Petitions were presented by Mr. Downey on Temperance reform, by Mr. Clift, from Botwood and other places on same subject; by Mr. Hickman from Old Perfection on same subject; by Mr. Lloyd from British Hrs., etc., on fishery matters, and from Smith's Sound for a road; by Mr. Devaux from Pointe Verde, asking for the dredge; by Mr. Stone from Whales Brook for electric road board and from New Perfection on sawmills; by Mr. Halford from Fogo, on Temperance, from Tilting for canal, from Joe Batt's Arm for a well, and from Fogo for various public works; by Mr. Targett from New Melbourne and Brownsdale, on Temperance and from Blaketown for electric road board; by Mr. Hickman from Bay de Verde for road; by Mr. Coaker from Charlottetown, B. B., on temperance; by the Premier from St. John's West, on temperance; by Mr. Kent from St. John's East, on the same subject. The report of the Joint Select Committee on the Fishery Resolutions, submitted by the Prime Minister were read and adopted.

The Salaries and Marine and Fisheries Bills were passed without amendment by the Legislative Council, and read by the Speaker.

The rules of the House were suspended on motion of the Prime Minister. The House then resolved itself into Committee on the Sealing amendments. Some little discussion took place and further amendments made, during which Mr. Kent showed how both branches of the Legislature had been slighted by sealing captains, who had waited upon His Excellency the Governor and laid before him protests they had against some of the clauses in the sealing bill. He thought that the proper course for these men to adopt was to approach the Legislature, particularly as the House was in Session, and he had no doubt but that their grievance would receive very earnest consideration. He was very glad the Governor acted as he did and referred the matter to the Prime Minister.

The Council's amendments to the Sawmills Bill were read a second time and concurred in.

The Pilotage Bill was read a third time.

Partisan Reports and the Herald's Falsehood. Mr. Kent dealt with the partisan reports that he referred to on Friday last and read from the Evening Herald an extract to the effect that the Opposition members had done Mr. Dunfield, Supervisor of Debates, an injustice by blaming him for supplying improper synopsis of official debates. Mr. Kent denied the accusation and repudiated the Herald's statement.

Smothering Of Asthma Stops Quick—Thousands Cured By "Catarrhazone"

Count Ten—Then Relief Comes From Chronic Asthma.

Nothing yet discovered can compare with Catarrhazone in bad, ugly cases of Asthma.

Catarrhazone is the one remedy that can be sent quickly and direct to all parts of the breathing apparatus. The effect from Catarrhazone is a quick one—you feel better in no time—keep up the good work; use Catarrhazone as directed and you get well.

If your case is curable, if anything on earth can rid you permanently of Gum Tree of Australia, and this is fortified by the other germ-killing properties which, when so scientifically combined, makes Catarrhazone a veritable specific for Asthma, Catarrh and Bronchitis.

Even though many other remedies have failed—even though you are discouraged and blue—cheer up and try Catarrhazone to-day. What it repeatedly has done for others it will surely not fail to accomplish for you. Catarrhazone is not expensive. One dollar will buy a complete outfit from any Druggist. The money will be well spent because your immediate improvement in health will surpass your fondest expectations. Don't wait—today is the time to use Catarrhazone.

Government. He was prepared to submit the expenditures and accounts of the Government for the last five years to an impartial tribunal. It would be difficult, he thought, to get the exact cost of our exports and he said ironically the way to deal with parties who did not give proper valuations was to put them in jail. He said the increased taxation was made because of the expansion in the public service.

The Bills respecting Conception Bay Electric Companies passed the Committee and third reading as did also the Public Service Bill.

The House then adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Capt. Saunders Lectures to C.C.C.

Capt. Saunders lectured at the Aula Maxima of St. Bonaventure's College last night to a large and appreciative gathering. The affair was under the auspices of the C. C. C., and amongst those present were members of the Corps Committee: J. F. Parker, Esq., Rev. Bros. Ryan, Kennedy and Ellis. The lecturer was introduced by Lt.-Col. Conroy, and for over an hour dealt with "A Trip to Hudson Bay" in a most interesting manner.

