in a speech here today.
"If Germany is triumphant over this where," he asked, "could we then look to a chivalrous country to protect us: To America? If with France and Russiz with their powerful armies, we with the most powerful navy in the world, could not face this terrible machine, how could America step in? It would be more than America could do to de-

The Chancellor then took up the liquo: The Chancelor then took up the definitions.

"The Government has wide powers to deal with the drink question and it means to use tham," he declared. He said a small minority of the workmen had employed in the armament factories had refused to work a full week because o the lure of drink. The Government would use its powers discreetly and a spirit of moderation, Mr. Lloyd George asserted, but "fearlessly." He was sure the public would support whatever acon was taken and not allow indulgence of this kind to interfere with the country's prospects in the war.

Industrial Troubles Must End. "For one reason or another we do of get the results we are entitled to expect from our workshops. Industrial differences are bound to occur, but we cannot afford them now. It is intolerimperiled for the sake of a farthing an hour. During war Governments should have the power of settling dif-ferences. I do not believe the parties nvolved will refuse to comply with the regent command of the Government hat there should be no delay." Expressing confidence in the outcome decision is necessary because of the war the Chancellor said the peoble of the country hardly realized yet portance of the struggle in which at victory could not be won without a England had enrolled the largest volun-
