City Will Offer W. J. Boss
$7,000 for Garbage Collection Equipment.

The city will offer Contractor W. J. Boss $7,000 for his horse, barn and the balance of his contract for the collection of garbage in the city. The council adopted a recommendation to this effect last night, although it was stated that Mr. Boss had not said he would accept such a proposition. His price is $8,000. The council figures $4,000 of its offer will buy Boss' 28 horses, 1000 lbs. harness for them, $500 the barn at Adelaide and Chesapeake streets, and $2,000 his interest in the contract which runs to the end of the year. If Mr. Boss accepts this offer there will be an overdraft in the garbage department of several thousand dollars. If he does not accept it, the department will just about break even at the end of the year. The offer becomes effective Oct. 1.

East End Wants Relief.
A delegation of East End residents headed by Adam Palmer and C. H. Finch, appeared before the council to demand action on the mail delivery and street car extension through their district in Ealing, where 4,000 people live. They said they had to walk for nearly three-quarters of a mile every day for their mail, while every farmer had his delivered at his front door.

Mr. Palmer said: "It seems the street railway runs the city and not the city the street railway." It was pointed out that the East End would get the first extension made in the annexed district.

Mr. Finch entered a protest against the conditions at the school in Ealing, where he said two children sat in one seat, and coal was furnished of an inferior quality to the kind they had when they ran it themselves. He would show the council that they were not fooling when the municipal elections came around in January.

"We mean business," declared Mr. Finch, "and it's up to you men to get busy. You don't have to spend money, but just exercise your authority."

Subway Matter Up Again.
Alderman Wilson brought the subway matter up again, asking Mayor Graham when he thought action would be taken. The council was informed that it was up to the Dominion Railway Company, who had London's application before them.

An inquiry as to odorless gas by Alderman Wilson brought the matter from Mayor Graham, who said the city had the power to grant another franchise to any corporation making application but it had no money to supply a different gas than it now supplies.

The bylaw appropriating $10,000 for the patriotic fund was given its first reading. The money is to be used for any person in the city who is in distress because of the war.

The street railway was given an extension of time in which to install the Wharmcliffe Road switch.

WANT CREW OF FIREMEN STATIONED AT EXHIBITION

Western Fair Board May Ask City
Council For Better Protection
Next Fall Time.

Members of the Western Fair Board are seriously thinking of asking the city council to station a crew of firemen and apparatus stationed on the fair grounds permanently during fall week.

Some years ago a company of men and a hose wagon were kept on the grounds while the big attraction was on, but lately this has been done away with. As the result of the fire during the past fair the board is now on the safe side, will ask that some of the members of the fire department be stationed there once more.

When the subject was broached to Fire Chief John Aitken today he stated that he thought it would be a good thing to have a few men stationed on the grounds during the big week.

PLEAD GUILTY TO BURGLARY CHARGES
John Montgomery, giving Chicago, Ill., as his home, and Norman Morris, of this city, pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to having burglarized McLeod-Noles and the Jose Gaste cigar factories. The youths—they are still in their teens—were arrested last night by Detectives Harry Down and Robert Egleton.

On their arraignment, both admitted the charge of entering the factories and stealing a quantity of cigars. Sentence will be passed next week, both youths being remanded.

SICK DOCTOR Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case when weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way, is valuable.

"An attack of grip, so severe, it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew, of course, that I must have food and nourishment or I could never recover."

"I began to take four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day, and for two weeks this was almost my only food. It tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely, and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength."

"Grape-Nuts is of great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods."

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment."

Name given by Canadian Postum Company, Windsor, Ont.

The most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts and cream ten days proves. "There's a Reason."

WITCH OF THE BLACK FOREST FORE- CAST GERMANY'S DOWNFALL

That disaster and disruption would overtake the German Empire in the year 1914 was presaged as early as 1849, when the assassination of Emperor William I. was attempted. The story predicting the downfall of Germany came from the witch of the Black Forest, near Berlin. It has been told and retold, but is of interest just now, especially as it is revived in a letter received by City Engineer W. N. Ashplant from a friend of his in London.