He described in detail the towing of a large dredge to Port Nelson, the numerous difficulties overcome on the way and paid a particular tribute to the courage of the crew.

The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides, the machine being manipulated by Mr. T. Armstrong.

At the close a vote of thanks to the lecturer proposed by E. M. Jackson, Esq., was carried by acclamation. The C. C. C. Band discoursed excellent music during the evening. The proceeds which were quite substantial will be devoted to the funds of the C. C. C.

A MODERN INSTANCE.

It was something like a ringworm on his head, or rather at the back of the neck, just below the hair, and seemed inclined to spread. Washing with antiseptic solutions, and the use of common ointments scarcely availed to prevent its getting larger. He was puzzled. Then he saw an advertisement of Zylex and Zylex Soap, and decided to use them. Procuring a box of Zylex and a cake of Zylex Soap he washed the part carefully, and applied the ointment freely. The result was marked almost from the first. In a few days the spot had disappeared, and everything was as well as ever. Now he uses Zylex Soap regularly and keeps a box of Zylex always handy.

Have you such spots? Then use Zylex. You will soon forget that you have had any skin troubles. At all druggists. Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.—Feb 26, 1914.

Albert Edward Branch.

N. B. SOCIETY.

Last night's meeting of the Albert Edward Branch of the N. B. S. was largely attended.

The first prize, a slide and $2.50 gold piece was awarded to Master George Dowden for securing the largest number of members during the past year. Others awards were made to the following:

John H. Burridge, W. Lambert, R. Learning, R. Morgan, H. Bishop, G. Daniels, E. Hemmings, W. Stevenson, W. Boone, E. Kinsman, H. Cook, H. Luscombe, T. Lucas and G. Olson.

The presentations were made by Mr. H. Maund, Chairman of Guardians. Mr. Albert Rogers, of the Harbour Grace Society, who was present, offered a medal for the boy who brings in the most members during the coming year, which announcement was received with much enthusiasm.

Past President W. H. Goodland then read an interesting paper dealing with the lives of the patron saints of England, Ireland and Scotland, and at the close was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for the interesting and instructive discourse.

A resident of Mansfield is very proud of his dog Floss, which has become accustomed to carry messages from Mansfield to Sutton, three miles away, with surprising quickness. Floss's most notable performance was when her master sent her from Mansfield to Sutton with a note in a blinding snowstorm, but the dog brought an answer back, doing the journey of six miles in an hour. The dog is also used by a football team to take half-time and full-time scores of the match from the field to an inn. Another horse, Little Beta, also belonging to Mr. Shaw, accompanied Alpha on show, and together they could play "Home, Sweet Home" with bells fastened on their Concession to Ulster Unionists.

Asquith's Plan—Each County Will Decide for Itself Whether to Come in Under Home Rule or to Stay Out for Six Years. Unionists receive it coolly. Redmond thinks concessions too great, but accepts them for the sake of peace.—Carson Rejects the Offer.

Special to the Evening Telegram.

LONDON, This a.m.

