One would imagine that a warm house and what is called a good fire should be the sine qua non during the prevalence of the state of affairs pre- viously described, but unfortunately during these fierce conflicts of the ele- ments, our some time useful servant and ally, has succeeded in obtaining the mastery, his choleric temper being aroused, his desire to join in the row outside has become ungovernable, and in some cases he has escaped and aided in the devastation. But thanks to our gallant "boys in blue," no fire so far has attained any very serious headway, or been attended with very disastrous results either in regard to life or pro- perty, and it may be said with both truth and pride, that Winnipeg stands second to no city in the Northwest in the efficiency of its appurtances for successfully fighting fire, and for the skill, courage and persistent determina- tiom under the most trying circum- stances, displayed by every member of	E.