The story follows. Emperor William I. asked the witch of the Black Forest in 1849 to push aside the mystic curtains of futurity for him. She gave him this table:

Attempted assassination	1849	Franco-German war	1871	Death of William I.	1888
	8		8		8
	4		7		8
	9		1		8

1871 1888 Greatest prosperity 1913
It will be seen by this table that the figures of the years are added to the last column to bring out the period of the witch's prediction. In announcing the 1913 forecast she declared it would be the greatest year of prosperity in the history of the German Empire and would be immediately followed by disruption and disaster.

BRITAIN CHAMPION OF THE OPPRESSED

England Fighting for Democracy
Against Autocracy,
Says Dr. Herridge.

CANADA MUST PLAY PART
Dr. Grant Addresses Open
Session of London Presbytery on Church Work.

"Britain in this war is the champion of the oppressed and downtrodden. She has drawn the sword for this conflict. She will never sheath it until 'Kaiserism' and all that is involved in it is overturned. It is a war on which hangs the main trend of civilization. England is fighting now that we may not have to fight again in the years to come."

With these words, Rev. Dr. W. T. Herridge, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, summed up England's justification for plunging wholeheartedly into the war that is holding all Europe in its clutches, at an open meeting of the presbytery held in the First Presbyterian Church last night.

Britain Not in Favor.
The speaker impressed on his hearers the fact that not for a moment had Britain sought to go to war with Germany. German manifestos before the war hinted at the time when autocracy would be substituted for democracy and when the governing hand of the emperor would have greater, perhaps, world power, Germany had been instrumental in bringing on the conflict of European giants.

"The time had come for us as Canadians to show our loyalty in some other way than mere words," continued the speaker, "in discussing the part the colonies of Great Britain will play in the struggle. 'Canada must play her part. We cannot be at peace when England is at war. I have seen the volunteers from this country go to Valcartier. They are a fine lot of men, and well worthy of going to the front to battle for the Empire.'"

The Part of the Church.
The church will play an important part in the struggle, the speaker declared. Why? Because the church is the mightiest and strongest of the institutions that have to fight for its very existence. At times religion has seemed to have been weakened. But the church has always stepped up to its opportunity. What it must do is go back to its ancient faith. Practical men are needed in the church, the same as they are in business. Men who are able to grasp opportunity and carry it through to success.

That the present war may have a tendency to more closely knit the colonies was a theme that Dr. Herridge touched on. He said that the conviction of Dr. Herridge, "in future while we are standing shoulder to shoulder combating a common peril, we may learn to put aside our own differences in our desires to bring about a closer co-operation," he said.

Dr. Grant Heard.
Rev. Dr. S. Grant, chairman of the finance board of the Presbyterian Church, spoke briefly on the colonies' unanimous resolution to aid Great Britain with "the last man, the last dollar."

"Every colony was ready with men and money at the first sound of war," said the speaker. "It is impossible for any part of the world not to feel the stress of the conflict. In these days of advanced civilization, nations and countries are too closely allied through the channel of trade and commerce to feel the influence of a crisis of titanic proportions such as we are facing. I firmly believe that the time is coming when commerce will be a devastating thing as war to intrude into its prosperity."

Special Prayer Session.
At the afternoon session a special service was held in connection with the present war was held, Rev. Dr. Smith, of Dorchester, leading. Rev. Dr. W. T. Herridge and Rev. Dr. S. Grant addressed the congregation on church work.

The sum of $50,000 was adopted by the presbytery as its share towards the 1915 budget. A field day is being arranged for the first Sunday in October, when the various congregations will be appealed to for their contributions towards the amount.

The following students were credited to their various colleges: J. B. McNeil to Queen's; J. W. McAlpine, of Glenora, to the University of Toronto; J. W. McAlpine, of Glenora, to the University of Toronto; J. W. McAlpine, of Glenora, to the University of Toronto.

TAKE LAST PICTURES OF SOLDIERS AT THE CAMP
Mayor Graham and Controller Moore
Were Granted Special Permit at Valcartier.

While Mayor Graham and Controller Moore were at Valcartier they secured a special permit to take pictures of the camp. They came away with over 20 views of officers, men and scenery. Some of the pictures are of London men who have had no pictures taken in recent years. Major W. C. Cole, Lieut. Herbert Sandreid, Col. H. C. Beecher, Capt. Weekes and Robinson and other local officers are included in the list.

