Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Prospects for peace among the Balkan States are much improved. The King of Roumania is using his influence towards a general conciliation. Difficulties, however, are expected to arise through the extreme attitude of Greece in claiming possession of Kavala and Drama as well as Salonki.

PEKING, To-day. The Government professes to view the revolutionary movement in the South without alarm. The southern troops from Nanking, known as the Yuan Expedition have suffered fresh reverses, retreated from Suchow Fu and taken up a strong position at Linsh-wakwan, adjoining the Province of Anhwei, where Tien Tsin Nanking railway crosses the Hwai River and now await the arrival of the Canton Expedition, which is expected to land fifteen thousand troops at Pakow. The Government declares the navy will sink every ship engaged in transporting Canton expedition if ever it starts.

LONDON, To-day. The fair name of the English Turf received a blow in a decision in a libel action brought by R. Woolen, a trainer, against Robert Stevier, editor of the sporting paper, winning Post. Woolen is one of the most prominent trainers in England and his two sons are jockeys in constant employ in the best stables. The winning Post charged that Woolen and other trainers and jockeys belonged to a ring which made enormous sums by betting, first entering into an agreement as to which horse would win or lose, and by other methods. The jury gave Woolen one farthing damages. On the witness stand Woolen admitted that he had made his fortune by betting. He had often won 25 thousand dollars on a race. His son Frank amassed more than $500,000 in a few years of racing in England.

SHANGHAI, To-day. The southern rebels, reported to number ten thousand strong, attacked Kiangnan Arsenal on Wednesday. The defenders, not exceeding two thousand were strongly entrenched, and assisted by the navy repelled three separate attacks, and also repelled them on Thursday morning. The Southerners being unable to gain any ground.

The Frock Coat. The frock coat is a long, stiff-lined badge of respectability which can be worn with much success in place of real plenty. There is nothing that will allow a man to qualify as a member of the church in a social standing quicker than a double breasted frock coat held slightly ajar so as to permit a diamond shirt stud to peep shyly forth in one suspended, two-carat peep. The frock-coat is an English invention and is usually spoken of in the society column as the Prince Albert. It was discovered by Prince Albert of Wales and brought to this country at a time when the rude and unlettered American citizen had nothing to wear to church except the narrow-hipped cutaway and an air of conscious recalcitrance. When the American people saw the frock coat and realized its possibilities in selling stock to pillars of the church they adopted it as the national dress for all occasions where polish would answer just as well as the homely virtues. Of late years there has been a tendency to lay aside the frock coat in moth balls and replace it with the two piece suit, particularly in warm weather. This has resulted in giving the subscription book agent a virtual monopoly of his chaste garment, through which he perpetuates with considerable eloquence while trying to hook somebody for a de luxe edition of Balzac which has not been diluted by the translator. Even the clergy leave their frock coats at home and appear in the pulpit in the flannel shirtwaist and sea-green suspenders. However, the frock coat is still used to quite an extent at morning weddings. The greatest crime which a man can perpetrate against society is to sit down at a wedding breakfast in cloth slippers and a sack coat, when there are people all around him in frock coats and striped trousers. After a guest has committed a 500-horsepower solecism like this once, he will be lucky if he is invited to attend the annual picnic of the cemetery association.

J. P. Morgan's Story. To illustrate Yankee persistency, J. Pierpont Morgan used to tell the following story: "A New England Yankee who was a prisoner on a pirate ship," said Mr. Morgan, "in the good old days when pirates roamed the seas, became, because of his Yankee attributes, objectionable to his captors. He was finally decided to maroon him on a desert island, with but little food and a coffin to remind him of his inevitable fate. The island was found and the New Englander and coffin were left alone on the beach while the pirate ship sailed away. "For several days she sailed and then became becalmed. For three days she lay there with not a breath of air. On the evening of the third day a black speck was noticed on the horizon. It steadily grew larger, and soon was close enough for the men on the ship to make out what it was. The man of millions paused for an instant, and then said, smilingly: "It was the Yankee in his coffin, with half of the lid in either hand rowing for home."

STAFFORD'S LINIMENT cures Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, and all Aches and Pains. For sale everywhere. -June 30, 1913. A Good Salesman. A short time ago, a young man was about to purchase a barrel of apples at the establishment of a produce dealer. They appeared to be good ones, but an old farmer standing by whispered to him to look in the middle of the barrel. This the would-be purchaser did, and found that with the exception of a layer at each end the apples were small and inferior. "I'm much obliged," he remarked, turning to the old farmer. "I've got some nice ones on my wagon, I just brought in," the old fellow ventriloquized diffidently. "I'll take a barrel from you, then," the man said, paying him the price and giving his address for the delivery. "By the way," a bystander asked the farmer, as the purchaser walked away, "how did you know those apples in the centre of the barrel were no good?" A twinkle came into the old coddler's eye. "Oh, that was one of my bar's," he said.

Mr. Blackburn Dead. Yesterday a cablegram was received from Liverpool announcing the death of Mr. Blackburn, father of Mr. C. Blackburn, Brazilian Consul. Deceased was well known here, had many friends and for a number of years was prominently identified with the fish interests of Newfoundland.

Fix the Road. The turn of the road at the eastern corner of Kenna's Hill and Quidi Vid Road on the north side, is too steep. Automobiles and horses turn there daily and if any children are in the way it is difficult to prevent accident. The Council should see to the matter and have the road made wider.

The children of George Street Sunday School with their friends and teachers numbering fully 900 had their annual treat at Mount Pearl yesterday. They were served with the children and their friends had a most enjoyable time. To see such a crowd of happy, beaming young children enjoying the sunshine and beauties of nature, which in the summer season in this section are so evident, was in itself a pleasure to the spectator. They were served with the very best that could be afforded and such healthy youngsters get away with a remarkable quantity of tea, cake, etc. The happy little people returned to town by train and made the welkin ring with their joyous shouts. The school and their parents, in the affair are to be congratulated.

Well-Known Draper Passed Away. In the death of Mr. Richard Pope, which occurred Tuesday, not alone has a well known man about town been removed from our midst but a good and kindly citizen. Mr. Pope was a son of the late Wm. Pope, and was a member of the well known West End blacksmiths of the West End. Mr. Pope was a draper and was successful at Baird's, Phipps, and Marshall Brothers. He was one of the good old-timers that it was a pleasure to converse with and was married to Miss Barnes. His brother is Mr. Walter Pope, well known in the West End, and a sister living abroad with several children survive him. Mr. Pope is a cousin of the Messrs. Pope, the well known furniture men of George Street, and a relative of Messrs. Thomas Pope, blacksmiths and Matthew Pope, engineer, also of Mrs. T. D. Carew, of Mr. Carew, of the Telegram staff. To the friends of the deceased the Telegram extends its condolences.

Rossley Star Theatre. There was a fair house last night at Rossley's despite the fact that thousands were enjoying the beautiful night. There is a good show tonight. A classy little vaudeville act and four splendid pictures: The Crossing with Napoleon is a fine military picture. The Baby Contest is a scream. The New Teacher, a dainty piece of acting by the best in the business, and the children in the attic, showing how some mischievous children, nearly meet their death and are only prevented by the intervention of a faithful dog - a great lesson for young and old.

A Sad Accident. A little girl named Morgan, of Kelligrews, met her death in a very sad manner a few days ago. While playing about in the rear of her house in the back porch she fell into a tub of water there, and as no one was about she quickly smothered. The child was less than two years old and the parents, who found her, are much affected over the sad happening.
