HARK! OVER EUROPE SOUNDING.

BY CHARLES MACKAY.

HARR I over Europe sounding, The first, the signal gan ! The fire has burst-the blow is struck-A fatal deed is done ! From North to South It echoes; From East to West afar, Th' insulted masons join their hands. And gather to the war.

From restless slumber waking, The thunder in her car. Unhappy Polandstarts to life, And grasps her broken spear. Old Rome grows young to lear it -There's misculef in her glance! And Hungary mounts her battle steed. And waves her flery lance.

Not long shall last the combat :-Though Russia laugh to scorn, The wrongful cause, if up to-day, Is down to morrow morn! When Franco unites with England, Beware defeat and shame, Yo foes of right, who force the fight, And fan the needless flame !

Hark ! over Europe sounding, The first, the signal gun 1 But when the last loud cannon pent Shall tell of victory wen, lle sure, ye proud aggressors, Your hours shall not be long ! They may not, shall not, cannot win, Who buttle in the wrong.
