

ernment action in encouraging local production and purchasing and in educating tourists about local products, Canada could assist significantly by directing more of its assistance to production related to tourism, and by adopting co-operative policies in other fields.

3. The possibility of enlarged duty-free exemptions for Canadian tourists returning from the Caribbean was discussed at the 1966 Conference. While acknowledging the merit of the Canadian Government's reservations about discriminatory measures of this kind, the Senate Committee considers that it would be desirable to extend especially favourable treatment to developing countries in general. The Committee recommends that special consideration be given to this proposal, which could be of great immediate benefit to developing areas such as the Caribbean.

Duty-Free Exemption for Canadian Tourists