

Diarrhoea

MAY attack you at any time of the year, but it is more prevalent during the summer months. When this trouble attacks you, it does not pay you to experiment with untried remedies, but always procure one that has stood the test of time. Such a one is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has been on the market for 60 years and is considered by thousands of people as the best cure for all bowel complaints.

Mrs. Wilfrid Tomlinson, Victoria Harbor, Ont., writes: "I always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house, knowing from past experience that it is a sure and efficient remedy in diarrhoea and kindred bowel complaints."

TRAGEDIES OF THE ALPS

DEATH ROLL OF MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS IS A LONG ONE.

Glacier Which May Yield Up This Summer the Body of Lord Douglas, Who Perished Forty Years Ago—The Matterhorn, From Which He Fell—How Alpine Climbers Are Roped Together For Safety.

What is called the "death season" in the Alps is now at hand. Every summer there is a heavy loss of life amid Alpine peaks and glaciers. Mountain climbing has a great fascination for Englishmen, and each recurring season finds more of them attempting dangerous feats in the Alps or other mountainous sections. In ten years the Alps have claimed over 300 victims.

THE MATTERHORN, FROM WHICH LORD DOUGLAS FELL.

In the single year of 1901 the death list reached 119. All over Switzerland are monuments marking the graves of ill-fated adventurers or pointing out where they lost their lives. This year there is special interest in the Matterhorn and the Zmutt glacier at its base, for at some time during the season the glacier is expected to yield up a reminder of a grim tragedy of forty years ago.

With the growth of interest in Alpine exploration scientists began to devote themselves to study of the glaciers, and it was found that the progress of the ice in a glacier from the heights above to the valley beneath, where it melts and feeds the streams that flow into the sea, can be accurately measured. In 1820 the ascent of Mont Blanc was attempted by Dr. Hamel, member of the Russian council of state, two Englishmen and ten guides. Three of the guides in the party were overwhelmed by an avalanche and buried under ice and snow.

1853 Professor Forbes, an English scientist, made observations of the movement of the glacier and predicted that about forty years after their burial the bodies of the guides would appear at a certain spot. Sure enough, forty-one years after the tragedy the corpses were found at the place indicated, about four miles below where the guides had been overtaken by the avalanche. As the bodies had been in the ice during the whole period of forty-one years they were in a perfect state of preservation.

In July, 1865, the first successful attempt to scale the famous Matterhorn was made. The party was composed of Lord Francis Douglas, Edward Whymper, the noted mountain climber who afterward ascended to the height of 20,500 feet on Mount Chimborazo, in Ecuador; the Rev. Charles Hudson, Mr. Hadow, a guide named Michael Crox and two other guides named Taugwalder, father and son. The Matterhorn, which is 14,700 feet high, had been scaled, and the party was descending it on the afternoon of July 14, when Hadow slipped and pushed Crox over, and the two dragged after them Lord Douglas and Mr. Hudson.

The rope connecting the different members of the party began to pull on Whymper and the Taugwalders, but they had seen their companions fall and braced themselves for the expected strain. They managed to retain their places, but when the rope pulled taut it snapped in two, and Hadow, Douglas, Crox and Hudson fell from one height to another to the Zmutt glacier, 4,000 feet below. The bodies of three of the men were recovered, but that of Lord Douglas was not found. It is his body which the glacier is expected to yield up this summer. His sister, Lady Florence Dixie, herself famous as an explorer, is still living, and she has published a letter appealing to all Alpine climbers to watch for the appearance of the long buried corpse. She confidently expects to find it in such a state of preservation as to be readily identified.

Joy.
The gay malaria germs combine in demonstrations frisky; They hear a trust will make quinine Almost as dear as whiskey.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of these means of cure.

Very often a married woman or young girl does not know who to turn to for advice in circumstances where she dislikes to talk with the family physician about delicate matters. At such times write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free consultation and advice, and the same will be held as strictly confidential. It is foolish to consult women friends or persons without medical training.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol, is entirely vegetable and was the first exclusively woman's tonic on the market—it has sold more largely in the past third of a century than any other medicine for women.

All other compounds intended for women only are made with alcohol, or alcohol in large component—this alcohol injures the nerves. The little red capsules of the blood are shrunken by alcohol. All such compounds, therefore, do harm.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. Use them with the "Favorite Prescription" when a mild cathartic. One is a laxative, two, a mild cathartic.

