The Concluding Games of With a number of the speedy players from the Lornes, the Bankers put up Season—Bankers Lost 3 Goals to 1.

The Princess League was brought to a close last night. As a result of the games played the standing remains unchanged with the Waterloos to the front. Last year the Waterloos were the winners in the Junior City League. The attendance at the league's games has not been as good as was hoped for. The games have been splendid exhibitions, and the public, had they once "caught on," would cerhave supported them as they should have been. Should the league be continued another season, however, it will be one of the best drawing cards in the city.

The Y. M. C. A. and St. John's met in the first game. Things went in the former team's favor all through, although it was a well-played game. The winners landed four goals, while the St. John's were unable to score. Pearson's work in the Y. M. C. A. goal was a feature of the evening. Parker and Canfield also played well.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 24. - Battling Nelson is so confident of victory that he has placed $1,500 in the hands of Harry Corbett to guarantee his appearance in the ring to meet Britt early in March. This money will also go as forfeit in case the "Battler" fails to make the stipulated weight of 132 pounds on the day of the fight. Nelson wanted to make it catch weights, but Britt, who feels that the Dane is having a hard time taking off flesh that has been accumulating on his bones since he last appeared in the ring, held out for the low notch, and Nelson acquiesced. The two men have agreed to split the purse on a 75 and 25 per cent basis, referee to be chosen five days before date of the battle. Britt wanted Eddie Graney to act as the third party in the ring, but Nelson's manager did not seem inclined to accept the little blacksmith, although when the time rolls around there is little doubt but that Graney will be chosen as referee. The fighters will not get the bonus that they have been so tenaciously holding out for, are of, and that little extra wad that sually was passed on the side to rawing cards" will now nestle in the ckets of smooth gents who hold rings that make permits possible. e fighters, however, will get 55 per cent of the gross receipts.

FOURTEEN YEARS TEACHING MUSIC

Furnished by the Special and Remarkable Showing of the London Conservatory of Fourteen years ago a musical institution was founded in London with one teacher, one piano and no pupils. Today it has a main building of fifteen rooms, fifteen pianos and eighteen teachers, and an average atendance of over 600 pupils. It has two city branches, one in the Janes block, South London, and the other cornor of Richmond and Oxford streets. This is a remarkable showing considering the size of London. The education given is made as practicable as modern ideas can make it, beginning with that beautiful system (Fletcher method) of teaching young people—a system that has re-volutionized the methods of teaching music, and which every pupil should study, and as will be ably exemplified by a lecture and demonstration to be given in Masonic Temple by Miss Moore shortly. Ask for invitation. The system of teaching harmony is practically a revolution in the methods of studying musical theory. The objective has been shifted from harmony alone to that of harmony and melody simultaneously. Mr. O'Donnell, a graduate of the Royal Military School of Music, England, has for years held that harmony and counterpoint should be studied as one, and to that end applied himself for the last ten years to perfect a system by which this object might be accomplished. The splendid work done by the students is a proof that this theory is correct. Students are encouraged to work out ideas. The object of this course is to assist the student to form and cultivate habits of correct melodic thought. The prime object of all theoretical study in music is melody. If this is neglected all theoretical study is wasted. Parents who so desire are sent reports of students' progress. Rehearsals are given each Saturday afternoon-the principal giving a stenographer his comments and percentage after hearing the work. Students are thus allowed to take one-half of a pass during the year. This encourages good work during the year. Many students attend who study music and elocution as an accomplishment They need not take examinations or play at recitals unless they so desire, although they miss very much of the value of music by so doing. Not one graduate has left the institution and is engaged professionally but is doing exceptionally well both pedagogically and financially, and if they are not doing well a place is made for them and a chance given. No graduate is lost sight of.

The system taught in all branches entirely synthetic, where so many teachers are harmoniously engaged with the same high ideal, and who are not afraid to exchange ideas.
