

researches of Dr. Richardson and others who have so thoroughly investigated the nature and effects of Alcohol. The statements made and facts adduced in this little work are all based upon competent and reliable authority, and it is the author's sincere hope that it may contribute in some degree to the instruction of the rising generation in sound temperance principles.

The valuable suggestions and kind criticisms of several friends are hereby gratefully acknowledged

PICTON, June, 1883.