JAPANESE WHALERS.

The Curious Way They Do Their Work With Nets and Knives.

Whales are captured in nets by the Japanese. The whalers pull off from the shore as quietly as possible, and when they come within the proper distance of their objective the boats, which have hitherto worked in couples, separate and, dropping their nets as they go, work around to the rear and flanks of their expected kill. The nets are made in large squares, each side being about forty feet long. One net is composed of six squares in line, and the squares are fastened to each other lightly. When all is ready the boats which have been worked around to the rear of the whale then commence to drive him gently toward the nets. Moving along lazily at first, the whale soon realizes that something untoward is happening, and, hurrying forward, dashes on to one of the nets. This is the critical moment, and when the fishermen see that the whale is well in the center of one of the squares they raise a great shout and charge in upon him.

When the whale is about spent a man chosen for his strength, activity, pluck, coolness and general fitness for his work then leaps upon his back and with a great triangular shaped knife proceeds to cut two great gashes in his body just back of his head. Through the underlying blubber and these two gashes he passes a rope and, knotting it, makes a loop of it. He then repeats the same operation as far back on his body as he can. When the fight has been completely knocked out of the whale, boats range alongside of him, and by the help of the loops already mentioned the hapless cetacean is slung between them in such a manner as to minimize the danger of his carcass sinking.

Then the boats form in procession, and, making for the shore, there commences the most curious part of the whole affair. The whalers, with real fervor and in the most solemn manner possible, begin a chanting prayer for the ease of the departing spirit by calling out "Joraku! Joraku! Joraku!" in low, deep tones. Upon the third day after the kill a memorial service is held in the village temple, and prayers are offered for the repose of the dead whale's soul.

Rapid Circulation in the "Bison" Heater

The expansion of hot water in the heater causes circulation. If the water heats at the bottom first, it cannot circulate till the water in the upper sections is also heated. Most heaters heat the bottom water first.

The "Bison" heats the water at the top first.

That is why it gets almost instantaneous circulation of hot water into the radiators—it is one of ten reasons why the "Bison" is the best heater.

OUR OWN.

If I had known in the morning How wearily all the day The words unkind Would trouble my mind

I said when you went away, I had been more careful, darling, Nor given you needless pain; But we vex "our own"

With look and tone We might never take back again. For though in the quiet evening You may give the kiss of peace Yet well it might be

That never for me The pain of the heart should cease. How many go forth in the morning Who never come home at night! And hearts have broken

For harsh words spoken That sorrow can ne'er set right. We have careful thought for the stranger, And smiles for the sometime guest, But oft for "our own"

The bitter tone, Though we love our own the best. Ah! lip with the curve impatient; Ah! brow with that look of scorn, 'Twere a cruel fate Were the night too late To undo the work of morn.

CANADIAN BORN.

Millionaire Contractors Who Tossed Timber in Lanark's Limits.

Despatches recently reported the capture of a $3,000,000 contract from the C. P. R., and a $7,000,000 one from the Grand Trunk Pacific, by the Foley Brothers of St. Paul. These brothers are natives of Lanark, having been born in Darling, says The Carleton Place Canadian. There were four—Timothy, Michael, John and Richard. The last is dead. These brothers began life in the humblest manner in the limits of Mr. Blair of Lanark. They were as poor as crows, except in the matter of intellect and energy. They were born with an aptitude to do things on a big scale. James L. Murphy knew them when they were in the chrysalis of the crowd state—45 years ago. In a moment of blooming ambition he accepted a position in the camp where they were engaged. He saw Tim and Mike wielding the cantal hook and the hapsplike. Tim especially was powerful in the art of log-rolling; indeed, each tossed timber with skill and alacrity. Mr. Murphy was not enamored of that sort of life, having something safer at home, and left it in a few days; but his memory retains the scenes with colors that enrich their tints with age. The brothers hitched their chariot to a star, which dropped in St. Paul, where they took deep root and began to spread with a rapidity almost sensational. Each is a millionaire and each lives in a mansion whose beauty and equipment are beyond the dreams of an Oriental potentate. Mrs. Murphy, when in Superior some time ago called on her husband's youthful friends, accompanied by a sister, who also knew them in those distant days. Timothy Foley married Miss Guthrie of Darling, and she, with her husband, gave the Canadians a royal greeting. T. Foley lives in a home next that of James J. Hill, the noted railway magnate. The brother John is at present visiting in Europe.