The picture-taking of the presbytery will be held in the First Presbyterian Church the first Tuesday in December.

Only Governor's Scheme To Relieve Overcrowding at Jail, However.
Horrors in the women's quarters at the county jail.

It is no scandal in the statement. It is merely the way in which Governor Carter is trying to solve the problem of bedding the 35 male prisoners in the jail that many hold.

In other words, the case is this way: There are only two women confined at the county jail at present. There are as above mentioned, over half a hundred men. This morning's police court sent almost a dozen more to Castle Cartier. Daily the situation becomes more complex.

And it is that the governor in desperation has hit on the plan of putting some of his guests in the remote rooms in the women's quarters. He will endeavor to select the best mannered among them, those being barred who are apt to make use of expressions that are not exactly classical English.

The "rooms" to which the male prisoners will be consigned will be at the extreme end of the corridor in the ward assigned to the fair sex. The arrangement is only temporary, until the construction which is turning things upside down at the county jail is alleviated.

LONDON PREPARES FOR GERMAN AIR INVASION

Buildings Protected Against Attack, Says Mrs. Grant-Harris,
Who Returns After Exciting Incidents Abroad.

With its high buildings protected with heavy steel nettings, with guns mounted on their roofs, long muzzles pointing inquiringly toward the sky, with guards sweeping the heavens through powerful searchlights and with all conspicuous illumination extinguished after 11 o'clock, old London is grimly watching for a sudden invasion of German aircraft. All over England, men are hurrying to man the guns. The trip to Canada was a perilous one. The Corinthian, on which the Londoner made the return trip, sailed from Tilbury. The liner was escorted to Dover by several destroyers, which went ahead feeling out a channel through the honeycomb of mines in the harbor and off the coast. The passengers were well aware of the destroying mines under the surface of the water, and were in constant terror that the liner would strike one of the "feelers" and send it with its human freight to the bottom.

Previous to leaving, steamship officials warned the passengers that not until the middle of the Atlantic was reached were they safe. The usual preliminaries to casting off were omitted, and one dark night the vessel quietly slipped from her moorings at Dover and put out to sea, escorted by the destroyers.

All Lights Extinguished.
All lights were extinguished. The scene as the vessel left the safety of the harbor and rode the waves into the ocean, where danger lurked, was described to an Advertiser representative as being nothing less than gruesome. With the vessel's lights dimmed and slightly in the lead, the liner raved away from England. When the coast had been left far behind the destroyers changed their position. Suddenly the destroyers were ordered all to go into the cabin. As they steamed away, the feeling of security that the passengers had felt seemed to have been snatched away. The Corinthian's crew seemed to feel it too. The speed of the vessel was increased, and the flight to Canada and safety begun in earnest.

"The course of the vessel was changed and we raced through the night away from what officers afterwards told me was surely a prowling German cruiser. A night of terror was passed by all on board. The mysterious vessel, while not appearing to be in any danger, was in fact in the hands of the enemy. The vessel was faster than it was, for by morning it had disappeared. The rest of the trip was uneventful. We were all very glad when the Corinthian warped into her dock at Montreal."

Pursuers Hung On.

Provision for Unfortunates.
England took compassion on them. Cathedrals, churches, public buildings are being thrown open that they may be housed. The British Government is providing for the unfortunates who, in the southeast towns and villages on the west coast, refugees from Belgium doctored into England. They carried practically no baggage, and had little or no money. Many of them had watched their homes laid waste by pillaging hordes of Germans and had made their escape to the coast with greatest difficulty.

Many Breathless Events.
Since Great Britain declared war, following Germany's declaration for the neutrality of little Belgium, every hour in England has been crisscrossed with breathless events. Mrs. Grant-Harris witnessed the mobilization of the British fleet at Spithead. Stealth-like cruisers, long, low destroyers, submarines, and big Dreadnoughts appeared as if by magic from every direction.

While at Hamstead, the Londoner saw the vast army of Russians secretly landed in the north of Scotland, march south through England to embark in big transports for France. Daily in the southeast towns and villages on the west coast, refugees from Belgium doctored into England. They carried practically no baggage, and had little or no money. Many of them had watched their homes laid waste by pillaging hordes of Germans and had made their escape to the coast with greatest difficulty.