Premier Asquith yesterday laid before the Commons his proposed concessions to Ulster with regard to its position under the Irish Home Rule Bill. The announcement which has been so long and so anxiously awaited, was to the effect that before the Bill became operative, polls should be taken in each county to decide whether there should be an exclusion of Ulster counties from the provisions of the Bill, for a period of six years from the first meeting of the new Irish Parliament. If the majority of voters were in favor of this scheme, the county would automatically be excluded for the prescribed period. Before an attendance even larger than that which listened to the introduction of the Home Rule Bill, the Premier began his statement as to the concessions the Government proposed to offer Ulster, shortly before 4 o'clock. He prefaced his speech with a declaration that the Government made these suggestions, not because it was running away from the original Bill, but merely to allow the Bill to start with the greatest prospect of success. While there was possibly acute dissatisfaction and civil strife in Ulster, said the Premier, if the Bill should be shipwrecked or postponed the outlook was equally formidable. The supporters of the Bill were as convinced to-day as ever they have been of the soundness of its principles and machinery, continued the Premier. He said he regarded it as a sincere and considerate attempt to place the Irish Government on a solid foundation without injustice or hardship to any one class. He informed the House that negotiations for a compromise last August failed to result in any approach to agreement, but had made all realize more than ever the difficulties of the situation. To meet Ulster's objections they had tried to devise "home rule within home rule," but that proposition did not commend itself either to the Unionists or Nationalists. By such a scheme Ulster would have been exempted from the administrative and executive authority of the Dublin Government, while legislation to which Ulster objected could not come into force until it had been sanctioned by the British Parliament. Another suggestion considered was the inclusion of the whole of Ireland in the Bill for legislative and executive purposes, but giving Ulster counties the option of removing themselves for a time. Any sort of exclusion, said the Premier, would tend to keep the controversy alive and would invite serious administrative and financial difficulties. He said he believed the Unionists would find some form of provisional exclusion as a medium between the surrender of principles and the application of force.

LONDON, To-day.

The plan for the conciliation of the Unionists in Ulster in connection with Irish Home Rule Bill laid before the Commons yesterday met with but a cool reception from Unionists. Asquith's offer was that a poll should be taken of electors in each county of Ulster to decide before the Bill became operative whether they should be excluded from the operation of the Bill for a period of six years from the first meeting of the new Irish Parliament. This, it was pointed out, would result almost undoubtedly in the exclusion from Irish Home Rule of the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Londonderry, Down, Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition objected to the six year limit and demanded a dissolution of the Imperial Parliament on the question. He was followed by John Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, who declared although the concessions went too far, he and his colleagues would agree to them for the sake of peace. Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists, rejected the plan. Bonar Law, Unionist leader, in a speech following the Prime Minister, left no doubt that the offer falls to meet the approval of Unionists. If the proposal of the Government represented the last word, then the situation was a grave one, was the significant warning of the leader of the Opposition. Although the Chamber was crowded yesterday afternoon when Asquith arose at 4 o'clock to make the announcement, the occasion was marked by an absence of demonstration or excitement beyond ministerial cheers. When the Prime Minister expressed his own satisfaction with the inherent justice of the measure and also his regret at the failure of negotiations looking to a settlement by consent, his speech was heard in silence. Bonar Law's speech received similar treatment. Sir Edward Carson's explanation that though indisposed for several days, he determined to be present on this occasion, evoked sympathetic applause from both parties. His repudiation of the Prime Minister's offer, accompanied by the assertion that Ulster could not accept the proposal, which meant her death sentence with a stay of execution for six years, produced a profound impression. Premier Asquith said a poll would be taken in the county if a requisition was presented signed by one-tenth of the electors presented within certain time after the date of the passing of the Bill. Persons entitled to vote were those entitled to vote at Parliamentary elections, and the question put would be "Are you for exclusion of the county from the Government of Ireland for a period of years, or are you against such exclusion." The poll would be taken by ballot similarly to Parliamentary election. If the poll resulted in favor of exclusion, the county would be automatically excluded for the prescribed period. Sir Edward Carson, "What happens at the end of six years?" Asquith replied there should be ample time to test by experience the actual working of the Irish Parliament. They were sure also that before the period of exclusion ended there should be a certain opportunity for the electors of the United Kingdom to pronounce whether or not the exclusion should come to an end. Asquith showed by examples there must be two general elections before the period of exclusion expired. The Government believed it was a fair and equitable agreement. In reply to a question by Bonar Law, the Premier said they should come in after six years unless the Imperial Parliament otherwise determined. He emphasized the excluded areas during these six years would continue their representation in the Imperial Parliament.
