MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a New Edition of Dr. Culver-well's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Exhaustion, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a scaled envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine, or the use of the knife, pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

TERRORS OF A FOX BITE.

The Duke of Richmond's Awful Death

WHILE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF CANADA.

As an evidence that the bite of other animals is sometimes as dangerous as that of a dog, says the London Telegraph, we may adduce the well-known case of the grandfather of the present duke of Richmond, who was governor-general of Canada in 1818, and died there in the August of 1819 from the effects of a fox's bite. The story was elaborately told by the late Lord William Lennox, in his "Fifty Years of Biographical Reminiscences," and is well calculated to warn careless readers of a not uninteresting volume against the danger of putting their hands within reach of a so-called tame, but really wild and chained-up fox. We are informed by Lord William Lennox that his father determined on a tour of inspection to the upper provinces of Canada, and, after a farewell banquet to his civil and military subordinate, the duke set off in the midsummer of 1819 from Quebec in a government steamer, whose head was pointed up the St. Lawrence river. Lord William accompanied his father, on whose staff he was serving as military aide-de-camp, as far as Montreal, whence the governor-general made his way to Fort William Henry, lying on the south bank of the great Canadian stream.
"Here," says Lord William, "occurred

AN INCIDENT OF A MOST FRIGHTFUL NATURE.

which totally changed the aspect of our hitherto happy residence in this distant colony." It appears that one of the English soldiers at Fort William Henry had a pet fox, and that an officer there, named Capt.
Fitz Roy, owned a bull terrier, between which and the fox there had been several fights. The fox was in a highly excited condition on the day when the duke happened to take notice of him, and just before mounting his horse to inspect the garrison he rashly stooped down to pat the fox on the head. The animal instantly snarled at the duke's hand, biting him slightly, upon which he took hold of the fox's ear, exclaiming: "You'll bite, will you, youascal!" The brute at once seized him near the joint of the right thumb, making his teeth meet in the flesh. Little was thought of the incident, as the duke arrived at Kingston a fortnight later, and he stayed some days at Kingston, and had himself entirely forgotten that he was ever bitten by the fox.
The 70th regiment was quartered at Kingston, and

THE DUKE TOOK PART WITH THE OFFIcers in their AMUSEMENTS.

playing at cricket and rackets, and riding out with them frequently. It had been arranged that on his way to Montreal, a new settlement or township named Richmondville should be visited, and the duke marked out under the Duke's supervision. For this purpose, as there was no carriage road, and only a small portion of the
