. After the lecture a reception will be held for Mrs. Proulx, and refreshments will be served. The committee for this part of the programme is under the convener'ship of Mrs. G. W. Campbell.

Mrs. A. W. Esey reported having received a cheque for $10 from Mrs. Herbert Phillips, for the milk fund. Arrangements were completed for the annual meeting which will be held on Friday, March 31, afternoon session at 2 o'clock and evening session at 7:30.

The matter of funds for the council was discussed and the president offered to give a travelogue, the proceeds to be devoted to the council work.

C. P. S. Corsican Here Yesterday

Had Extremely Rough Voyage — Among Passengers Were Shipwrecked Crews of Newfoundland.

The C. P. S. liner Corsican arrived in port, early yesterday morning, from Antwerp, Southampton and Hayre and docked at No. 2 and 3 berths. The steamer had an extremely rough voyage over from Southampton, and as a consequence was delayed four days in arriving at St. John. She brought 85 cabin and 277 third class passengers, all of whom were sent forward to their destinations yesterday afternoon. Among the passengers arriving on the Corsican were the crews of the two Newfoundland schooners, Optimist and Ellen Lake, which foundered in the Atlantic, during the month of January last. Both crews had had long, experiences while being tossed about on the cold waters of the Atlantic, before they were picked up by the steamers which sighted their signals of distress.

Captain G. H. Norworthy of the Ellen Lake gave a graphic account of the suffering and tortures through which he and his crew passed before they were finally rescued. The schooner was about 200 miles off the coast of Newfoundland on Jan. 29, when she sprang a leak. The men worked valiantly at the pumps but were unable to keep up with the inflow of water, and were compelled to take to their only lifeboat late in the afternoon. The cold was so intense that in the midst of their efforts to keep their frail craft afloat, George Foreman, the cook, died from exposure. The boat travelled nearly 200 miles south, and the men were on many occasions in danger of being swamped by the giant waves, at whose mercy the craft was being tossed about. On the second day, they sighted a ship, but she passed without seeing their frantic signals. Eighty hours after leaving their sinking vessel, they sighted the Belgian steamer Ferster. One of the shipwrecked crew filled a canvas bucket with kerosene, tore off part of his coat to act as a torch, and with the last match set fire to it. The signal was seen by the steamer, which went to their assistance, and picked up the suffering men. They were taken to Antwerp and given every care in St. Elizabeth's hospital in that city.

Another tale of the hazards which beset mariners at sea was related yesterday, on the arrival of the Corsican, by Captain John Evans of the schooner Optimist, which was also lost at sea. The Optimist sailed from Bonaville, Spain, on Jan. 1, with a cargo of salt for Newfoundland. On Jan. 14 a strong wind sprang up and continued with terrific fury for several days. During that time most of the rigging of the vessel was torn away, and she lost her rudder. By Jan. 22 the vessel was leaking badly and it was only by superhuman efforts at the pumps that the schooner was kept afloat. On Jan. 26, a heavy sea broke over the ship and wrecked the lifeboat, damaged the cabin and shifted the cargo. This necessitated the men being lashed to the rigging to keep from being washed overboard, and it was not until late on that day that they could make an effort to shift the cargo. That same night, they sighted the steamer City of Naples and she stood by for several hours, at the weather being so bad as to prevent an attempt being made to take off the schooner's crew. The Optimist notified those on board the City that another vessel was rushing to their assistance, and continued on its way. On the morning of Jan. 28 the Ampetco reached the scene and the crew of the schooner were taken off and conveyed to Antwerp, where they were well taken care of.

Both crews are on their way to their homes in Newfoundland, and will probably leave for their destinations today.

The society which has been meeting in the Natural History Society rooms for the past two days, opened its morning session yesterday with a business meeting. This was followed by the election of officers, and throughout the rest of the morning and at the afternoon meeting, a number of technical papers concerning scientific research along various lines in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia were read. A banquet was held at the Royal Hotel last evening, following which the members enjoyed a theatre party, and then assembled at the residence of Dr. McIntosh, Union Street, where they were delightfully entertained by their hospitable hosts, Doctor and Mrs. McIntosh.

The election of officers at the morning meeting resulted as follows: Dr. A. H. MacKay, superintendent of Education for Nova Scotia—Honorary President.

W. E. Whitehead, Truro, N. S.—Assistant Secretary.

Dr. Edna Mosher, New Mexico—Member of Committee.

The place of the next meeting will be in Nova Scotia, at either Truro, or Annapolis. A resolution was passed thanking the governments of the two provinces for their financial aid, which enabled the society to continue its work.

The papers read yesterday included: "Some Properties of the Lead Arsenates"—A. Kellogg, Annapolis, Royal, N. S.

At the afternoon session Dr. McIntosh gave an interesting account of the work of the museum of the Natural History Society and detailed the several valuable collections available for a study of the natural resources of the province.

A. Gordon Leavitt read a paper on the Experiences of an Entomologist in the vicinity of St. John. Mr. Leavitt enumerated the various collecting grounds about the city and cited the Nerepis Valley between Westfield and Welsford as that to be preferred above all others because of the great variety of plant life, and the consequent variety of insect life.

Other papers read were: "The Production of Alatae in certain Aphididae"—Professor W. H. Brittain, Truro, N. B.

In The Interests Of Better Roads

S. L. Squires of Canadian Good Roads Assn. Visiting Maritimes on Important Business.

S. L. Squires of Toronto, chairman of the executive committee of the Canadian Good Roads Association, arrived in the city last evening from Fredericton. Mr. Squires is paying a visit to the Maritimes in the interests of better roads, with the purpose of securing uniform legislation, regulation and taxation, for the highways in the different provinces throughout the Dominion.

In a conversation last evening Mr. Squires emphasized the importance of securing the fulfillment of his mission. "Roads a few years ago," he said, "performed a purely local function, but the advent of the motor car has caused them to function inter-provincially, and even internationally, as well."

"These questions will be taken up at the next meeting of the association to be held in Victoria, B. C., June 12th next, which will be attended by delegates from every province of the Dominion and at which all the provincial governments will be officially represented."

Mr. Squires said that he had interviewed the government at Fredericton regarding the sending of an official representative from this province, and had been assured by the government that the province would send an official representative.

Mr. Squires spoke highly of the great good accomplished by the Federal aid grants that had been extended to the provinces by the Borden Government, some three years ago, and which was to be seen by the marked improvement in the highways of the province.

Mr. Squires leaves today for Halifax, and will also visit Prince Edward Island before returning to Upper Canada.

Next, Deputy Grand Master L. B. Wilson and Past Master George E. Ellis also spoke. Flaming music was rendered by a choir, and a solo was also given by Patsy Crutcher.
