Further Exemptions

Further exemptions passed included the loading or unloading for eleven hours on Sunday after September 15th of vessels carrying grain, coal or ore, work by any public official done under departmental orders and unavoidable work by fishermen after 6 p. m. in the taking of fish. As first submitted by Mr. Aylesworth it read: "The preparation for taking of fish." After protests from Mr. Macpherson, on behalf of Fraser river fishermen, the change was made. More Exemptions

Passing on from exempting clause to clause four, which requires the substitution of another day of rest when employees are engaged on Sunday, Mr. Aylesworth moved a substitute clause as follows: "Except in cases of emergency it shall not be lawful for any person to permit any employee engaged in work of some industrial process or in connection with transportation to do on the Lord's Day the usual work of his ordinary calling, unless such employee be given during the next six days in such week twenty-four consecutive hours without labor." Mr. Aylesworth said this would confine a subsequent twenty-four hours' rest to persons engaged in an industrial process or transportation. It would not apply to telegraph or telephone operators, caretakers, gas or escentic light works, seamen, domestic servants, etc. Duncan Ross protested that the clause

Hon. Mr. Oliver said the notice of cancellation was not given because of any allegation of wrong-doing. The government held that the mere placing of machinery on the ground and the expenditure of $5000 a year did not fulfil the conditions. There must be efficient working of the claim. Proceedings had or could be taken in the courts and the rights of the concessionaires would turn upon the courts' decourts and the rights of the concessionaires would turn upon the courts' decision. The government was willing to recognize that for any bona fide expenditures made by the concessionaires compensation should be allowed to a reasonable degree if they decided to throw up their locations. With reference to the Boyle concession, he did not feel like interfering with it by reason of the large expenditure of Detroit people who had become interested in the enterprise. These people had spent $300,000 on a dredge and the government desired to see the result of their work.

An important development in framing the Lord's Day act took place today when Hon. Mr. Aylesworth accepted an amendment granting power to the provinces to enact further legislation with regard to Sunday observance provided they do not touch on the criminal code. Mr. Aylesworth said the provinces had co-ordinate jurisdiction with the Dominion parliament to pass Sunday observance legislation within certain limits.

Concessions Are Necessary

In order to receive moral support and active sympathy for the Lord's Day act concessions would have to be made to some people of the Dominion. He was sinclined to be generous in this respect without doing violence to the principle of the bill. Owing to this Mr. Aylesworth said he would accept the amendment. Mr. Monk expressed the opinion that the amendment did not go far fenough. It gave the provincial legislatures nothing that they have not at present.

A Montreal despatch, dated June 26th, says:

La Patrie is out against the Sunday boservance bill. "We hope," writes Hon. Mr. Tarte, "that such a dracanic measure will never be adopted. Never has the liberty of the subject been so disregarded. As a matter of fact, such a bill would not be accepted in a country governed by most autocratic methods. There is no government or public man capable of carrying such measures into force."

Mr. Tarte thinks that the bill must have been forced on Sir Wilfrid Laurier by Ontario, which province has always been a difficulty to the Liberals. He intimates that it would be better for the Liberals to meet these knotty questions. A witness was found today by counsel for Thaw whose testimoney it is said will be of the utmost importance, to the defence. This man, whose name is withheld, is said to be an old friend of Thaw, and will testify that he talked on Monday night on the roof garden with Thaw, who appeared to be normal in his demeanor and entirely at ease. Suddenly, according to this informant, Thaw turned pale, his eyes glared, and turning suddenly away he waked towards the place where White was seated, and the shooting followed. Thaw's counsel consider that this testimony indicates that Thaw did not go to the roof garden in quest of White, and that it was only when his eyes lighted suddenly on the man whom he believed had wronged him that his passion for vengeance suddenly blazed out.

In this way Mr. White was able to obtain ample warning that the wealthy young man from Plitsburg suspected him and was preparing some unpleasant surprises. Mr. White took occasion to mention this matter to his associates and commented that one reason, he assumed, that Thaw was angry at him was because he was familiar with a document drawn by the present Mrs. Thaw before her marriage. The nature of this is not known. There are many stories, too, of Thaw's first meeting with White which is said to have taken place in Paris last spring when Mr. Thaw and Miss Nesbit were married, and in the course of which Thaw threatened White. Agnes Palmer, a chorus girl, is quoted in an interview today as saying that Mr. White had told her that he knew Thaw was "gunning" for him.

FOREIGN TRADE REPORTED

A Washington despatch, dated June 24th, says: An analysis of the foreign commerce of the United States labor hussan in a hulletin issued by the debureau, in a bulletin issued by the department of commerce and labor, says that in the fiscal year of 1905, 48 per cent. of the imports into the United States were drawn from Europe; 20 per cent. from North America; 13 per cent. from South America; 14 per cent. from Asia; 2 per cent. from Oceania, and 1 per cent. from Africa.

Of the exports from the United States in the same year, 67 per cent. went to Europe; 17 per cent. to North America; 4 per cent. to South America; 8 per cent. to Asia; 2 per cent. to Oceania, and 1 per cent. to Africa.

Ar comparison with the figures of earlier years shows a gradual decline in the share of imports supplied by Europe, and in the share which Europe takes of the exports, In 1853 Europe supplied 71 per cent. of the total imports, the share ranging downward to 48 per cent. in 1905. Of the exports, the share taken by Europe ranges downward from 84 per cent. in 1881 to 67 per cent. in 1905. This reduction in the percentage which Europe holds in the trade of the United States is largely due to the enlargement of our trade with the Orient, imports from Asia, which formed but 7 per cent. of the total in 1870, and 8 per cent. in 1890, forming 14 per cent. in 1905. The exports to Asia, which amounted to but 2 per cent. of the total in 1870, and the same in 1890, were 8 per cent. in 1905.
