

Many women with disfigured complexions never seem to think that they need an occasional cleansing inside as well as outside. Yet neglect of this internal bathing shows itself in spotty, and sallow complexions—as well as in dreadful headaches and biliousness. It's because the liver becomes sluggish, and waste matter accumulates which Nature cannot remove without assistance. The best

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

are made according to a formula in use nearly a century ago among the Indians, and learned from them by Dr. Morse. Though repeated attempts have been made, by physicians and chemists, it has been found impossible to improve the formula or the pills. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are a household remedy throughout the world for Constipation and all Kidney and Liver troubles. They act promptly and effectively, and

PLANT PUZZLES.

What, For Instance, Guides the Vine in Finding its Support?

A plant that actually goes insect hunting is among the latest of the scientific discoveries. It is known as the sundew. Its leaves, covered with tentacles, close in upon a fly the moment it touches them and slowly strangle it.

This has long been familiar to the naturalists, but it now develops that the plant does not passively wait for its prey. If a fly alights within a half inch of one of the leaves it slowly approaches the insect until close enough to lay hold and destroy, thus demonstrating the possession of some sort of sense or instinct with which plants are not usually supposed to be endowed.

Something of the same sort is manifested in that plant parasite, the dodder. It germinates from seed, sending out a thin, threadlike growth, which winds in and out among the grass stalks until it finally approaches its natural victim. Then its growth is greatly accelerated. In a sense it fairly leaps upon its host and once there not only fastens to it, but multiplies with surprising rapidity.

If a stake be driven within a few inches of a growing sweet pea vine it will be observed that a tendrill drops from a leaf of the plant in the direction of the stake. Forthwith the whole upper shoot of the vine bends in the same direction, and very soon the tendrill is able to fasten itself. The same observation holds more or less true with all climbing plants.

Vegetation of various kinds sends roots through distances, sometimes to be measured in yards, that they may reach soil or water below. Science is asking if the sundew knows that the fly is near.

Has the vine a method of detecting the proximity of its support?

Does the plant so situated that its nourishment is lacking realize that far below it are earth and water?

An affirmative answer involves the admission of a sense or instinct in vegetation that corresponds to that in animal life, and yet those who have studied the matter most profoundly give that very answer.—Exchange.

BOATS OF THE ANCIENTS.

Floating Palaces Used by the Old Greeks and Romans.

It is generally agreed that Noah's ark measured about 450 feet in length, seventy-five feet in breadth and forty-five in depth. It is interesting to note that the proportions of these dimensions are practically the same as those of the great modern ocean liners.

The Greeks and Romans constructed several large vessels measuring upward of 500 feet. These were built for the emperors or rulers and were little more than enormous scows, without any means of propulsion. Upon these were erected elaborate cabin accommodations, and even gardens were planted. A Roman bath was installed on one of these boats.

A vessel 420 feet in length was built by Ptolemy which was propelled by 500 rowers, arranged in five banks, using oars fifty-seven feet in length. The boat is recorded to have developed considerable speed.

The fame of the Thalamegus still lives. This boat, which measured 300 feet in length, forty feet in breadth and sixty in depth, was said to have been the most beautiful craft in antiquity and was used exclusively by the emperor.

A king of Syracuse is also credited with having built a very palatial boat, whose cabins were hung with costly silks and decorated with rare statues. After the decline of the Roman empire no great ships were constructed for more than 1,000 years.

The biggest modern ship, the Vaterland, measures 950 feet, thus approximately fulfilling the tradition that ships would come to be 1,000 feet long.—Boston Herald.

Highland English.

English as she spoke in the remote highlands is not exactly the tongue of the south, which fact is illustrated by a brief conversation which took place between three highland ghillies who had a sup each of the laird's own mountain dew. Says Tugal, "That was the fery pest whusky her nainse!" nefer tasted in all her pore tays." Assented Tonalt, "So did I neither." And Angus corroborated, "Neither did I too."—London Globe.

Coming Into Her Own.

Woman is certainly coming into her own. Even in tender romance she is exerting an influence.

The young man had just been accepted. In his rapture he exclaimed, "But do you think, my love, I am good enough for you?"

His strong minded fiancée looked sternly at him for a moment and replied: "Good enough for me? You've got to be!"—Judge.

Cost of Naturalization.

At the time of filing the declaration of intention an alien is required to pay to the clerk of the court a fee of $1. At the time of filing a petition for naturalization the petitioner is required to pay to the clerk of the court a fee of $4.—New York American.

Too Much Water.

Tommy—Say, papa, isn't mamma just a trifle crazy?

Papa—Why do you think so, my son?

Tommy—Well, the other day I was playing in the rain, and she made me come in and take a bath.—Chicago News.

If you carry a torch for yourself you cannot keep the light out of other people's eyes.—Boecher.

When Moles Fight.

You would hardly believe that moles, clumsy and almost blind, become perfect demons when they quarrel. No one knows what they quarrel about, but if they once start fighting one has to die. They will keep on in the presence of any number of spectators, hanging on to one another like bulldogs and burying their enormously strong jaws and teeth in one another's flesh.

Hedgehogs, another type of the quiet, inoffensive looking animal, not only fight, but always to the death, and when one is killed the other generally devours him.

Just Spending the Day.

A woman from out of town walked into one of the big hotels the other morning and wrote her name on the register.

"What, madam," said the room clerk, with one of those engaging smiles for which he is famous, "can I offer you in the way of a room?"

"Oh, I don't want a room," was the reply. "I am just spending the day here."

"Good thing some people spend more than that with us," remarked the clerk to himself as she turned smilingly away.—New York Times.

A Lawyer's Bill.

A lawyer's bill, like the plumber's, is full of detail. I have just seen a specimen sent to a business friend of mine, who, anxious to settle up his account, telephoned to his lawyer. The bill came in with elaborate detail, and the last item was, "To attending you on the telephone in answer to your request for bill, $5.04." My friend vowed he would see them in—chancery before he paid that and struck it out.—London Chronicle.

Bobby's Idea.

"Bobby, I suppose you say your prayers every night."
